Stimson Makes Public Text of Rome Reply on Conference.

PARITY WITH FRANCE TO BE INSISTED UPON

ACCEPTANCE CALLED "UNCONDITIONAL ONE

Nation Wishes to Take Part "in Any Move" That May Reduce War Peril.

Secretary of State Stimson made public today the text of what he described as Italy's "unconditional" acceptance of the British invitation for the five-power naval conference in London.

As expected, Italy calls attention to her insistence upon parity with France, and her preference for global tonnage rather than limitation by categories. She reaffirms her belief that all forms of disarmament are interrelated, but she declares her desire to participate "in any move whatsoever that may be proposed for the elimination of the losses and dangers of excessive armaments," and voices the hope that the London naval conference will "result in real progress toward the solution of the general problem of disarmament."

Mr. Stimson announced, also, that the Italian ambassador had called to assure him that Italy accepted "gladly and unconditionally" the text of the translated reply, the original of which went to London, but a copy of which was handed to the American Embassy in Rome and cabled to the State Department.

Text of Answer.

It follows:

"The Italian government has considered most seriously the note of the 7th, in which the secretaryp of state for foreign affairs, after having informed the Italian government of the points upon which a provisional and informal agreement was reached between the British government and the United States Government in the course of the conversations on the subject of naval disarmament, proposed to the royal government that it participate in a conference to be held in London, at the beginning of the third week of next January for the purpose of considering the categories of ships not covered by the Washington Treaty of 1922 and in order to deal with the questions covered by the second paragraph of article 21 of that treaty.

"The aim of this conference to which the powers signatory to the Washington Treaty are invited should be to elaborate a text to facilitate the task of the League of Nations preparatory commission and of the subsequent general disarmament conference.

"The views of the Italian government on the problem of disarmament in general and of naval disarmament in particular are too well known to the British government to require further declarations with regard theeto. These views have been clearly expressed on repeated occasions and ultimately in the note verbale addressed to the British embassy in Rome on October 6, 1928, in reply to the communication relative to the proposed Franco-British naval agreement of the last year.

Hope of Progress Felt.

"Desirous as always of participating in any move whatsoever that may be proposed for the elimination of the losses and dangers of excessive armaments and entertaining the hope that the general initiative may result in real progress toward the solution of the general problem of disarmament, the Italian government is happy to accept the invitation of the British government to participate in the London conference.

"The Italian government takes due notice of the British government's proposal to communicate to it the British views on the subjects to be discussed at the conference and while waiting for these communications, it is considering, in its turn, informing the British government of its own point of view on the matter."

The note verbale, referred to, which rejected the shortlived Franco-British naval compromise attempted after the Geneva failure, set forth Italy's contention, that sea, land and air disarmament are all one problem and quoted Premier Mussolini's statement to the Italian Senate that Italy "is willing a priori to accept as the limit of her armament any figure, even the lowest, provided this is not exceeded by any continental European country."

Global Tonnage Preferred.

This alluded to tIaly's demand for parity with France. The note verbale also cited Italy's preference for Global tonnage, which she then held is the only method which "leaves each country free to employ its tonnage as best suits its particular needs, thus balancing in some measure the superiority of other powers."

But the note verbale, like the acceptance of the London invitation, left the way open for Italy to follow France in agreeing to limitation by Categories. The note verbale added that Italy was prepared to support any practical scheme of disarmament which "tends to the consolidation and reconstruction of Europe."

All Official Replies Received by Britain

London, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The British government tonight had received official replies accepting its invitations in every instance to a five-power naval conference here in January and also expressions of willingness to participate in proposed preliminary discussions of the problems of limitations.

The texts of both the Italian and French replies were at once published. Italy expressed the desire to collaborate in any step calculated to eliminate the dangers of excessive armaments and said its view on the subject was too well known to require elaboration.

The French reply was regarded as even more cordial. The French government "congratulates itself" that the Washington conversations have taken such a favorable turn and declared itself "happy" to accept the invitation.

The text of the Japanese acceptance had also been received, but has not been made public. There is, however, no question that it is highly sympathetic.

JAPANESE ANSWER CITES FIVE POINTS

RATIO NOT MENTIONED

Tokyo, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The Japanese reply to the British invitation to participate in a naval conference in London in January was telegraphed today to Ambassador Matsudaira at London for transmission to the British foreign office. It was understood to be an unreserved acceptance.

The Japanese reply probably will be published in Tokyo and London simultaneously, either Friday or Saturday. It was understood to total about 800 words, containing five principal points.

These five points were:

(1) Japan's pleasure that Anglo-American conversationts have opened the way for a general naval conference.

(2) Acceptance of the Kellogg pact as a basis for further disarmament negotiations.

(3) Willingness to participate in the conference opening in London during the third week in January.

(4) Agreement to restudy the Washington treaty schedules of capital ship replacement with a view to their reduction.

(5) Indication of intention fully to avail itself of Great Britain's invitation to participate in preliminary conversations.

It was indicated authoritatively that the reply omitted any reference to Japan's desire for a 10-10-7 cruiser ratio, inasmuch as these and other concrete points were being stressed by Ambassador Matsudaira in preliminary conversations at London.

Premier Yuko Hamaguchi today, at the Imperial Palace, obtained the sanction of Emperor Hirohito to acceptance of the invitation. The text of the reply to the British note was approved by the cabinet yesterday.

Members of the Japanese delegation to the naval conference will go by way of America, it was learned last night. They will sail on the Shinyo Maru from Yokohama on December 6, and will be due to arrive in San Francisco on December 20.

The Rengo News Agency said the chairman of the delegation might Paris Answer Insists That All Armament Is Involved.

ASKS PARLEY LINKED TO LEAGUE PROGRAM

PLEASURE EXPRESSED AT DISCUSSIONS HERE

Quai Glad Kellogg Treaty Furnished Ground for U. S.-British Accord.

Paris, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The French government's acceptance of Great Britain's invitation to participate in the five-power naval conference in London next January was forwarded to Ambassador de Fleuriau today for transmission to the British foreign office.

The note of acceptance was purposely reticent, but is interpreted as reaffirming the French view that any naval disarmament discussions must take into consideration the question of disarmament as a whole.

The French government, while it is ready to accept any common movement for reduction of naval armaments, will insist that anything done by the London conference shall be regarded as merely preparatory to the work of the League of Nations disarmament commission.

The French reply expresses particular satisfaction over the fact that Great Britain and the United States found in the Kellogg-Briand pact "a precious element for the realization between them of an understanding in principle concerning naval armaments, which seemed to them to respond to their requirements for security."

It notes that the British government, after coming to an understanding at Washington, proposes to extend the scope of the conversations to include powers that appear specially interested in the solution of the naval problem, with a view to a general conference in the future for the limitation and reduction of armaments.

The note says that the French government has already shown a desire for the prompt conclusion of the preparatory work for that conference, so that it could not fail to be satisfied with this proposal.

France has remarked with satisfaction thta the British foreign minister has pointed out that preliminary conversations will take place with France and other interested governments concerning the questions to be discussed—this could only be advantageous, because it will furnish the governments an opportunity to give their points of view with precision.

Three Die, Seven Hurt In Head-On Rail Crash

Hancock, N. H., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Two freight trains of the Boston & Maine Railroad were in collision head on today near the Nahor station on the single track Peterboro branch causing the deaths of three of the crews and injuries to seven others. The dead were: William F. Crosby, engineer, Nashua; Frank M. Chapman, engineer, Hudson, and F. C. Spaulding, fireman, Hudson.

The two locomotives were reduced to a mass of tangled debris by the collision and it was not until several hours later that wrecking crews extricated the dead. The injured men were taken to the Peterboro Hospital.

(Associated Press.)

Examination of the $70,000 annual expenditure in Washington of the United States Beet Sugar Association was made yesterday by the Senate lobby investigating committee, as it turned to the campaign over the proposed increase in the sugar duty in the pending tariff measure.

H. A. Austin, secretary and treasurer of the association, was the lone witness of the day, relating that $56,230 had been spent in the first nine months of the year, principally in contributions to various publications and office expenses.

Asked by Chairman Caraway, of the committee, if he thought his services in Washington had been influential in producing the increase provided in the sugar duty by the tariff bill, Austin replied he thought "it isn't absolutely necessary for business to have Washington representatives, but it is helpful."

"Standouts" in Wastebasket.

Austin said his organization, including nineteen sugar companies and representing 90 per cent of the sugar production, cooperated with the Domestic Sugar Producers Association, which maintains a press bureau here to distribute press releases to the newspapers and newspaper reporters. He did not know how many or which papers used the releases, but said he though most of the releases "went into the wastebasket."

Naming some "lobbyists" interested in the other side of the sugar controversy, Austin was asked for his definition of lobbyists. He divided them into four classifications.

The first class the witness named as those who have money invested in a business or are officials who come to Washington periodically to present their views on matters pertaining to their business.

The second class, he said, was those "organized trade associations, such as ours, who maintain offices in Washington to disseminate information

FORCING SEEN OF DEBENTURE IN TARIFF BILL

SPEEDY PASSAGE IS HELD POSSIBLE

DEBATE ON RATES LIKELY NEXT WEEK

Waterman and Brookhart Introduce Amendments to Measure.

(Associated Press.)

The tariff situation became more complicated than ever yesterday with expressions of confidence by Democratic and Western Republicans that they had enough votes to insert the export debenture plan in the Hawley-Smoot bill.

Leaders of the same coalition which placed the debenture in the farm relief measure over the protest of President Hoover, only to have it eliminated after the House went on record overwhelmingly against it, said they were ready for a vote on the proposition now and claimed it would pass with a comfortable majority. It won by three votes in the farm bill contest.

Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, author of the new debenture plan, under which certificates amounting to half the tariff on farm commodities would be issued to the Farm Board by the Treasury and used to help the farmer get a better price for the crops he exports, proposes to offer the plan after the Senate completes action on the administrative sections of the bill.

No progress was made on the bill yesterday, the Senate laying it aside temporarily to consider the nominations of the Federal Farm Board members. Rates are not expected to be reached until next week.

Quick Action Promised.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, said not over a day would be necessary to pass on the debenture plan. Personally, he said, he would be willing to call for a vote an hour after it is brought up.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, a leader of the Republican independent group, said a poll had been started on the debenture, and so far it indicated sufficient strength to pass it. Republican regulars were noncommittal.

Should the bill go to the House with the debenture in it, the coalition opposition to the administration believes it will have a chance of keeping in the bill either this or the Democratic substitute approved by

Crushing Blow Again Dealt Stock Market

Deluge of Selling Orders Washes Away Two Million Dollars in Quoted Prices in Secondary Reaction Coming Late in Day.

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The stock market received its second crushing blow within a fortnight today when a deluge of selling orders poured into the market, and washed away more than two billion dollars in quoted values. Extreme declines in scores of active issues ranged from $5 to $30 a share, with final quotations generally around the low levels of the day. Trading had been dull until midafternoon, when the selling assumed huge proportions with the result that the day's sales barely crossed the 4,000,000 share mark as against 5,623,900 on October 4 and 8,246,740 in the record-breaking session of March 26 last.

While today's decline was generally characterized as a "secondary reaction," which invariably follows the first prolonged rally after a drastic shake-out as took place earlier in the month, the selling movement gained considerable impetus from two unfavorable developments in the day's news. These were the announcement that freight car loadings in the week ended October 5 fell below the corresponding week of the previous year for the first time since March, and only the second time this year, and the report that steel shipments to the automobile manufacturers are at the lowest level in 18 months, coincident with a sharp falling off in steel output below the level of a year ago.

Wall street has been taught to believe that freight car loadings and steel output are two of the most reliable barometers of general business, so that the decline in each, regardless of the fact that many observers regard it as temporary, had a disturbing effect on speculative sentiment. Professional traders also were obviously displeased at the pointed remarks regarding inflation of power and light securities by the Massachusetts Public Utility Commission on its recent decision denying an application for a stock split-up which, while they had no direct reference to securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange, nevertheless were construed by many as bearing on the general price situation in that group.

The index of 20 leading public utility stocks, compiled for the Associated Press by the Standard Statistics Co., dropped 19.7 points to 303.4, which contrasts with the year's high established less than a month ago and 309.0 on October 4, when the index dropped 4.1 points after having dropped 18.7 the day before. Neither the index of 50 leading industrials or 20 leading rails dropped below the early October figures, although the former dropped 7.1 and the latter 2.1 in today's market.

Thousands of small traders, who hung on during the early October break and failed to sell in the rally which followed or else added to their

SIDNEY F. TALIAFERRO.

MISSIVE "DEPLORES" IDEA OF INEFFICIENCY

HINT OF DOUGHERTY RESIGNATION DENIED

When the Sackett subcommittee meets this afternoon to map out a program for its investigation of District affairs and officials, it will have before it a letter from Commissioner Sidney F. Taliaferro defending himself and his various departments and several letters from citizens accusing local police of grafting.

In a letter to Senator Frederic M. Sackett (Republican), of Kentucky, who will direct the investigation, Commissioner Taliaferro "deplores" the blanket suggestion in the Blease resolution that there is inefficiency and corruption "upon the part of the Commissioners."

Taliaferro confines his letter to a defense of himself and the departments under his jurisdiction, and has nothing to say in defense of the other two city heads—Commissioner William B. Ladue, who has charge of the Engineering Department, and Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty, who has jurisdiction over the Fire and Police Departments. The latter department has been particularly under fire of late.

Resignation Hint Denied.

It was reported yesterday that the White House had sent Dougherty a hint that his resignation would be acceptable, but both the White House and Dougherty denied this was true.

The graft charges which the subcommittee will consider today are contained in letters which have been sent to the Senate District committee since Senator Cole A. Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, introduced his resolution for an investigation of local affairs.

The letters purport to give detailed information and are signed by those who sent them in. There also are several anonymous letters, but these will not be considered.

Commissioner Taliaferro sent his letter to Senator Hackett on Sunday, the day after the Sackett subcommittee had been given the task of conducting the investigation authorized by the Blease resolution.

Ladue Refuses Comment.

Commissioner Ladue said yesterday that he had not seen the letter, and therefore had no comment.

Commissioner Dougherty said that Taliaferro had shown him the letter, but he would have nothing to say about it.

In his letter, Taliaferro quotes the preamble of the Blease resolution, which reads as follows:

"Whereas numerous reports and newspaper editorials and articles have appeared and are now daily appearing in reference to the official conduct of those in charge of the Police Department, the district attorney's office, and the District Commissioners and those in public offices connected with the government of the District of Columbia, which reports, if true, show inefficiency and corruption in said government, and which, if true, should cause the immediate dismissal of all who are connected with the control of these departments, and which, if not true, should be as early as possible shown to be exaggerated."

Jurisdiction Pointed Out.

He then points out that the various branches of the District government

SENATE CONFIRMS FARM BOARD MEN

NORRIS EXPLAINS STAND

Confirmation of the eight men selected by President Hoover to administer the farm relief act was voted overwhelmingly yesterday by the Senate.

Contests were waged against only three of the men—Alexander Legge, of Chicago, the chairman and business representative; Samuel R. McKelvie, of Nebraska, wheat representative; and Carl Williams, of Oklahoma, for cotton.

Roll calls were taken only on these three, the others receiving approval without record votes. Legge was approved, 67 to 13; McKelvie, 50 to 27, and Williams, 57 to 20.

The leaders of the Democrats and Republican Independents, who twice put the export debenture principle of farm relief into the farm bill over President Hoover's objections before the House, finally rejected it, joined yesterday to express a willingness to give the President his own board to administer his own act.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, voted for all the nominees. Senator Borah, of the Republican Independents, supported Legge but voted against both McKelvie and Williams. Senator Norris, of Nebraska, of this group, voted against Legge and Williams, but refrained from voting on McKelvie.

DRUG ROW HINTED IN NURSE'S MURDER

Mrs. McPherson Unwilling Tool in Traffic, Is Theory Presented.

HAD OBTAINED NARCOTICS

Did a man wield a sinister power over Virginia Hurley McPherson to force her to act as an unwilling tool for an illicit traffic in narcotic drugs?

Was the pretty young nurse, whose body was found on the floor of her Park Lane apartment on September 14, garooted with the silken cord of her pajamas because she revolted and threatened to "finger the racket" unless her malevolent mentor acceded to her demand to leave me alone?

An earlier construction placed upon information believed to have been obtained by the Department of Justice presented the possibility that the diminutive nurse may have been in possession of information which threatened the safety of some person or gang engaged in illegitimate enterprise, but did not connect her in any active role in the "racket."

There is now strong reason to believe, however, that Mrs McPherson may have been forced to supply another person with narcotics, either for personal use or for redistribution to addicts in Washington, or both.

In her capacity as a nurse, Mrs. McPherson had access to such drugs, and is known to have had narcotics at various times; a quantity of morphine was among her possessions at the time of her death.

Some time ago, too, it was revealed that Virginia McPherson had obtained prescriptions for narcotics Agents Find Warehouse Containing Liquor and Wireless.

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Striking suddenly along a wide front extending from Atlantic, N. J., to the eastern tip of Long Island, a small army of Federal agents and New Jersey State troopers today conducted one of the most elaborately planned offensives against bootleggers in recent years.

Promptly at the stroke of 4:30 p. m., which had been assigned as the "zero hour," the officers conducted 35 simultaneous raids. They arrested at least 32 men and reported that they had uncovered a fortified liquor storehouse in Highlands, N. J., and an unlicensed radio broadcasting station near town which, they said, was used in communicating with rum ships along the Atlantic Coast.

Policeman Allen Arrests Broker; Larceny Charged

Says He Will Inquire Into District Attorney's Failure to Bring W. L. Moffatt, His Prisoner, to Trial on Old Indictments.

Acting on the complaints of two men who claim to have lost more than $60,000 in financial transactions, Policeman Robert J. Allen, of McPherson case fame, yesterday arrested William Lee Moffatt, an investment broker, on charges of larceny after trust.

Moffatt was arrested on a warrant sworn to by Harrison Orndorff, of 1321 Fairmont street northwest.

Moffatt's bond was fixed at $15,000 and at an early hour this morning he had been unable to obtain it. Moffatt, court records show, already has several indictments pending against him.

Allen said last night he intends to immediately investigate to ascertain why the District Attorney's office has failed to bring Moffatt to trial on one of the several indictments pending against him.

Allen said when he received information concerning Moffatt he obtained permission from his precinct commander, Capt. Robert Emmett Doyle, of the Eighth Precinct, to investigate the case as "a plain clothes officer."

Although Allen now is assigned to the Eighth Precinct he arrested Moffatt in his old territory, the Third Precinct. A policeman from the Third Precinct assisted in the arrest, however.

"Wait a minute, I will call for my car," Moffatt was quoted as saying when Allen informed him he was in custody.

"In a few minutes a liveried chauffeur arrived," Allen said, "and we went to the station in a high-priced limousine."

Moffatt refused to comment last are allotted among the three Commissioners, those under his jurisdiction including the corporation counsel's office, auditor's office, assessor's office, collector of taxes office, purchasing office, insurance department, playground department, and board of accountancy. He also points out that the Board of Public Welfare makes its reports through him.

"Having been honored with an appointment which I did not seek," Taliaferro continues, "I am conscious of nearly three years of hard work and unswerving effort as an official of the District of Columbia, and I can but deplore a blanket suggestion of possible inefficiency and corruption upon the part of the Commissioners, based upon * * * numerous reports and newspaper editorials and articles * * *."

Taliaferro then lists the investigations that have been made of the District government by the Gibson subcommittee and the Bureau of Efficiency, and concludes with a statement that he, as well as the heads of the departments under him, will welcome an opportunity to appear before the Sackett subcommittee.

Long Session Expected.

That the investigation will be long-drawn-out now seems certain. It would not be surprising, in fact, if it lasted far into the regular session which begins in December.

Senator Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, is one of the members of the subcommittee who is dead set against inquiring into the McPherson case until it has been settled in the courts.

If inefficiency was displayed in the investigation of that case, he said, there is no better place to prove it than in the court room at the actual trial of McPherson. After that, he said, the subcommittee will be in possession of the facts, and in a position to pass judgment on the police officials involved.

"So far as the Chinatown phase of the investigation goes, however, there is no reason why we couldn't start that right now," Vandenberg said.

Blease Has Questions.

And that, no doubt, is what will happen. There are three things that Senator Cole Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, wants to inquire into. He wants to know, first, why an indictment was delayed in the tong murder of Lee King; secondly, why certain rich tong leaders are given revolver permits and those in a rival tong are denied them; and, third, about the selling of opium in Chinatown.

The principal witnesses to be called when the subcommittee sets out on this phase of the investigation probably will be United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Police Judge Gus A. Schuldt. It is understood that Rover is prepared to give a detailed explanation about the delay in the Lee King case, and that Schuldt is ready to explain how gun permits are issued.

The subcommittee that will meet this morning is made up of Sackett, Vandenberg, Blease and two others—Jones (Republican), of Washington, and Copeland (Democrat), of New York.

Job Not Relished.

Some of these senators make no secret of the fact that they do not relish the task ahead of them. At the same time, however, they realize that it is their duty to go ahead with it and are determined to do so.

One thing that bothers them is the language in the Blease resolution. They wish, for example, that it were more specific.

In the preamble, the resolution states that charges of inefficiency and corruption have been aimed at local officials, and declares that these officials either should be dismissed or exonerated.

It then goes on to demand an explanation of the delay in the Lee King case, an explanation of the system of issuing gun permits and finally asks why Policeman Allen was suspended and why he was "assaulted" when he was being relieved of duty.

The "assault" on Allen was not nearly so spectacular as it sounds. If it was an assault at all it was a technical one and happened in this way: When Inspector William Shelby was suspending Policeman Allen he asked him for his revolver. When Allen said he did not have it Shelby insisted on searching him. That constituted the assault.

Since the Blease resolution was adopted, however, information has poured in at the Capitol which, if investigated, might result in findings far more sensational than any promised by the resolution itself.

Detroit River Rum Raid Ignored by Grand Jury

Detroit, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—A Federal grand jury today refused to return indictments against Mrs. Louis Mendelssohn, P. L. Stokes, captain of the yacht Margo, and James Nolan, steward of the yacht, in connection with the discovery of a cache of liquor aboard the vessel in the Detroit River last summer.

The yacht, owned by Arthur Massee, of Chicago, was under charter to the Mendelssohns at the time the liquor was discovered. Mendelssohn had planned a cruise in the Great Lakes, but shortly before the trip was to start customs officers came aboard and discovered liquor valued at $10,000.

Text of Letter

October 13, 1929.

Senator Frederic M. Sackett, Chairman Subcommittee on Police and Fire, Committee on the District of Columbia, United States Senate, Washington, D. C.

My Dear Senator Sackett:

On October 12, 1929, there was referred to your subcommittee, Senate Resolution 127, providing for an investigation of the Government of the District of Columbia. The preamble to the resolution reads:

Whereas numerous reports and newspaper editorials and articles have appeared and are now daily appearing in reference to the official conduct of those in charge of the police department, the detective department, the district attorney's office, and the District Commissioners and those in public offices connected with the government of the District of Columbia, which reports, if true, show inefficiency and corruption in said government, and which, if true, should cause the immediate dismissal of all who are connected with the control of these departments, and which, if not true, should be as early as possible shown to be exaggerated.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia function under the law as a Board, but from considerations of practical necessity in the conduct of a business of over $40,000,000 annually, apportion and allot among themselves the several departments of the Municipal Government. Those branches of the municipal organization, of which I have direct charge and responsibility, are: Corporation Counsel's office, auditor's office, assessor's office, collector of taxes' office, purchasing office, insurance department, playground department, and Board of Accountancy. The Board of Public Welfare, set up under authority of law to have direct control of all District of Columbia correctional and charitable institutions, reports through me to the Board of Commissioners.

Having been honored with an appointment which I did not seek, I am conscious of nearly three years of hard work and unswerving effort as an official of the District of Columbia, and I can but deplore a blanket suggestion of possible inefficiency and corruption upon the part of the Commissioners, based upon "* * * numerous reports and newspaper editorials and articles. * * *"

Prior to my incumbency, the Gibson subcommittee of the committee on the District of Columbia of the House of Representatives began a general investigation into the affairs of the municipal government. That subcommittee has reported from time to time, but has not, as I believe, filed its final report. For several years the United States Bureau of Efficiency has investigated various departments of the municipal government and many of its recommendations and those of the Gibson subcommittee have been adopted and made effective.

None of the departments directly under me have been referred to in Senate resolution 127, but if your subcommittee is disposed to inquire into them, I will welcome, as I am sure the heads of all departments directly under me will welcome, an opportunity to present any matter of fact desired and to assist your subcommittee in every way possible.

Respectfully yours,

SIDNEY F. TALIAFERRO.

Mrs. E. A. Horsey Is Killed by Auto

Winchester Woman Long Active in Church and Civic Work.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 16.—Mrs. Elizabeth A. Horsey, 60, member of an old and prominent family and long actively identified with religious, patriotic and philanthropic enterprises was killed instantly tonight when struck by an automobile in front of her suburban home, Shannon Hill, on the Berryville pike. The car is said to have been driven by R. A. Carter, who was arrested by police and later released on bond. It was said Mrs. Horsey had just alighted from a car and stepped around to cross the road when Carter's machine came along. Her skull was fractured.

She was a daughter of the late Samuel R. Atwell, sr., wealthy business man and postmaster, and with her brother, Samuel P. Atwell, jr., now of Roanoke, Va., inherited their father's extensive estate. Her husband, who died some years ago, was William O. Horsey, formerly of Maryland, and engaged in business here. She was a member of Market Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Ladies' National Memorial Association, and other local organizations. Only last week she offered to deed her suburban home to city and county authorities as a permanent home for friendless children and the county tentatively accepted the offer. Her brother is her only survivor.

HOWELL REQUESTS PRATT'S AID ON RUM

FAILS AT DEPARTMENTS

If what he has heard is true, a recent convention in Washington tried to buy 7,000 quarts of whisky for its thirsty delegates, Senator Howell (Republican), of Nebraska, told Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, yesterday.

"Did they get the 7,000 quarts?" the senator was asked afterward by a reporter.

"I don't know," he said, "but I suppose they got something. I understand that the convention had an official bootlegger whose job it was to get the liquor."

Senator Howell, who recently charged that prohibition enforcement here was not all it should be and next day was called upon by President Hoover to give proof, called on Maj. Pratt yesterday to ask for his cooperation and also to discuss his proposed bill to give Washington an enforcement act.

Pratt Welcomes Aid.

Pratt told Howell that he was always welcome to inspect the records of the Police Department, and said that he was in favor of making it easier for the department to enforce the prohibition law.

In his dealings with the Treasury and State Departments, Howell revealed yesterday, he was not so successful. The two departments declined to give him certain information he wanted in connection with the transportation into Washington of diplomatic liquor, saying that it would be unfair to the diplomats.

"I am amazed," Howell said afterward. "Think of it. The President asks me to cite instances of law violation, and two of his executive departments refuse to help me dig up such information."

Wanted Certain Records.

Howell explained that all he wanted were certain records that would show what steamship brought diplomatic liquor to Baltimore and what trucking firms brought it to Washington. He felt that the State and Treasury Departments could give him this information without in any way involving the diplomats, but the departments couldn't see it his way.

Howell contends that the steamship company and the trucking company that transport diplomatic liquor are both violating the law.

NURSE SLAIN IN ROW OVER DRUGS, THEORY

frequently, from at least one prominent physician in Washington.

That Mrs. McPherson used drugs of any kind herself is considered extremely doubtful, although this will not become known until a report is made on the chemical analysis of her viscera, now nearing completion in the laboratory of the University of North Carolina. While the Department of Justice had this analysis made in an effort to discover possible traces of poison or drugs, it is not expected that any positive evidence will be found. Officials of the Bureau of Investigation expect to receive this report today from Dr. James I. Bullitt, pathologist of the university, who is making the analysis.

Evidence is believed to have been discovered, however, which would show that the prescriptions given to Mrs. McPherson were turned over to a man who had them filled at a pharmacy in Washington.

That a person of Mrs. McPherson's nature would resent strongly any circumstances which might force her to occupy a position as a source of narcotic supply is readily credible, and that she would rebel strenuously against any such malignant influence is conceded as beyond question.

Who this man may have been, or what gave him his power over the attractive young nurse, does not appear definitely in the evidence now in hand, it is believed, but the Federal operatives are believed to be following up a number of clews and piecing together bits of information obtained from various witnesses, which it is hoped will soon provide a solution to the mystery which has baffled the most skilled minds of Washington for more than a month.

No new arrests are expected, however, at least for the present. Whether any arrests may be suggested by the Federal agents at some future time will depend entirely upon what is disclosed when certain links now missing from the chain of evidence are fitted into place.

Information now in the hands of the Department of Justice, after interviewing more than 200 witnesses in the last two weeks, is believed to cast suspicion upon at least four persons as the possible slayers of Mrs. McPherson, although at the present stage of the investigation in none of these four instances are there sufficient facts at hand to complete the evidence and warrant conviction.

The Federal operatives, however, have by no means exhausted their channels of investigation, and are confident that before their efforts are concluded they will have solved the mystery of Mrs. McPherson's death, for which her husband, Robert A. McPherson, jr., is now in the District Jail under an indictment for first degree murder.

E. J. Connelly, the Department of Justice agent who was in charge of the exhumation and second autopsy performed on Mrs. McPherson's body at Kannapolis, N. C., on Monday, returned to Washington yesterday and submitted a lengthy report to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation, and John E. Laskey, the special prosecutor appointed by Attorney General William D. Mitchell.

While no information was obtainable as to the nature of Connelly's report, it is believed to have corroborated earlier information that the autopsy showed no traces of an illegal operation, fractured skull, broken neck, or other injuries which rumor had indicated might be found.

The Department of Justice is believed now to have reached the stage of classifying and rechecking various bits of evidence in order to sift out the chaff and fit the actual facts into a finished picture which will show beyond question the exact manner of Mrs. McPherson's death and pin the guilt upon her slayer. It is believed that practically every possibility of suicide has been eliminated, and the task remaining now is to fill in the gap in evidence and establish definitely the method and personnel of the murder drama.

POLICE STILL WORK ON SCRIVENER CASE

SLAYER HUNT GOES ON

The death of former Detective Sergt. Arthur B. Scrivener is carried on the police records as a murder and every effort has been made to discover his slayer and will continue to be made, Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, told Gov. Harry Byrd, of Virginia, in a letter yesterday replying to a communication from the governor.

Gov. Byrd had written Maj. Pratt, enclosing a telegram he had received from the father and mother of the dead detective asking him to use his good offices in having the case thoroughly investigated.

Maj. Pratt said that the Scrivener death had been thoroughly investigated by the Police Department at the time and had been officially declared a murder by the coroner's jury.

"The investigation," the police chief continued, "has been continued and all information received by the department has been carefully investigated, but to date no evidence has been uncovered which would establish the identity of the murderer.

"The case is still pending upon our records, being carried as a murder, and every attention has been and will be given by the department to the investigation of any new developments which may be obtained."

Maj. Pratt yesterday denied that the department had failed to investigate the whereabouts of a friend of Scrivener at the time the detective was slain. A newspaper story said that this friend shortly afterwards had married Scrivener's fiancee. A check by police of Miami, Fla., Pratt said, showed that the man had been in Florida for some time prior to Scrivener's death.

night. He said he first wanted to consult his attorney.

Records at the District Supreme Court reveal that Moffatt has two indictments pending against him, one of which was returned in January, 1928, and the other in November, 1927.

Conversion Is Charged.

The first indictment contains four counts, all pertaining to his handling of five notes and cash belonging to Christian Stoll. The first count charges that Moffatt converted five notes of $1,000 each, belonging to Stoll, signed by Howard Etchison, and secured by deeds of trust, to his own use.

The second count alleges that on October, 1927, Moffatt used for his own benefit the sum of $4,000 intrusted to him to apply for the benefit of Christian and Ida K. Stoll. The third and fourth counts of this indictment specifically charge him with misrepresenting and misappropriating the five notes and $4,000 belonging to Stoll.

This indictment charges also that Moffatt misrepresented the fact when he is alleged to have said the Riggs National Bank was backing his company, the Bankers Investment Trust Corporation.

The second indictment charged Moffatt with misuse of nine notes of $1,000 each, which were the property of Maria T. Pauli. It charges that the notes which were intrusted to him were converted to his own use.

The second count of this indictment specifically charges that on October 4, 1927, Moffatt misused twelve notes intrusted to him by Maria Pauli.

Stalin, "Strong Man," Returns to Moscow

Moscow, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Joseph Stalin, secretary general of the central committee of the Communist party and "strong man" of Soviet Russia, returned today with renewed health from a vacation. He took up once more his official duties.

On April 30 Stalin was said to have suffered a paralytic shock, but he recovered sufficiently to take an active part in the Communist convention early in the summer and to direct reconstruction of several government departments.

FALL JURY IS TOLD OF DOHENY OIL BID

END OF TRIAL IS NEAR

(Associated Press.)

Testimony that Edward L. Doheny had consented to bid on the Pearl Harbor-Elk Hills contract only after "the horrors" a war might bring to the Pacific Coast had been sketched to him was placed before the jury trying Albert B. Fall for bribery late yesterday by Capt. John K. Robison, who held the rank of rear admiral while chief of engineers of the Navy.

Examined by defense counsel, he said he had pleaded with Doheny to undertake the work as a matter of patriotism after the oil man had said he was not interested. Robison testified he had been placed in charge of the oil reserves and negotiations by Edwin Denby, then Secretary of the Navy.

It was necessary to security of the Pacific Coast to have oil at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, the witness said, in detailing the work leading up to the awarding of the contract to Doheny's company. Fall is charged with having accepted a bribe of $100,000 from the oil man for awarding that contract while Secretary of Interior in the Harding Cabinet.

The witness told of a conference with Doheny after the judge advocate general of the Navy had ruled it was legal to exchange royalty oil for storage facilities in Pearl Harbor. He said Doheny told him he had submitted a proposition to the Interior Department, but officials of his company had objected and he was no longer interested.

He then appealed to Doheny's patriotism, Robison testified, after "sketching the horrors" of a war that might come to the Pacific Coast. Doheny was excited by the recital, the witness related, and said that at least one bid would be submitted, perhaps not by his company, but by a company that would not expect to make profit out of the deal.

On cross-examination Robison said he knew Fall had ordered that final action on the Pearl Harbor contract not be taken until submitted to him. Owen J. Roberts, special Government counsel, questioned Robison sharply and drew from him the assertion that he was surprised at a request by Fall that the contract contain a clause giving Doheny's companies preference to Elk Hills leases.

Prior to Robison's appearance, H. Foster Bain, former director of the Bureau of Mines, completed his testimony intended by the defense to show he had endeavored to secure bids on the Pearl Harbor contract from a number of oil companies.

On cross-examination the Government brought from Bain testimony that Fall had caused it to be understood by Interior Department executives that no oil lease could be signed without submitting it to him and that papers in the Pearl Harbor-Elk Hills contract were submitted to him before the contract was signed.

A number of Fall's New Mexico neighbors were called to the stand today as character witnesses. They had known Fall for years, they testified, and said his reputation for honesty and integrity was high.

The defense case progressed so rapidly today that Frank Hogan, chief Fall counsel, announced he expected to conclude Friday morning so that the closing arguments could be made and the case go to the jury by Saturday noon.

Yeggs Fail in Bank Robbery Attempt

Cambridge, Md., Oct. 16.—A party of yeggs, apparently three in number, early this morning unsuccessfully tried to rob the East Newmarket Bank of the Eastern Shore Trust Co. of Cambridge.

They sawed through the bars of a rear window, blinded the front windows with heavy paper, moved the 3,500-pound safe into a rear room with crow bars and attempted to burn a hole into the safe, succeeding only in burning some of the paper money and securities, which can be redeemed. They used gloves and left no fingerprints. The same or a similar gang nearly succeeded in burning away the combination of the vault of the Citizens Bank of Hurlock a few weeks ago.

Winchester Hospital Given Highest Rating

Winchester, Va., Oct. 16.—Winchester Memorial Hospital has been continued on the fully approved, or highest standard list of the American College of Surgeons, according to announcement received today from Dr. Franklin H. Martin, president of the association, with headquarters in Chicago. The local hospital has been on the list of standardized hospitals for some years.

With 120 beds, it now is the fourth largest hospital in Virginia, not including several operated by the Federal Government for service men. Larger hospitals are St. Vincent's and the Norfolk Protestant at Norfolk and the University Hospital at the University of Virginia. Forty-two Virginia hospitals are on the accredited list.

DEBENTURE CLAUSE IN TARIFF BILL SEEN

the Senate for the finance committee flexible tariff plan.

Rather than have both proposals eliminated by the conference on the bill between the Senate and House, it is believed the Senate coalition would prefer to have no tariff bill.

Edge Confers With Hoover.

For the third time within a week, a Republican member of the finance committee yesterday talked tariff with the President. Senator Edge, New Jersey, discussed the general situation with Hoover.

The New Jersey senator said that he was among those who felt it was practically impossible to complete action on the bill at the special session, because of debates over controversial rate schedules.

The only tariff development in the Senate during the day was the offering of an amendment by Senator Waterman, Republican, Colorado, which would bring about abrogation of the Cuban-American reciprocity treaty by applying to Cuban imports the full tariff the United States levies against other countries.

Commenting on the amendment, Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, said he favored abrogation of the preferential provisions, but doubted whether it should be attained through a rider to a tariff bill.

Wants D. S. Growers Favored.

Although he had not had time to study the proposal, the Idaho senator said he believed the matter should be approached through the State Department.

"If they are going to give a bounty to any one, let them give it to the domestic sugar growers," he said.

Borah still has under advisement a sugar bounty proposal as a substitute for the increase in tariff from 1.76 to 2.20 cents a pound on Cuban sugar proposed by the finance committee.

Just before the Senate recessed, Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, offered a substitute for the Norris debenture rider, providing that the Farm Board organize as speedily as possible the proposed stabilization corporations, and allot debentures to the corporations for use in stabilizing prices. The debentures also would be available for payment of losses, but could not be utilized for trade dividends.

Shouse Assails Measure.

Commenting on senatorial exchanges about responsibility for the sluggish pace set by the tariff bill, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, said:

"Every speech in arraignment of the extortionate rates or the vicious flexible provision and the administrative features of the bill is denounced as evidence of a nefarious purpose. The evil of the situation lies in the presentation of a measure utterly indefensible in its purpose of favoritism to certain interests and extortion to be levied on the public.

Replying to the statement of Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, a spokesman for the Republican independent group, that the proponents of the bill have utilized as much time in debate as the opponents and therefore the latter could not be charged with delaying tactics, Chairman Smoot said a check of the record showed the opponents had used 76.4 per cent and the proponents only 23.6 per cent of the time confined to tariff debate.

Champion Bull Named.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—For the third successive year, the grand championship of Guernsey bulls at the national dairy show was awarded today to Border King of Roberts, of the Glen Cliff Farm, Independence, Kans. Caroline's May Royal, from the Emmandine Farms, Hopewell Junction, N. Y., was named the Guernsey junior champion bull.

commitments, were again faced with margin calls demanding more cash or collateral. A few of the large commission houses have increased their margin requirements since the early October break because of the reluctance of small and large traders to follow their advice and reduce speculative commitments.

Otis Elevator lost $30 a share, Auburn Auto $22, American & Foreign Power $18, Western Union $17.37½, Columbian Carbon $16, Columbia Gas & Electric $15, American Water Works $14.25 and General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville and many other so-called "blue chip" issues sold down $10 a share, or more. United States Steel common, which sold as high as $234 a share last week, tumbled nearly $12 a share to $211.50 and then rebounded to $213.50, which contrasts with a low of $206.50 earlier in the month and the year's high of $261.75.

Treasury Secretary Of Cuba Quits Post

Havana, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The resignation of Dr. Santiago Gutierrez de Celis as secretary of the treasury was accepted today by President Machado, to be effective immediately.

It was officially said that Dr. Gutierrez de Celis desired to resume his private law practice, but in political circles it was reported his resignation followed upon differences with the president. A presidential decree, following upon demands by railway workers several days ago, revoked a treasury department concession to the Cuban Cane Sugar Co. for establishment of a subport for exports.

Bank Conferees' Tax Views Clash

Baden-Baden, Germany, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The conference for establishing a bank for international settlements this afternoon found a new problem in the question of taxation.

One viewpoint was that the operations of the bank and everything connected with it including salaries of employes should be tax free. Against this some held that the international bank business should be subject to taxation just as any other bank, but that double taxation should be avoided. Sponsors of the latter view, among whom were said to be the Americans, held that the bank would be an unfair competitor of private banks, if, for instance, it could issue tax free bonds. The problem was given to a subcommittee for discussion.

October 27 was provisionally set today for adjournment of the conference.

SUICIDE PACT SEEN IN COUPLE'S DEATH

INQUEST IS CALLED OFF

Wallingford, Conn., Oct. 16 (A.P.). Deaths of Mrs. Anna Bryan Ayres, 41, talented advertising manager, and William H. Gaylord, a bookkeeper of Hartford, by bullets, was summed up today by Medical Examiner Dr. J. H. Buffum as "death by mutual agreement," giving official weight to the theory that there was a suicide pact.

The man and woman had taken a room in a local inn late Monday. Mrs. Ayres had driven here from her office in New Haven in her new car, and Gaylord had come down from Hartford to meet her. When they were found dead in their room both were fully dressed and bullets had even gone through their outer street garments.

Mrs. Ayres sat in a chair and Gaylord's body was on the floor in front of her.

Dr. Buffum said he found nothing in the notes Mrs. Ayres left to indicate that she was about to die by agreement. They indicated times set for meetings, however.

Deputy Coroner Corrigan accepted the doctor's version and decided an inquest was unnecessary.

Mrs. Ayres rang out of her office in the Berger Brothers' plant Monday at 5:30 p. m., or half an hour after her usual time. Her arrival here indicated that she had come to the inn direct.

In the room was a half-pint bottle which had held liquor.

and present their views to congressmen."

"The third class," he continued, "is composed of those so-called professional lobbyists who are ready to take any side of any case for remuneration.

"The fourth is the parasitic class here to milk anybody by representing that they can influence congressmen."

The witness remarked that he knew of one man who declared he "knew every congressman by his first name and could go around and slap them on their backs."

"What class do you put yourself in?" asked Caraway.

"In the second," Austin replied.

"Then you're a second class lobbyist," returned the Arkansas senator while the crowded committee room laughed.

Lists Chief Expenditures.

Under questioning of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, Austin named his salary as $8,000 annually. He said two clerks comprised the headquarters of the association and that $5,000 was given to S. H. Love, of Salt Lake City, the president. He said $70,000 was spent annually and listed major expenditures for the first nine months of this year as follows:

Salaries, $12,000; office rental, $5,062; for a publication "Facts About Sugar," $8,000; to "Agricultural Supplement," also a publication, $2,688; to Domestic Sugar Producers Association, $19,000; to "Western Irrigation," a Los Angeles, Calif., publication, $450; $4,700 for traveling expenses of officers, and $750 for printing of pamphlets.

Austin said that during the consideration of the tariff bill there were as many as ten or twelve officers of the association in Washington at one time. He said they gave testimony before the committees and also called upon senators and representatives from their States to present their views.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THE present administration can not raise its voice in behalf of the oppressed in any country as long as it refuses to heed the cry for help that is now coming up from the distressed Hoovercrats of the South.

These people are beleaguered down there in an enemy country and surely any one who has ever spent any time in the South must appreciate their plight. Last November they broke away from moorings as old as the hills and followed that Republican political Messiah, Col. Mann. They came from their homes in droves and followed him right out into the promised land.

Now they find that the flood waters of Democracy have rolled up around them and their plaintive cries for Republican succor go unheard.

• • • •

FOR months these Southern Hoovercrats have been corralled out in an open field, so to speak, with the Democrats walking around them menacingly day and night, shouting taunts at them, keeping their hands from their throats, in fact, with difficulty.

But now when the word gets around that the administration is not to send any assistance, that it really doesn't care what becomes of these Hoovercrats, this restraint will not longer hold. Political pogroms are certain to occur. And there will be blood on the administration's hands.

One can almost hear these Democrats shouting "De Priest, De Priest!" as they rush to the slaughter. It will be too late for the administration to send assistance then.

• • • •

IT is not a question of whether these Hoovercrats erred in forsaking the party of their forefathers. They were led away by the glib tongues of Washington city slickers like Col. Mann and Bishop Cannon. They may have been wrong, but they can plead the enticement of the silvery tongue.

And now they are bereft, hungry and unclothed, at the mercy of a Democratic mob.

One must realize that there are primitive Democrats down in that country, so primitive that they eat hog and hominy and catch pellagra. They are primitive and severe.

The Democrats here in Washington such as the gifted Pat Harrison, Senators George and Robinson, must not be accepted as assurance that no violence will occur back home. These men are polished and wealthy in the cultural attainments.

But there are Democrats down from whence they came that do not wear shoes, or at least when they do, they have to wear rocks in the bottom of them. And these Democrats are not of the temperament to deal with the Hoovercrats as so many bygones gone by.

• • • •

OF course, no one can blame the administration leaders for not taking seriously now the pleadings of the Hoovercrats that they will carry those same four States again, that there is the possibility of a real Republican party in the South. These Hoovercrats are just getting frantic over their predicament when they argue this. And the administration says rightly when it says to them, "Naught but foolish words come out of your mouth."

But it should take care of them. It could gather them all up and transplant them to another State, for example, to a Republican State—say, Indiana. The cost would not be too much. Or it might set up a separate colony for them, somewhere off the coast.

EIGHT FARM BOARD MEMBERS ARE CONFIRMED BY SENATE

in announcing that he was willing to give Hoover the farm board he chose to administer the act he demanded.

A serious threat against McKelvie was imminent late in the day of debate as Senator King, Democrat, Utah, asked if it were true that the Nebraskan had voted for Herbert Hoover for President at the Republican National Convention although the Nebraska primary had instructed the delegates of that State for Senator Norris.

In reply, Senator Norris said McKelvie had not abided by the primary's decision, but he urged the Senate not to vote against McKelvie on that ground.

"In my opinion," the Nebraska senator said, "he had a right to do as he did, although it was a square violation of the intent of the State law."

When Senator Glenn (Republican), Illinois, inquired whether McKelvie might have been influenced in his decision at the Republican convention because he had learned that "his candidate was going to bolt his party," Senator Norris, for the first time since the campaign, referred to his support of Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic presidential nominee.

"I make no apology for it," Norris said, with some emphasis. "I would do it again. History since the election justifies me and shows that I was right. Was I wrong in supporting Mr. Smith because I demanded a bill of particulars from Herbert Hoover and got only glittering generalities?"

Nebraskan Fails to Vote.

Stating that he thought the record showed McKelvie unfit for his position, but not wishing to be put in the position of voting against him in view of the complaint raised by Senator King, the Nebraskan asked and obtained unanimous consent not to vote on McKelvie.

Senator Smith (Democrat), South Carolina, led the opposition to Williams, on the ground that the cotton representative had shown a "total ignorance of the problems of the cotton grower."

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, waged the contest against McKelvie, contending that his testimony showed "he's not at all in sympathy with the farmers of the country."

Senator Blease (Democrat), South Carolina, asked to be recorded as in opposition to all eight of the nominees.

The thirteen who voted against Chairman Legge were: Blaine, Brookhart, La Follette and Norris, Republicans; Black, Blease, Connally, Dill, Harris, Harrison, McKellar, Sheppard and Wheeler, Democrats.

27 Against McKelvie.

The 20 voting against Williams were: Republicans, Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, La Follette, Norris and McMaster; Democrats, Black, Blease, Connally, Dill, George, Harris, Heflin, King, McKellar, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Tydings and Wheeler.

The eight board members and their terms are: Alexander Legge, Chicago, chairman, one year; Charles C. Teague, California, fruits and vegetables, one year; William F. Schilling, Minnesota, dairy products, 2 years; Samuel R. McKelvie, Nebraska, wheat, 2 years; C. B. Denman, Missouri, cattle, 3 years; Charles S. Wilson, New York, apples and miscellaneous products, 4 years; James C. Stone, Kentucky, vice chairman, tobacco, 5 years, and Carl Williams, Oklahoma, cotton, 6 years.

WIFE, 75, BUTCHERS 78-YEAR-OLD MATE

WED CLOSE TO 50 YEARS

Summit, N. J., Oct. 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.) Unable longer to endure the abuse and cruelty which, she said, had marked the last ten of her nearly fifty years of married life, Mrs. Laura M. Titus, a frail little woman of 75, killed her 78-year-old husband James, with an ax this morning in the living room of their home here.

She made complete confession of her deed to Police Chief John P. Murphy, explaining that her husband drank habitually and beat her and she realized when he came home intoxicated early this morning and dragged her from bed, with a threat to kill her, that her only escape from him lay in killing him instead.

In her confession she said that he was drunk this morning and abused her. At about 3:45 o'clock he got up from bed and went into the yard. Returning, he demanded to know when she was going to get up, and when she sought to evade him he grabbed her and dragged her out with a threat to "do" for her.

Realizes Her Chance.

A moment later, according to her story, he went downstairs and she lay still until the house was quiet, and then she too descended the stairs, determination to kill her husband taking shape in her mind.

When she reached the living room she found her husband soddenly asleep on the floor with a pillow under his head. She realized that the man who had abused her for so many years was for the time at least beyond power to hurt her.

Her half-formed idea grew as she stared down at her inert husband. It seemed only right to her that she should put this man forever beyond power to injure or torment her.

Plans as She Watches Him.

But she must think this over carefully, so she seated herself at a desk near her husband and watched him, debating with herself over what she had in mind.

She recalled the years of her life since she and Titus were married in Milltown in 1880, and vividly so the last ten of these, with their tale of cruelty. She foresaw what would happen to her when her husband awoke from his stupor, and was resolved that she would not again undergo it.

So she went into the yard of the house, which sits back of the Summit & Madison Ice Co.'s plant in Park avenue, and got an ax. When she came back to the house her husband was as she had left him. Again she stood looking down at him, hesitant. She put down the ax. Remembrance of the particular cruelties to which she said she had been subject for the last week and four days flashed before her mind's eye and she took up the ax again.

No Hesitancy This Time.

This time there was no hesitation. Frail as she was, weighing scarcely more than 100 pounds, Mrs. Titus swung the ax high above her head and brought it down on her husband's skull. A second time she raised it and struck him, this time, as she said, to make sure that he was not breathing.

Then she dropped the heavy weapon and hastened out to tell her neighbors what she had done. Titus was dead long before the police and a doctor arrived. Her confession was merely an amplification of what she had told the neighbors.

Mrs. Titus and her husband had lived in Summit for more than 30 years. He was an employe of the ice company until a few years ago and was the recipient of a pension from it.

Members of the cabinet declined to discuss the contents of the reply, but newspapers said that reliable sources had outlined the points emphasizing Japan's satisfaction at the Anglo-American agreement and offering to do everything possible in the way of preliminary conversations to clear the way for a successful conclusion.

SWEEPING DRY RAID YIELDS RUM CACHE

New York and New Jersey united in planning the raids, which were under the general supervision of William J. Calhoun, prohibition administrator for New Jersey. The raids were carried out by 35 deputy United States marshals, 75 special treasury agents and 20 New Jersey State troopers.

Assistant United States Attorney Robert B. Watts received reports as they trickled into the Federal Building here. He said the raid at Highlands, N. J., disclosed that an old mansion had been converted into a storehouse that resembled a fort.

The raiders, he said, found ammunition, firearms, machine gun emplacements and magazines and beneath the mansion discovered a labyrinth of vaults and passages containing large quantities of wines and liquors, which were seized.

Watts said the raiding party that descended on Highlands caught Mannie Kessler, alleged "king of the leggers," and Morris Sweetwood, both of whom, he said, served terms in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., for liquor law violations.

About six miles from Highlands, Watts said, the raiders, acting on a "tip," came upon a fully-equipped unlicensed broadcasting station and arrested the operator, Malcolm MacMaster, at his post. Watts said this station was used to communicate with rum runners who landed supplies from six large vessels at various points along the Atlantic Coast from Maine to Virginia.

Watts said that MacMaster would be the first person to be charged with criminal violation of the Federal radio laws, which prohibit the operation of unlicensed broadcasting stations.

Several of the 35 raids were conducted in New York City. Agents entered a room in West Forty-third street, arrested Joseph Levin and seized many records. While the agents were there, a man entered displaying a brightly polished badge.

He was promptly arrested and was described later by police as Sam Krivet, of Union City, N. J. The agents said Krivet carried a bottle of gin and papers indicating he was a salesman. They said the badge bore the legend, "New Jersey Secret Service."

Watts said the basis of the raids was laid Tuesday when a Federal grand jury in Trenton, N. J., indicted 34 men on charges of conspiracy to import, transport, distribute and sell liquor. Since many of the men indicted lived in the southern and eastern districts of New York, the officials decided on simultaneous raids to prevent "tip-offs."

James Wilkinson, chief assistant United States attorney in Brooklyn, Watts and Assistant United States Attorney Arrowsmith, of New Jersey, agreed by telephone tonight to ask $15,000 bail for six principals and $5,000 for all subordinates arrested in the raids.

Watts said the total of arrests indicated that all of those indicted probably had not been arrested. He said many of the men taken may prove to be persons not named in the indictment.

In at least two of the places visited in New York, the men sought were not found.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Lady Mary Heath, noted British aviatrix, has arrived in Reno, presumably to file suit for divorce from her wealthy husband, Sir James Heath, British iron master and colliery owner.

She denied herself to newspaper correspondents today, but has taken an apartment for a three-month period.

DEFENSE ENDS CASE IN GASTONIA KILLING

Judge Denies Nonsuit Motion and Arguments Will Be Made Today.

CHIEF'S KIN TESTIFY

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—After its motion for nonsuit of the cases against the seven men charged with murder of O. F. Aderholt, Gastonia chief of police, had been denied, the defense today rested and Mecklenburg Superior Court was recessed until tomorrow, when arguments will begin.

Although limited by the usual court procedure in North Carolina to two hours' argument on each side, Judge M. V. Barnhill, at the request of the defense, agreed to permit each side to have six hours.

In making this announcement, Judge Barnhill said he would insist that all arguments be ended in two days, thereby making it possible for the jury to begin its deliberations some time Saturday. Judge Barnhill's charge must follow upon the arguments.

Four to Talk on Each Side.

Four speakers will be allowed on each side. Neither defense nor prosecution had decided today who would be chosen, although J. Frank Flowers, chief of defense counsel, said T. A. Adams would likely open for it.

The seven defendants, Fred Erwin Beal, Clarence Miller, George Carter, Joseph Harrison, William McGinnis, Louis McLaughlin and K. Y. Hendricks, are not only charged with second-degree murder in connection with the shooting of the police chief on June 7, but they also face charges of assault with intent to kill as a result of the wounding of T. A. Gilbert, police officer, and A. J. Roach, special deputy, at the same time.

Judge Barnhill quashed that part of the indictment charging assault against C. M. Ferguson, another officer, declaring that the evidence in this instance was insufficient to support it.

Police Chief's Widow on Stand.

The prosecution closed its case by playing a trump card—introducing as its last witness Miss Ethel Aderholt and Mrs. O. F. Aderholt, daughter and widow of the police chief.

Mrs. Aderholt said after she went to the hospital her husband said to her: "I don't know why they shot me in the back and killed me. I have always tried to keep the peace and never done any one any harm."

The defense closed this morning after only one witness, W. M. Morse, a photographer, had taken the stand.

Salvationist Is Killed As Machines Collide

Goshen, Ind., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Maj. George Freed, 52, of Grand Rapids, Mich., a Salvation Army officer, was killed and three other persons were hurt in an automobile collision today six miles north of here.

Freed's machine collided with a car driven by Charles Bolte, of Chicago. Arthur Taylor, of Chicago, riding with Bolte, suffered two broken ribs and a face wound. Bolte and Maj. Edwin Clayton, also of Grand Rapids, divisional commander of the Salvation Army, were slightly injured. Freed was divisional secretary of the Salvation Army.

Forest Fire Menaces Town on West Coast

Everett, Wash., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The town of Index, 50 miles east of Everett, was threatened by a forest fire this afternoon. A high wind was said to be sweeping the blaze toward the town. Telephone messages from Index reported the smoke so dense that residents could hardly see.

The fire started in slashings on the property of the Wallace Falls Timber Co. and was riding a high ridge between Wallace Falls and Index with the wind blowing it toward the latter town. Firefighters from outside points were being sought to aid logging crews.

STATE UNIVERSITY DOUBLES CLASSES

WILL USE 27 CENTERS

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 16.—Registration in extension classes offered by the University of Virginia has passed the thousand mark and is now more than twice what it was at this time last year.

In 27 centers a total of 59 courses are being conducted by teachers from the university and from other educational institutions of the State that are cooperating in the State-wide program. The work being done by the other schools and colleges in cities and towns far removed from the university is one of the reasons for the doubling of the enrollment, according to Director George B. Zehmer.

Another important factor in bringing about this increase has been the evening engineering clases that have been arranged in Newport News, Norfolk, Portsmouth and Roanoke, under supervision of Arthur F. Macconochie, of the engineering department.

Faculty members have nine classes with 92 students in Richmond; two classes, with 23 student in Petersburg; seven classes with 126 students in Roanoke; two classes with 27 students in Lynchburg; one with 15 in Manasses; one with 15 in Clifton Forge, and one with 60 in Mecklenburg.

Some of the Roanoke classes are for engineering students. Other engineering classes have 80 students in Norfolk, 41 in Portsmouth and 85 in Newport News. Roanoke College faculty members have 135 students enrolled in seven classes in Roanoke and one class with seven in Salem.

Harrisonburg State Teachers College is assisting with choruses in seven centers. In Staunton there are 14 students, in Front Royal 24, in Woodstock 15, in Winchester 36, in Luray and Shenandoah, 15.

Fredericksburg State College is helping with 16 students in Tappahannock, 15 in Warrenton, 12 in Fairfax, 15 in Orange and 13 in Bowling Green.

Washington and Lee faculty members are teaching 15 students in Staunton and 10 in Lexington. William and Mary has a teacher who has 23 extension students in Hampton. In Petersburg 11 students are being taught by a man from Randolph-Macon College and in Lynchburg there are 11 being taught by a Sweet Briar College instructor.

Six Seamen Held As Alien Runners

Philadelphia, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—With the arrest here today of six members of the crew of the Portuguese cargo ship Angeles, United States immigration officials believe they have uncovered a ring of alien smugglers which has been operating out of Brazil.

The officials charge that the six men smuggled eighteen aliens into this country in the last week from the Angeles.

The arrest followed upon an investigation that was started Sunday when one of the aliens was captured. He is Jose Tomi, a Portuguese. He was arrested by Philadelphia police who found him wandering aimlessly in south Philadelphia.

Tomi told the immigration officials he had been employed as a sailor on the Angeles. Olaf J. Melvy, chief officer of the ship, denied ever having seen the man. Tomi, immigration officials said, then confessed that he had been smuggled into Philadelphia when the Angeles docked here Sunday. He said he was one of eighteen men brought on the Angeles, but said he did not know whether others got off at Boston, where the ship docked first, or whether they were all unloaded here.

Supervisor of Census Is Named in Danville

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 16.—G. Howard Guerrant has been appointed supervisor of the census for this district and will maintain headquarters here. While the first steps toward securing the annexation of nearby suburbs, which would give Danville a larger population, have not been completed, the effort is to be made, it is understood, to carry through the annexation proceedings as soon as the pending State election is over.

If additional property can be brought within the city by next April the accretion in Danville's population will be reflected in the census figures. Guerrant was prominently identified with the anti-Smith movement last fall.

Siamese Legation Member Resigns

Edward H. Loftus Quits After Completing 28 Years of Service.

Resigning his post as counselor of the Siamese Legation, which he aided in establishing in Washington in 1901, Edward H. Loftus has terminated a continuous service of 28 years for his government in the United States in setting what is believed to be a record for unbroken diplomatic representative in this nation.

Born a British subject in Singapore in 1869, he entered the diplomatic service of Siam in 1891 for the ten years preceding his service in Washington. He represented his government in various capacities in London, Paris, Brussels, Berlin, St. Petersburg and The Hague. He also has represented Siam at various important councils, and during his work here has held the positions of second secretary of the legation and charge d'affaires.

Mr. Loftus is known here by his own name and by that of Phya Nides Virajakich, the "Phya" being a title similar to that of count, which was conferred on him by his government.

Mr. Loftus and his wife have obtained a residence in Charlottesville, Va., to be near their son, Reginald, manager of the golf team at the University of Virginia, until the completion of his studies, when they plan to return to Washington to make their permanent home. Mr. Loftus is a member of several clubs and enjoys a wide circle of friends in Washington.

Tobacco Prices Up On Danville Market

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 16.—A material improvement has been noted on the tobacco market here during the past two days, with the average price of 15 cents a pound raised to 17 cents, and with many of the more desirable wrapper grades bringing the farmers 60 cents a pound. Several of the larger companies, notably the Imperial Tobacco Companies, are on the auction market with greater strength.

The higher level of prices has created a better feeling among the farmers and they are delivering the crop more speedily. Yesterday's break on the auction floors was 800,000 pounds, the largest since the present selling season began.

POLICE WILL CONVENE

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Paul Morton, former city manager of Alexandria, and now city manager of Petersburg, was yesterday elected president of the League of Virginia Municipalities, which closed its twenty-fourth annual convention here yesterday. Morton's selection was without opposition. He succeeds C. B. Borland.

Other officers chosen were Harry P. Davis, city manager of Manassas, first vice president; P. L. Watson, vice mayor of Charlottesville, second vice president; Roy S. Braden, city manager of Hopewell, fourth vice president; Morton L. Wallerstein, Richmond, executive secretary, and Charles B. Borland, director of public safety of Norfolk, executive committeeman. A vote of thanks was extended to Alexandria for the hospitality shown the visiting delegates, most of whom left yesterday afternoon for their homes. Roanoke was selected as the next convention city.

Many matters of importance to cities and towns of Virginia were up for discussion, and a resolution, presented by R. W. Catlin, Mayor of Bedford, was adopted, providing that there be appointed a committee for the purpose of conferring with the State Highway Commission looking to the amendment of the present laws governing the maintenance, reconstruction, construction and regulation of those parts of the State highway system lying within the limits of incorporated towns having a population, as shown by the last Federal census, less than that required for a city of the second class, such parts of the State highways to be of such width as, in the opinion of the State highway department, may be necessary under the traffic conditions prevailing.

Under this resolution the State Highway Commission would have the right either to maintain these parts of the highway system with State forces or to reimburse the towns for the actual cost, whichever is considered more advantageous.

The first speaker at the morning session was Maj. F. McKenzie Davison, engineer of maintenance, Washington, who suggested the slag type of roadway for certain communities as being cheap and serviceable. He made several suggestions for the improvement of the existing city governments.

Dr. Llewellyn Jordan, of Potomac Park, Md., delivered a brief talk on the subject of collecting delinquent taxes, and explained a law which is now in operation in Montgomery County, Md.

James Bolton, chief of the bureau of surveys and designs of the department of public works, Richmond, spoke on budgeting for long-term improvement programs which, he asserted, deals particularly with the economic use of municipal results and is amply justified where the carrying charges are offset by the real benefits.

The topic of methods of assessments was discussed by Gibson Hobbs, of Lynchburg, in the absence of R. W. Peatross, city attorney of Norfolk, to whom this subject had originally been assigned.

Many of the delegates who will attend the fourth annual conference of the Virginia Police Executive Association, which convenes at 11 o'clock this morning at the George Mason Hotel, arrived last night, although the majority will not reach here until this morning. Approximately 100 delegates, many of whom will be accompanied by their wives and other members of their families, are expected.

Sessions of the association will begin this morning and end tomorrow afternoon with the election of officers for the ensuing year. They will be presided over by A. A. McPherson, chief of police of Newport News. City Manager Wallace Lawrence, of Alexandria, will deliver the address of welcome at the opening session, and a response will be made by James M. Hays, jr., motor vehicle commissioner of Virginia, vice president of the association. President McPherson and Secretary Morton Wallerstein will present their reports of work during the year, after which will come the appointment of officers.

J. Herbert Taylor, of this city, chief of the Identification Bureau of the Navy Department, is scheduled to speak at noon on the operation of the local finger-print bureau, and he will be followed by Richard F. Waggoner, director of public safety, of Lynchburg, who will speak on the work of the traffic violation bureau.

Luncheon will be served from 1:30 to 2:30 o'clock, and from 3 to 6 o'clock a sightseeing trip will be given the delegates to points of interest in and about the city.

A dinner will be tendered the visitors at the George Mason Hotel at 7 o'clock, Attorney J. Randall Caton, of this city, acting as toastmaster. The speaker will be R. B. Jordan, chief of police of Richmond, who will speak on the North Carolina Police School; Lawrence B. Dunham, director of the bureau of social hygiene, of New York, will speak on the activities of his bureau and its interest in police schools. Cornelius P. Cahalane, police consultant of the Holland Tunnel Commission, of New York, will speak on the New York regional police. Invocation will be by the Rev. Edgar Carpenter, rector of Grace Episcopal Church. Police Capt. W. W. Campbell, of this city, is in charge of arrangements for the convention.

HEADS LEAGUE

PAUL MORTON.

The first business meeting of the annual convention of the Virginia branch of the International Order of King's Daughters and Sons, was held yesterday morning in the Second Presbyterian Church, presided over by Mrs. Henry E. Eley, State president, and the devotional exercises were led by Mrs. Clarence G. Burton.

The address was by Col. John H. Trimyer on the worthwhile endeavors of the order. Routine business was disposed of and the afternoon passed in a sightseeing trip. Dinner was served the visitors in Trinity Methodist Church Hall.

The evening meeting in the Old Presbyterian Meeting House was in charge of the Rev. C. A. Langston, rector of historic Pohick Church, with Mrs. Eley as the guest of honor. Mrs. D. C. Book presided at the organ and vocal selections were rendered by Miss Mildred Maxwell Smith and W. H. Clark. Mrs. George King, of Richmond, spoke in the interest of the Sheltering Arms Hospital.

The meeting will convene at 9:30 o'clock this morning, when Mrs. J. Harry Kirby will lead the devotionals. Reports will be presented, after which Mrs. H. S. Saunders will speak on the "Needs of the Order" will be outlined by Mrs. Liebert and Mrs. Ballenger.

Mrs. Claude Leber, of Baltimore, will report on the magazine of the order. After luncheon the visitors will be taken on an automobile tour, visiting Mount Vernon and Pohick, and also accepting the invitation of Mrs. Oscar Underwood to visit Woodlawn. The closing session will be the service this evening.

Seminole Tribe, No. 35, Improved Order of Red Men, will celebrate its twentieth anniversary this evening in their wigwam in the Alexandria National Bank Building, when the principal speaker will be Senator Cole Blease, past sachem of South Carolina. Others on the program include Judge Harry A. Cuthriell, of Portsmouth, Va., great incohonee of the great council of the United States, and Harry A. Sager, great sachem of Virginia.

The tribe was organized twenty years ago by Past Great Sachem of Virginia Walter S. Nicklin, with a charter membership of 54, and it is now one of the largest tribes in the State. The committee in charge of the meeting is composed of Past Sachems Henry R. Padgett, George W. Wells and Ernest A. Huntington.

C. B. Strange, city auditor and clerk, Danville, while attending the sessions of the League of Virginia Municipalities had a suit case stolen from his automobile that was parked near the George Mason Hotel, the bag containing jewelry and clothing valued at $337.50. According to the report made at police headquarters Strange had left his car unlocked.

Clarence Shields, colored, arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Stuart, on a charge of being drunk and violating the prohibitoin law, attempted to commit suicide in his cell at police headquarters shortly after being locked up. He was discovered by Sergt. George Everly, hanging to the bars of the cell door by his belt, the belt having been passed around the Negro's neck and tied to the cell door. Everly cut the man down and sent him to the Alexandria Hospital in the police patrol. After treatment there Shields recovered sufficiently to be returned to his cell. Sergt. Everly estimated that the man had been hanging for 10 or 15 minutes and was slowly choking to death. He is apparently suffering no ill effects from his experience.

CAPITAL MEN NAMED TO EPISCOPAL POSTS

DIVORCE RULE IS RAPPED

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 16.—H. T. Nelson, of the Diocese of Washington, was elected a member of the executive committee of the Province of Washington of the Episcopal Church here today during the second day's session of the province's eleventh annual synod. Henry P. Blair, also of the Washington diocese, was named a member of the court of review.

The Right Rev. James Henry Darlington, bishop of the Harrisburg diocese, was elected president of the province, succeeding the Right Rev. William L. Gravatt, Bishop of West Virginia, who was head of the province for ten successive years. William W. Frazier, jr., of Philadelphia, was elected treasurer.

The revocation of church regulations governing marriage so that divorced persons would be permitted to remarry was advocated by the Rev. Dr. Percy G. Kammerer, dean of Trinity Cathedral, at Pittsburgh, Pa., in his address at the joint session of men and women here this afternoon.

Economic Adjustment Seen.

Dr. Kammerer said that the increase in the number of divorces, in his opinion, indicated an adjustment in the economic order. "A bishop's diatribe against divorce would have no effect on divorce statistics," he said.

"When there are children," Dr. Kammerer continued, "divorce should be avoided except for some grave cause, but where there are no children there is no reason why a divorce should not be granted upon mutual consent.

"The main thing in marriage is the hearing and rearing of children. Divorce does not break up families. Divorces are the result of broken-up families," he declared.

Armistice Day, November 11, was set aside by the synod as a day when the churches in the Washington province of the Episcopal Church would celebrate the steps that have been taken toward world peace. Discussions on peace, missions and marital relations occupied a greater part of the sessions today.

At the suggestion of Bishop Gravatt, and on a motion presented by Bishop Darlington, the delegates urged the appointment of a committee of three bishops, three clergymen, three laymen and three women by the president to study measures for arousing greater moral support for missionary work in the province.

Tonight at the mass meeting the speakers were the Right Rev. George W. Davenport, Bishop of Easton, and the Rev. Dr. Samuel Tyler, of Rochester, N. Y., who spoke on "The Church and the Family."

"Y" Membership Drive Extended.

The membership campaign committee of the Twelfth Street Branch Young Men's Christian Association last night extended its drive for adult members to next Monday night with the expectation of reaching then its quota of 500.

"We have all taken risks in the making of war and in the going into wars. Isn't it time, my friends, that we should take some risks to secure peace?"
RAMSAY MacDONALD, Premier of Great Britain.

The Fight to Ban War

"The symbol of a great page in history," is a typical press characterization of Premier MacDonald's visit to our shores, with his camp-fire talks with President Hoover, his fervent plea for peace delivered in the American Sennate Chamber at Washington, the outburst of acclaim for the man and his mission from American press and people, and the dispatch from London of the invitation to France, Italy, and Japan to join the English-speaking Powers in a naval parley in London in January. The object of this Conference in January is to promote world peace through naval disarmament.

There are various ways in which the international political world interprets the significance of the Prime Minister's visit to Washington and from the great mass of editorial comment, "The Literary Digest" this week presents in comprehensive form and in a non-partisan spirit, the impression that his visit has created in this country and the effect it will have ultimately in banning war.

ITALY'S REPLY.

At first glance Italy's reply to the British invitation to the London disarmament conference looks like a whole-hearted acceptance designed to facilitate the task of bringing about a five-power agreement. But closer reading of the Italian note reveals all of the obstacles and conditions which have been forecast by those who have recognized the difficulties which must be overcome before the proposed London conference can be successfully launched.

Italy accepts with the understanding that the aim of the conference "should be to elaborate a text to facilitate the task of the League of Nations Preparatory Commission and subsequent general disarmament conference." This carefully-chosen phraseology in the British invitation is made a matter of record in the Italian reply with the apparent purpose of making the London conference a mere prologue to the general conference of the League of Nations. The obvious effect of this would be to make the London meeting merely advisory to the league and to postpone binding agreements until the league disarmament conference acts.

In this respect Italy's position is in line with the known desires of France. But the Italian reply contains other statements which indicate that the French and Italian positions may be incompatible from the outset and which reflect the most serious obstacle so far hinted at in connection with a five-power agreement.

Italy demands parity with France. The Italian reply informs the British that Italy's views on the problem of disarmament "are too well known to the British government to require further declarations with regard thereto," and adds that "these views have been clearly expressed in the note verbale addressed to the British Embassy in Rome on October 6, 1928, in reply to the communication relative to the proposed Franco-British naval agreement of the past year."

In that note verbale Italy put her demand for parity with France in the following language:

> Italy is willing to accept as the limit of her armament any figure, even the lowest, provided it is not exceeded by any continental power.

France has gone on record as demanding equality with Italy in the Mediterranean and absolutely refusing to concede naval parity with Italy in general terms. Italy demands general parity on the ground that her needs in the Mediterranean are greater than those of France, and she contends that Suez, Gibraltar and the Dardanelles are her only communications with the rest of the world.

Because of her determination to guard against a combination of continental naval forces, Italy has informed the British government in the note verbale referred to that Italy will not agree to limitation by categories nor will she agree to regard naval limitation as independent of land and air forces. These are all "interdependent," Italy maintains, which gives further color to her apparent desire to see the general disarmament conference of the league make binding agreements, rather than the independent London five-power conference.

In her demand for global tonnage limitation, Italy informed the British government as follows:

> Only by global tonnage is a less powerfully armed country permitted to adopt certain compensations for the superiority of others.

The Italian reply promises to keep the British government informed of its point of view on the matters to be discussed at the conference, but Italy has already given a very frank advance notice of where she will stand.

THE DISTRICT BUDGET.

At the beginning of the fiscal year 1929 the District had on deposit to its credit in the Treasury a sum in excess of $6,000,000. During the year the surplus was swelled to more than $8,600,000. This sum represents the excess of receipts over expenditures of past years.

The District being on a cash and carry basis, there must be maintained at all times a surplus. This fact has been formally recognized, but it was not contemplated that a sum as large as $8,000,000 should be impounded in the Treasury. One-quarter, or less, of this amount would be sufficient to enable the District at all times to meet emergencies. Year after year the District has been reduced to doing without needed improvements or services because of the inadequacy of the budget, but the surplus has been piling up, and efforts to get hold of it have been vetoed by Congress. The fund is composed exclusively of taxpayers' dollars.

The budget for the fiscal year 1931 totals approximately $48,500,000. It is a compromise budget, and although use of a part of the surplus fund is contemplated, it is estimated that at the end of the period there will remain in the fund a total of no less than $6,000,000. Since there is need of a budget in excess of $48,500,000 if the development of the District is not to be stunted, why should not a greater portion of the surplus be withdrawn from the Treasury at the present time? The surplus draws no interest, and every time the question of fiscal relationships is brought forward it is pointed to as proving that the District is financially well off. The District would be better off if the surplus were reduced to the bare minimum necessary to meet emergencies. The surplus does not represent excess taxes unnecessarily levied; it represents, rather, excessive skimping which tends to retard the growth of the District.

SAFETY IN INDUSTRY.

Movements against industrial accidents have been somewhat overshadowed by campaigns against the more numerous and more spectacular traffic casualties. Reduction of fatalities and injuries among workmen is nevertheless a live problem, demanding attention by State Legislatures and industrial employers. Accidental deaths of this kind reach a total of approximately 24,000 per year and are still on the increase. All the effort that has been expended in teaching workers to be cautious and in installing safety devices has only checked a sharper rise in the accident curve.

One serious phase of the problem is that of caring for workmen who have been maimed and disabled. Thousands of such persons are thrown out of the industrial system every year, most of them facing the necessity of making a living in some new occupation. This situation is being handled in New York by the Russell Sage Foundation and affiliated organizations. The special employment agency they set up put 1,409 disabled and handicapped men and women to work during the first year of operation. The experiment is full of promise, but at best it is a palliative and not a prevention measure.

The country faces the necessity of reducing industrial accidents as well as caring for the disabled. It seems that the hazards of industry could be almost eliminated by the manufacture of fool-proof machinery. But that is far from being as simple as it sounds. Machinery producers are bewildered by great variations in State laws regarding safety requirements. The natural reaction to such a state of affairs is to provide only those safety devices that meet with general demands, so that the same type of machinery can be sold in all the States.

This condition, according to Lewis A. De Blois, safety engineer, makes uniform safety legislation the outstanding objective in work to decrease accidents. He points out in a statement published by the Department of Labor that many of the State regulations are inadequate, and the variance from State to State is so great that safety workers, insurance companies and large corporations operating in several States face innumerable complications. Under such circumstances it is not surprising that but little progress has been made. Satisfactory results can not be expected until a more comprehensive legal basis is laid for the enforcement of safety regulations.

THE CHINESE KALEIDOSCOPE.

China is evidently on the verge of another civil war. The Nationalist government has been fighting to maintain its supremacy ever since the nominal unification of China nearly a year ago, but it is only within recent weeks that defections have become so numerous as to threaten the existing regime. The open revolts of the Kuominchun, so-called people's army, brought fear of a prolonged struggle which could only end in chaos.

From this hopeless situation now comes the report that Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang, leader of the Kuominchun forces, has been captured and is held a prisoner by his former host, Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, governor of Shansi Province. Former reports from Shansi indicated that the governor was planning to cooperate with Marshal Feng in the rebellion against the Nationalists. His apparent change of policy was so sudden and dramatic as to be disbelieved in some quarters. But an official announcement declared that Yen had decided to turn against his guest in order to preserve peace and save the people from a major civil war.

If the report is true, this capture may be a deadly blow to the rebellion. The Kuominchun forces will be caught between the Nanking army on the south and the Shansi forces on the north. With his most formidable enemy out of the way, President Chiang Kai-shek ought to be in a position to crush the other rebellious military chiefs.

Marshal Feng has been the most disturbing element in China since the Nationalists gained control. Civil war was narrowly averted during the summer by a compromise based on the supposition that Feng would leave China. He did not go. From the present state of affairs it appears that he was working for time in the hope of spreading dissatisfaction with the Nanking government before striking what was no doubt intended to be a death blow. If his present arrest means the removal of Feng from the political picture, China's outlook for peace will be substantially improved.

The situation is so complicated and the government's censorship is so strict, that it is impossible to forecast the outcome. It may be that the captor of Marshal Feng has a political ambition of his own to foster. Allegiance of the military dictators to the central government is never certain, and as long as that condition obtains peace is insecure. Apparently China still faces a considerable period of military feudalism.

PHILIPPINE SUGAR.

At the request of Senator Vandenberg Senator Jones, chairman of the commerce committee, has appointed a subcommittee to investigate the advisability of extending the American coastwise shipping laws to include the Philippine Islands. Under the merchant marine act only American ships can engage in the coastwise trade and the same provision can be applied to the Philippines and the Virgin Islands by presidential proclamation. In 1922 the Shipping Board recommended that the restriction be put into effect, but the President did not act.

The present agitation arises from the failure of the House and the Senate finance committee to remove Philippine sugar from the free list or restrict its importation. Senator Vandenberg is interested in obtaining protection for the Michigan beet sugar industry and he realizes that, lacking tariff protection, the extension of the coastwise laws to and from the Philippines would tend to afford such protection. At present shipping rates to and from the Philippines have been forced down by keen foreign competition. Increased rates would be reflected in the American price of Philippine sugar. This would be the equivalent of a protective tariff, with the exception that the higher cost of importation would be paid to American shipping interests instead of to the Treasury in the form of duties.

For this reason there is doubt that the movement will get far at this time. Senate and House seem to be agreed that Philippine sugar imports should not be restricted. When the tariff has been disposed of, however, the Vandenberg proposal should be considered critically.

One of the most important arguments offered in support of the proposal to restrict imports of Philippine sugar was that the national defense requires the development of a source of sugar—an absolute necessity—closer to home. One of the principal arguments in support of the project of re-establishing the merchant marine is that a fleet of modern vessels is essential as a second line of naval defense. It seems as though both ends would be served by extending the coastwise shipping laws to include the Philippine Islands.

Smedley Butler is opposed to the scrapping of warships, possibly on the ground that they would always come in handy in the enforcement of prohibition.

SINCE BEN FRANKLIN

From the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Two hundred years ago Benjamin Franklin's Pennsylvania Gazette was beginning to be felt as a potent influence in the life of Philadelphia. It began publication on October 2, 1729, and although it was competing with Andrew Bradford's American Weekly Mercury and although Franklin's old employer, Samuel Keimer, immediately started a rival paper with the astounding title of the Universal Instructor in All Arts and Sciences, the Pennsylvania Gazette flourished and began to affect not only contemporary thinking but the direction of American journalism.

In the colonies many broadsides and near-newspapers appeared in the latter part of the seventeenth century, but by 1704, with the founding of the Boston News Letter, American newspapers, for better or worse, were well on their way.

From its precarious beginnings, beginnings that were in slavish imitation of European contemporaries, American newspapers grew in number and power and began to develop a character of their own. Their divergence was primarily toward condensation, elimination of personal points of view and completeness of "coverage." As the tempo of American life became accelerated, news began to be related more succinctly and vividly, and the headline that tells the story was invented. The typical headline in America a century ago, like the typical headline in England today, is a "label." The New York Herald of December 21, 1879, reported an exciting bear raid on the stock market, but the headline was simple "Financial and Commercial." The latest news from the war between Peru and Chile was headed each day "The South American War." Today you will find this type of headline in only two American newspapers.

As newspapers in this country began to make obvious changes in their appearance—by the invention of headlines and the barring of display advertisements from the front page—they also began to develop their own canons of taste. These American ideas and ideals of journalism are gradually being adopted all over the world. Lord Northcliff took them to England. Their influences are beginning to be observed in Australia, China and other far off places, and even in Paris violently personal news writing is perceptibly on the wane.

Franklin gave direction to the trend of American journalism. Finding that a novel by Defoe which he was running serially was crowding out news, he suspended publication of the novel. Nowadays newspapers have room for both fiction and news, but Franklin's idea that newspapers should be primarily newspapers was sound, and it has survived vigorously to this day. And the test that he put to his news, that it be "fit for public notice," is the test today of all newspapers worthy of esteem. Franklin's influence on journalism, in fact, has been so great that it was not necessary for him to write an epitaph for his tombstone in which he mentioned, not that he was a diplomat or a scientist, but that he was a printer.

"DEAD BALL."

The change in the fumble rule made by the football rules committee comes in for much criticism, according to the Cleveland Plain Dealer. In denying the defensive team the right to run with a recovered fumble it has deprived the gridiron sport of one of its most spectacular plays. Although no explanation has come from the committee of the reasons for this rule change, it appears to have been made with two objects in view: First, to encourage the lateral pass, a recent baby of the rules committee which the coaches have been slow to adopt, and to reduce considerably the chance of inferior teams winning games by the fumble route. Not enough has been seen of the lateral pass in the Midwest to determine its possibilities. Harvard has developed it with a fair degree of success and the Harvard team is expected to use it more freely this year. Conceivably its adoption would add enough to the game to justify this radical change in the fumble rule, but that is held doubtful by a majority of coaches. Good football heretofore has presumed clean handling of the ball just as much as proficiency in running, kicking and passing. The rules committee now decrees that fumbling is not a sufficiently serious error to justify the penalty it has drawn heretofore. In this judgment the committee will be on trial in the games this fall.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

GARDEN IN AUTUMN.

My garden wears a weary look
Like one who toils no more
But drowses o'er the Holy Book
Before his cottage door.

The best of beauty lies behind,
The last rich bloom has gone;
To what is past it seems inclined
Today to ponder on.

A few brief days of life remain,
And so my garden seems
To sense that further toil is vain
And vain are further dreams.

An air of contemplation lies
Upon each plant and tree;
I fancy that at times it sighs
For joys that used to be.

So like the tired old man who knows
The strength for deeds is gone,
My garden waits with sweet repose
The change that's coming on.

I fancy that I hear it say:
"The end is coming soon;
But I with tulips once was gay,
And roses owned in June."

If He Won't Obey the Rules, What Right Has He to Play?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE are two kinds of laws—those designed to prevent acts that offend the moral sense of all proper men, and those designed to prevent acts that are not immoral in themselves and yet are injurious to the state or the people.

Laws of the second class frequently are called "sumptuary" because of their similarity to ancient Greek and Roman laws that endeavored to prevent extravagance by limiting the citizen's expenditure for clothing, food and luxuries.

Laws that express universal standards of morality are as old as civilization. Laws that express a majority definition of morality may change with each generation.

Since there are two classes of laws, there are two classes of law violators—evil men whose acts would offend decent men in a land without written laws, and rebels whose fault is that they will not play the game fairly.

Concerning evil men—the thieves, cheats, bullies and killers—all are agreed. They must be confined for the protection of society.

Concerning the rebels, who offend "sumptuary" laws with a clear conscience because they do not accept the majority definition of morality, there is difference of opinion.

This difference of opinion lessens the dignity and authority of law and should be adjusted. It can be adjusted if the matter is examined in the light of simple logic and common sense.

All laws except those that express universal conceptions of morality are to some extent arbitrary—expedient laws, made right by necessity.

Any law that seems expedient to the majority becomes a rule of the game of self-government, and all who play the game are in honor bound to obey it.

Laws are like the rules of football—made and unmade by the majority opinion of the moment—and whether they are right or wrong, wise or foolish, good sportsmanship requires obedience to them.

The citizen who accepts a law made by majority opinion that agrees with him can not reject a law made by majority opinion that disagrees with him.

He may labor to change the rules, but he must abide by them while they remain in force or confess himself unqualified to share in a government by majority will.

Those who will not play the game and abide by the rules must be placed where they can not spoil the game for those who play fair.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE ONCE OVER.
Why Young Brides Are Unhappy These Days.

(The scene is the home of the newlyweds. The wife crumpling a newspaper and throwing it to the floor, appears very dejected as her husband enters.)

He—What's the matter, dear?

She—Oh, I'm just unhappy, that's all.

He—But why, darling? We've been married only a few weeks, you know.

She—I know it, but you just don't treat me right * * * you don't do the little things that please a girl.

He (puzzled)—But what haven't I done, dearie?

She (with a glance downward at the first page of the crumbled paper)—Well, for one thing, you never take me to Central America.

He—Central America?

She—You've never even suggested a trip to Panama City, Havana, Jamaica, or any of those places.

He—I don't——

She—Here I've been your wife three months and I'm yet to fly over a buried city of the ancient Mayas.

He (beginning to sense that she's been reading the papers)—Really my dear, I never even thought you——

She—You don't think it's exactly fair to make a wife stay on the ground all the time, do you?

He—Perhaps not, dear. Well, I'll save up and get a plane just as soon as I can, honey, and take you on some nice long flights everywhere.

* * * *

She (still dissatisfied)—That isn't all. I'm disappointed about our wedding.

He—What was wrong?

She—Well, we didn't have any governors or congressmen present and your father came right out and told reporters what his bridal gifts were.

He—I couldn't help that.

She—And you didn't take me to the Maine woods and chop wood.

He—You didn't ask me to.

She—You ought to know, if you read the papers, that the place to go on a honeymoon this season is the Maine woods and chop wood.

He—But I hate chopping wood.

She—You could chop a little * * * just enough for the cameramen.

He—I'm sorry, darling.

She (weeping)—I think it's terrible!

He (trying to console her)—Now you just cheer up and give me a chance. I'll work hard and get an airplane, an axe and everything.

She (tearfully)—Promise?

He (resolutely)—Promise!

BATTLE OF THE SKIRTS.

Perhaps there is still hope, but confidential reports indicate that the defenses are caving, that the enemy infiltration has already reached the strong points along Park avenue, that the great strategic positions are falling—in short, says the New York Herald Tribune, that unless there is a mighty rally the struggle will be lost and skirts really will be "longer this year." They have held out now for some three or four years. One remembers the origins of the war—how a fashion industry founded upon the great principle that last year's dresses should, under no circumstances, ever be fashionable this year had pushed the skirt steadily upward; how the discovery dawned upon the couturieres that the limit must soon be reached; how they realized that while last year's skirts could be made shorter with a pair of scissors, it would be impossible to lengthen them in the same way. The couturieres issued their edict. Skirts would be longer. But they weren't. The ladies said that they liked short skirts. They said that they imparted freedom of movement, that they were healthful, that they were less expensive. They said that they couldn't be bothered with the edicts of couturieres. The dresses remained short. It was rebellion. It was emancipation. It was the dawn of a new liberty. It was sex equality. Woman at last stood shoulder to shoulder with man, no longer under the necessity to remake her whole wardrobe every year because someone else said so. But the couturieres have kept at it, their efforts unwearying, their pressure unremitting, year after year. And now the report is that the tide is turning in their favor. It is a crisis of civilization.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

One Who Insists Upon Censorship of Books Is Rebuked—Let the Public Read What It Wants.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I can not let the comment of your correspondent, Mr. C. P. Jamesson, pass unnoticed. His tirade against "opening our doors to world filth" displays both ignorance of actual conditions and an intellect which lingers in the Middle Ages, when bad books were burned in public. No doubt he has stored his mind full of "world filth" and assumed therefrom that every one else is seeking to do the same. So he, like too many of our illustrious congressmen, would delegate to an untrained, uncultured customs clerk guardianship over American morals.

The whole attitude of these so-called purists is wrong. Regardless of the integrity of an author in representing life as it is, they brand his work obscene if he deals with these problems frankly. They catch a phrase out of a book which has a lofty moral purpose and condemn it as pornographic. The "filth" and corruption they pretend to see is not in the book, but in their minds.

It would be idle to deny that there is much rubbish published both here and abroad. If left to perish from lack of merit, much of this reading would never reach the hands of those whom the purists would protect. But with customs inspectors constantly on the alert for pornographic passages on which to condemn books, the public is naturally led into the degrading habit of looking for salacious connotations in every thing it reads. If a book is truthful, vigorous and human, what harmful effect can it have? Let the public read what it wants. When the false mask of innocence is removed and a glamour is no longer thrown about immoral books, smut will soon enough disappear.

H. L. DEWALD.

Who Is Right on the Question of "Immediate Validity" of Any Agreement Reached in London?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There seems to be a direct conflict between the views of our own Secretary of State and Mr. Arthur Henderson, the British foreign secretary, on the question whether the London naval disarmament conference is to reach binding decisions independent of the League of Nations preparatory commission, or whether decisions reached at London are to be merely placed before the league for final action.

The Secretary of State takes the position that the London decisions are to be "of independent and separate validity," and will not depend upon the league preparatory commission.

In the London Times of October 3, the British foreign secretary is quoted as follows in an address to the Labor party conference at Brighton.

"The results of such a conference (London conference), if successful, would then be placed before the preparatory commission, whose task not only in the naval sphere but in the military and air spheres as well would thereby be immediately facilitated."

Does this mean that if parity should be promised at London, it will remain a perpetual promise until such time in the distant and uncertain future as the League of Nations may approve the London program and make the whole general disarmament scheme effective?

AMERICA.

The Starling Issue Rises Again to Haunt Pennsylvania Avenue.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The starlings are beginning to infest the trees along the Avenue at dusk every evening. The birds have left their roosts on the District Building and the Munsey Building and now are only found in the trees. It seems that if they could be run off of these two buildings they could also be frightened away from the trees. If some method can be adopted to give the starlings a good scare every night for about a week I think they would leave these trees in the city and find a more comfortable roost out in some nearby woods. Their presence does not add to the attraction of the Avenue in the least. Let the Department of Public Buildings and Public Parks figure out a way to rid the Avenue of this nuisance.

Military Exposition and Carnival Committee Thanks The Post for Cooperation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The general committee in charge of the military exposition and carnival, 1929, desires to express to you our appreciation for the fine spirit of cooperation manifested by The Post. The use of the space which you so generously contributed to further our worthy cause materially assisted in a major degree to swell the attendance and helped to make the exposition and carnival a success.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In this era of epochal investigations, might not the following familiar lines, with apologies to Lorenzo Dow, be appropriately suggested to our Commissioners, our District Attorney and our Police Department, incidentally not excluding the homicide squad:

"You can and you can't,
You will and you won't;
You'll be damned if you do,
You'll be damned if you don't."

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Junior League Will Hold Art Exhibit Soon

Members Sending Their Handiwork in for Annual Event.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE Junior League is arranging an art exhibition to be held at its clubrooms in Q street, opening on Wednesday, October 23, and continuing for a week. A call has been sent to all the members who have artistic gifts to send in contributions and a wide field will be covered, including sculpture, oil paintings, water colors and commercial art.

The object of the exhibition, which has come to be an annual event, is to stimulate the interest of society folk in any branch of artistic endeavor and to encourage the development of talent among the league members.

There is an art interest committee, which is a permanent group in the league, of which Mrs. Harry Lee Rust, jr., is chairman. This committee will have the exhibition in charge and will superintend the hanging of the pictures and the placing of other contributions.

The exhibits are just beginning to come in and it is difficult so far to get a line on who the contributors are to be, but Mrs. George T. Summerlin, jr., is one league member who usually has a number of canvasses entered in the show and another is Mrs. Alan G. Kirk, whose statuettes of children are of great artistic merit. Mrs. Kirk is at present in Newport, where Commander Kirk is stationed, but her friends are hoping that some of her work will be shown. Mrs. Summerlin, who was Miss Elizabeth Zolnay, is the talented daughter of a famous father, Mr. George Julien Zolnay, sculptor. However, the daughter's artistic gifts run rather to the brush than to the chisel.

Miss Natalie Hammond is another gifted Junior League member, whose work has been exhibited here and in Paris, but it is not known yet whether or not she will contribute to the show.

Interior decorating is to be featured, as well as more formal art work, and there is even to be an exhibition of wood cuts—giving evidence of the diversity of talent displayed by the Junior League girls. Moreover, a national contest of designs for settings for children's plays is soon to be held by the Junior League and it is expected that several designs by Washington girls, which are to be entered, will first be displayed at the Junior League show.

This will be the first important event this season on the calendar of the group of girls whose annual frolic—a cabaret, a circus or what have you?—is always one of the gala events of the year, who usually put on a group of plays for children during the course of the season and who manage by their various activities to raise large sums, which go to various local charities.

The time is coming soon when new members will be chosen from among this season's debutantes and the youngsters are now anxiously waiting to know who will "make the Junior League." The present president of the Junior League of Washington is Mrs. Walter Evans Edge, wife of Senator Edge, who is shortly to become chatelaine of the U. S. Embassy in Paris.

Returning, they will occupy a winter home in Bermuda, near Hamilton, recently purchased by Mr. Crane. The estate on Tucker's Island comprises 23 acres. The island was used as a prison camp during the Boer War and boasts a flight of stone steps built in 1650 leading to a pirate's cave on the banks of a river flowing underground to the ocean half a mile distant.

Mr. Crane recently returned from the expedition which he financed for the collection of rare specimens of marine life for the Field Museum in Chicago. The cruise was made on the brigantine-rigged yacht Ilyria, which is now harbored in Bermuda.

Editorial Post Is Accepted By Miss Hard

Work Will Take Recruit of Celebrity Clique to New York.

With an editorial position on the staff of a new magazine as the lure, Miss Eleanor Hard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hard, has gone to New York to spend the winter.

Miss Hard has a gift for writing, as both her father and her mother are well known in the craft and contribute regularly to newspapers and magazines. A graduate of Smith College, she specialized in languages and recently translated a life of Stendahl, which has brought enthusiastic comment on her work.

There is a constantly recurring thrill in the diversified achievements of Washington girls, who, it would seem, can not have been long out of pinafores. There is, for example, Miss Marian King, whose first novel, "Seeing It Through," will be issued in the spring. This deals with psychological and psychopathic problems, the ins and outs of medical institutions and will have a preface by Dr. Adolph Meyer, head of the Phipps Clinic at Johns Hopkins Hospital. In the search of material for her book, Miss King visited various medical institutions and was given opportunity by the physicians in charge to pursue her studies. Although on a serious subject, the novel is said to have a vein of humor running through it.

Miss King is already well-known as a writer of books for children, of magazine articles and of juvenile book reviews for the New York World and various Sunday magazines. Her A B C Game Book is enchantingly illustrated with sketches by the author. She compiled "The Mirror of Youth, an Anthology of Youth and the Out of Doors," and she has a new volume, "The Land of Wooden Shoes and Windmills,' which will be out soon.

Tennis and horseback riding are her hobbies and she finds time for both, for all her absorption in her writing. Of late she has been several weeks in Atlantic City with her father, Mr. Joseph King.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxim Karolik, who have passed the summer at their home in Newport, spent the first part of the week in New York. They have returned to Newport and will not open their home here until early in November.

Miss Norvell Munford went yesterday to Annapolis, where she will be the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Commander and Mrs. Augustin Beauregard, until the end of the week.

Maj. and Mrs. Beverly C. Dunn, who have made their home at the Wardman Park Hotel, have moved to 2148 Wyoming avenue. The house was formerly occupied by the former Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Hanford MacNider.

Dr. Santiago F. Bedoya, first secretary of the Peruvian Embassy, has returned from New York, where he passed several days. Señora de Bedoya left town last week for California to be with her parents for several months.

Mrs. Mark Ried Yates will present her niece, Miss Katherine Taliaferro Yates, to society in Washington in December. Miss Yates is the daughter of Maj. E. Sears Yates, of the Marines, retired, and Mrs. Yates.

To Wed in November

Bachrach.

MISS ELOISE ROMAN, of Cumberland, Md., who is to be married on November 9 to Mr. Hilery Kenelm Binns.

Another charming recruit to the debutante group is Miss Anne Virginia Ashburn, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Percy M. Ashburn, who will present her formally at a tea dance at the Mayflower on December 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Swift, who have been in China since last spring, will arrive in New York November 12. Mr. Swift went with the Red Cross Commission to observe conditions in China. They had intended to return early this fall, but extended their trip and are on their way from Colombo to Suez, coming around the world. Mrs. Swift was formerly Miss Helen Griffen and is the daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Griffen.

Maj. and Mrs. Paul X. English, formerly stationed at Edgewood Arsenal, have arrived in Washington and have taken the house at 1639 Montague street for the season. Maj. English has been detailed to duty in the office of the chief of the Chemical Warfare Service.

Mrs. Samuel Heald, of the Canal Zone, was the week-end guest of Rear Admiral and Mrs. David Foote Sellers.

Dinner Guests Entertained at White House

Mr. W. L. Ward Ends Visit With President and First Lady.

The guests were Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, Dr. and Mrs. George Vincent, Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sullivan and Mrs. J. H. Large, Mrs. Hoover's sister.

Mr. William L. Ward, veteran Republican leader, of Westchester County, N. Y., a friend of many Presidents, has been staying with the President and Mrs. Hoover. His frequent visits ceased with the Taft administration and he did not return until early in the Coolidge administration.

President Hoover and Mr. Ward are old friends, having met during the war, and the visit is said to have had no political significance, although possibly the chances of New York's electing a Republican governor were discussed. On Tuesday evening, while Mr. Ward was at the White House,

LABOR DELEGATES CHEER MACDONALD

GETS HONORARY DEGREE

Toronto, Ontario, Oct. 16 (A.P.)—Ramsay MacDonald today was introduced as the prime minister of Great Britain to 1,500 cheering delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor but he told them "I am still the old workman I was born."

"The workman is distinguished by his mentality and the ponit of view he had," he said in the first address after his arrival from the United States yesterday. "In great Britain I am a party man. Here today, my friends, I do not represent a party, I represent a whole nation. I have come across the Atlantic as he who for the moment is charged to represent the opinion, the unity, the personality of the House of Commons."

In his convention address MacDonald said an appeal to labor was the proper form in seeking world peace, and in a second address during the day before the Men's Canadian Club he said that while he was not ashamed of being a Britisher and a Scotsman, he felt "there is a broader nationhood in which we all belong."

Receives Honorary Degree.

The addresses were prominent on the prime minister's program for the day, during which he was called to receive an honorary degree from the University of Toronto and to attend a reception by the Ontario government before he and his daughter, Ishbel, and their official party leave on a special train at midnight for Ottawa. At Ottawa MacDonald will discuss with Premier MacKenzie King the part of Canada in the peace moves considered by the prime minister and President Hoover.

MacDonald began the day by appearing before the A. F. of L. At the convention hall he was received by a committee, headed by John L. Lewis, chief of the miners' union, and escorted through a lane of applauding and cheering delegates until he reached the platform.

In introducing the prime minister, President William Green of the Federation, said that labor's sympathies were with MacDonald's efforts to "mobilize the agencies of peace."

Old Days Recalled.

"We knew him in the old days, as the chief of the Labor party," said Green. "We know him today as the spokesman of Great Britain."

"I have been introduced to you in the name of the great office I hold," MacDonald said in acknowledgment, "but I want you to feel that prime minister or not, I am still the old workman I was born."

After being interrupted by applause the prime minister continued:

"On our side, labor is working out a policy of evolutionary means. The revolution we believe in is the revolution of the ballot box. You can make no permanent changes in the construction of nations unless you appeal to the sound moral sense."

Labor bears the burden of war, he continued, adding:

"If there should be another war, the sacrifices and pains of labor will be dealt out not only on the battlefield, it will be dealt out from the bottom of the seas and the heights of the heavens. The civilian population will drop down in the streets and die from mysterious attacks of poison. It is the worker's fireside, the worker's wife and child that come first, that bear the hardship when I think of war.

Comes as Old Friend.

"I come to you as an old friend; as the leader of the labor party in the House of Commons called to a broader field, as one who has gone to a neighboring country to establish understanding, as one who has sought to try to close some chapters of historical misunderstanding."

After MacDonald had spoken his daughter was called upon to talk. "The labor women of England," she said, "sent me off with good wishes and asked me to try to make women understand here how deeply they are interested in this mission of peace."

In his address before a distinguished luncheon gathering at the Royal York Hotel MacDonald said the ever-present problem for Great Britain was development of empire unity, the strengthening of "those intangible bonds of affection and pride" which bind the "children dominions to the hearthstone of the old mother country."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Justice Is Not Blind!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Justice is no longer dispensed by ignorant and individual domination. Another ancient prejudice stands convicted by AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE which insists that a jury "twelve good men, tried and true" decide the facts.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

LABOR TO SUPPORT DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Federation and Rail Groups Urge Pollard Victory in November Vote.

FOLDER PLEA IS ISSUED

Special to The Washington Post.

Gordonsville, Va., Oct. 15.—Following a recent conference with leaders of the American Federation of Labor and representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, announcement is made that these affiliated organizations will support the State Democratic ticket and an appeal, in the form of a folder, giving the reasons therefor, is being circulated among employes throughout the State.

The folder recites that Democratic party leaders and those that will be most active in the legislature next year have become, through the Brotherhood's State representatives, familiar with the fairness and justness of the legislation for which they are asking and are willing to assist them in having enacted laws, passage of which is anticipated for next January or February.

The folder also states that failure to support the Democratic nominees may cost all chance for much needed legislation in 1930 and that nothing save delay in the anticipated program of the Brotherhoods can result by electing to office any, at this time, save Democrats. It cautions against promises by the Republicans or coalition candidates, calling attention to the fact that if the coalition candidates are elected in November, they still will not be in a position to render any legislation not agreeable to the Democrats in the legislature.

The folder concludes with the admonition to voters, especially those who have heretofore voted the Democratic ticket, to remain loyal to the Democratic party, otherwise making possible the nullification of whatever work State officials of the brotherhoods may have done.

Dr. Pollard's reference to his stand on labor as given in his acceptance speech at Williamsburg, is also included in the folder.

Fourth Caesarean Operation Success

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 16.—What local surgeons believe to be a record in the dispensation of scientific medical aid was established at the Martha Jefferson Hospital yesterday when Mrs. S. L. Harlow, who resides in the county, on the old Lynchburg road, survived for the fourth time in six years a Caesarean operation.

Local doctors state that at the second or third operation of this kind the child or mother, or both, usually die.

Three of Mrs. Harlow's children are living, one having died at the age of 1 year. The child which was born yesterday is a boy weighing nearly 7 pounds.

Mrs. Harlow, a diminutive figure, 4 feet 8 inches tall, and weighing less than 85 pounds, was left a widow when her husband succumbed to pneumonia last March 28. Since that time the woman has been supporting her family with the proceeds from a little store.

JUDGE ACQUITS ALL IN ACKER SHOOTING

Court Decides Constables and Youth They Arrested Were Justified.

RITCHIE ASKED INQUIRY

Justifying the actions of all parties involved, under the circumstances of misunderstanding that he believed apparently prevailed, Judge J. Chew Sheriff yesterday dismissed in Hyattsville Police Court all charges against William B. Acker, young Washington law student, and the Maryland constable and his deputy whom Acker charged with assault.

After being stopped near Laurel, Md., on October 4, Acker preferred charges of assault against Constable Walter F. Good and his deputy, Linwood Willie, declaring that he had been fired on by the policeman when he failed to recognize them as officers of the law and refused to stop his automobile at their command.

Good and Willie countered with charges of speeding and reckless driving against Acker, and a hearing of the various charges and counter charges consumed more than four hours in court yesterday.

Judge Frees Law Student.

The testimony brought out that Acker had been hailed by the constables, whom he at first mistook for highwaymen, while they were working on a liquor case, and had attempted to escape.

Judge Chew held that speeding and reckless driving under those circumstances were excusable and dismissed the officers' complaint.

In his charges the young Washington law student alleged that the constable and his deputy had finally forced him to stop his car by firing their revolvers, and that they searched him and his machine at the point of a gun.

In view of the lookout for a liquor car which was known to be in the vicinity and of which the officers had been advised, Judge Sheriff ruled that they had full authority to stop Acker's automobile and search it, and therefore dismissed the charges of assault.

H. R. Baker, of the State Motor Vehicle Commission, attended the trial as a representative of Gov. Albert Ritchie, who had interested himself in the case and ordered a special investigation.

"The affair naturally caused me a great deal of concern," Gov. Ritchie wrote to State's Attorney J. Frank Parran, "because I have felt that the promiscuous and reckless shooting, with its danger to human life, which is so often indulged in by Federal prohibition officers, has not, as far as I recall, been practiced by officers of this State."

Acre of Young Timber Burned in First Fire

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 16.—An acre of young timber in the Natural Bridge Federal Forest area near Snowden was burned over yesterday afternoon in the first forest fire of the season. The fire was discovered shortly after noon and fire fighters from Big Island, Snowden and Buena Vista were mobilized and extinguished it before 4 o'clock.

There has been no rain since October 2 and Supervisor H. M. Sears, of the Federal Forest, urges people going into the forests to be careful with matches and cigarette stubs.

Widow's Home Found In Ruins on Her Return

Luray, Va., Oct. 15.—Last night, when Mrs. John Purdham, living near Stanley, this county, 8 miles south of Luray, returned home from visiting friends, she found her dwelling house and all its contents a smoldering mass of ruins. During the absence of Mrs. Purdham, a widow, and her children, fire from an unknown source broke out in the lower part of the building. When neighbors reached the place and attempted to save the household property they were forced by the heat to retreat.

The scene of the blaze is in a neighborhood that has lost property worth more than $80,000 within the past few years from mysterious fires. Three brothers are now serving terms in the Virginia penitentiary on arson charges in the Stanley neighborhood, where bloodhounds have been used in trailing alleged incendiaries.

FIND OUT THESE 2 THINGS BEFORE YOU PAINT

TO help home-owners make the painting they do an investment instead of an expense, we offer a unique service FREE.

Prominent American architects recently collaborated in preparing a book, in FULL COLORS, which shows what color harmonies go best with every type of home.

Then the famous du Pont laboratories developed special PRE-TESTED paints, varnishes, and enamels to carry out these color schemes.

You can get this expert advice about your home now—at our store. In fairness to yourself, take advantage of it BEFORE you paint. Avoid the two great mistakes so many people make—and regret: wrong color selection—paints that do not "stand up."

Come in today. This du Pont Color Service, which includes the advice of prominent decorators on modern color inside the home, is entirely FREE. No cost. No obligation. Just ask for it.

Rid teeth
of this dangerous, glue-like FILM

TOOTH DECAY is caused by germs. Pyorrhea usually results from germs and tartar. Virtually every commonly known disease of teeth and gums is caused by germ infection.

Germs are imprisoned in a dingy, glue-like coating on the teeth called film. There they breed by millions in contact with the teeth and tissues. Germ-laden film covers every tiny crevice of the enamel.

Film clings so stubbornly ordinary ways are not successful in removing it. You must use the special tooth paste called Pepsodent. Then what a change! You instantly notice the difference in the way it feels. Film vanishes. Teeth become gleaming white. Yet Pepsodent acts gently. No pumice, harmful grit or crude abrasive—but a soft, creamy paste that is prescribed for the softest teeth and tenderest gums.

Write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

With NELSON B. BELL

THOSE Warner boys have thought up a new name for their short-reel Vitaphone subjects. Hereafter they will be known as Vitaphone Varieties, a name they like because it is terse, alliterative and accurately descriptive.

The output for the ensuing year by the way, is to be doubled, 400 of these Varieties being scheduled for production—200 to be made on the West Coast, under the general supervision of Bryan Foy, and 200 in the East, under the supervisory control of Murray Roth.

Among the prominent Broadway stars recently signed up to make Vitaphone Varieties in the East are Bert Lahr, of "Hold Everything;" Fred Allen, of "The Little Show;" Fred Keating, of Murray Anderson's "Almanac;" Ruth Etting, of "Whoopee;" Sidney Toler, of "It's a Wise Child;" Irene Franklin, of "Sweet Adeline;" Jans & Whalen, of "Broadway Nights;" Paula Trueman, of "The Grand Street Follies;" Horace Heidt and His Californians; Bobbe Arnst and Peggy Ellis; Lou Holtz; Eddie Buzzell, Charles Hackett and Chase Baromeo, of the Chicago Grand Opera Company in the first act of "Faust;" George Rosener; Ann Seymour, of "A Night in Venice," and Hugh O'Connell in more Russell Crouse newspaper comedies.

Among the outstanding screen stars who will be seen in Vitaphone Varieties, produced under Mr Foy's direction in Hollywood, are Blanche Sweet, Ann Pennington, Harrison Ford, William Boyd (the stage star who has recently joined the film colony), Helen Ferguson, Johnny Arthur, Alice Gentle (grand opera star), Wheeler Oakman, Geneva Mitchell, John B. Litel, Margaret Fielding, Dick Henderson and many others.

Word comes from the office of John J. Payette, general manager of Warner Bros. interests in the Washington territory, of the wholesale transfer of house managers serving the former Stanley-Crandall circuit.

Charles Grimes is moved from the Home Theater, northeast, to the Avalon, in Chevy Chase; Charles O. Clarke from the Avalon to the Colony, Georgia avenue and Farragut street northwest; R. Wesley Earls from the Colony to the Tivoli, Fourteenth street and Park road; Fred Thomas from the York to the Home, and Walter B. Gersley from the Colonial in Hagerstown, Md., to the York, Georgia avenue and Quebec street northwest.

Stephen B. Ehrlacher, formerly manager of the Tivoli, is now assigned to duties in the executive offices in the Metropolitan Theater Building as assistant to George A. Crouch, a veteran of the original Crandall organization.

Mr. Payette, by the way, yesterday underwent a successful tonsil operation, from which it is to be hoped his complete recovery will be speedy.

We might as well get this all over with at once by adding that William C. Ewing, alias for "Doc," publicist of the Warner Theaters in Washington, is midweeking in New York City, being expected back tonight.

On Tuesday an effort was made in our weak way to point out that one of Charlie Farrell's most attractive qualities is his entire willingness to be himself. The lunch he ordered at the Press Club on Monday might have been cited as an additional bit of evidence—an oyster stew, a pot of hot milk and a small jar of honey!

This seems to be as good a place as any to remind you that next week's attractions in the salons of the cinema will be as follows: Columbia, Gloria Swanson, in "The Trespasser," her first dialogue and song film; Metropolitan, Fay Wray, Clive Brook, Richard Arlen and William Powell, in "Four Feathers;" Rialto, Joseph Schildkraut and Carmelita Geraghty, in "The Mississippi Gambler;" Palace, Conrad Nagel and Leila Hyams, in "The Thirteenth Chair;" Earle, Virginia Valli and Jason Robards, in "The Isle of Lost Ships;" Fox, Lola Lane and Paul Page, in "The Girl From Havana;" Little, "The Romance of Hine-Moa."

Miss Swanson's appearance at the Columbia, incidentally, will mark her first locally since the presentation on the same screen of "Sadie Thompson," the film version of "Rain," a year ago last January—if that is when it was.

The reopening of the RKO-Keith theater on the 19th, 21st, or some other good date, with Bebe Daniels in "Rio Rita," or Betty Compson in "Street Girl," or what have you, seems to be somewhat in the nature of a movable feast—very movable.

And speaking of such, when I met Alex Podnos, former musical director at the Metropolitan, on the street Tuesday, he expressed regret that it wasn't Monday so he could wish me a happy New Year!

Now that Mrs. M. J. Cullen, the former Hazelle Jennings of "Show Boat," has returned home from the hospital to convalesce from her recent illness, the Washington staff of Loew's, Inc., on Tuesday presented the newlyweds with a belated wedding gift in the form of a coffee service, and one thing and another, supplementing the stage hands' earlier gift of linen. The presentation was made by Orangelo Ratto, house manager of the Palace. "Mike" says he never drinks coffee in the morning because he finds it keeps him awake all day.

Boy, my 52-passenger Brill.

Navy Officer Steals Some Houdini Tricks

Commander Charles Churchill Slayton, U. S. N., gave an exhibition of "spiritualistic phenomena" before the Washington Lions Club meeting yesterday in the Hotel Mayflower. He mystified members of the organization with a number of tricks where an unseen finger seemed to write the answer to arithmetical problems.

President Alfred Lawson announced that the meeting of the club next week will be a strictly business session. An instrumental trio—Miss Leila W. Bolls, Miss Lois Potter and Miss Eleanor Hulburt—entertained the club with several selections.

Fellow Police Honor Retiring Veteran

Jackson Edwards, of the United States Park Police force, retired yesterday after more than 30 years of service. Edwards took leave of his fellow officers at a ceremony in the office of Capt. R. C. Montgomery, superintendent of Park Police. He immediatly left for Athens, Ga., where he will make his home. His brother officers presented him with a traveling bag.

Edwards has a long record of faithful service. Col. Clarence Ridley commended him for his patriotism in offering his services to the Postoffice Department when the United States entered the World War.

Reduce the Acid

In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

Hoover Will Speak Thrice Over Radio

Addresses Starting Monday in Trip West Will Make Record for Successive Days—"Who Is Sylvia?" on Air Tonight

For the first time since the advent of radio, if memory serves correctly, the President of the United States will address the Nation on three successive days. The coast-to-coast networks of the National Broadcasting Co. will be utilized.

At Detroit, on Monday night, the President will be heard at 7:30 o'clock, Eastern standard time. He will speak from the Edison Laboratories, where he is participating in the celebration of "Light's Golden Jubilee." Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford will also speak.

In Cincinnati on Tuesday President Hoover will be heard in the morning at approximately 10:30 o'clock. He will speak from Eden Park, where he will dedicate a monument marking completion of the lock system on the Ohio River. This speech will be under the auspices of the Ohio River Development Association.

The Louisville speech on Wednesday night will be made from a boat on the Ohio River and will go on the air at 9:30 o'clock, Eastern standard time. President Hoover will discuss inland waterways in connection with the opening of the Ohio River to navigation.

The National Broadcasting Co. announced that all scheduled features will be canceled to make way for the addresses by President Hoover. Broadcasting lines will be installed at the various points where the President will speak, these lines carrying the Chief Executive's voice to New York studios, to be distributed to the radio stations, including WRC.

Phil Cook will demonstrate his talent when he presents two original humorous skits as features of the Fleischmann Sunshine Hour at 8 o'clock. Cook is recognized by many critics as a blackface comedian of importance, a writer and singer of original lyrics, a philosopher of song and a popular radio entertainer.

Supporting the featured artist during this program are Ben Pollack and his orchestra; Welcome Lewis, contralto; the Cavaliers a male quartet, and Scrappy Lambert, tenor.

Franz Schubert's musical query, "Who is Sylvia?" will be sung by James Melton, the Selberling Singers' tenor, during the program to be broadcast at 9 o'clock. A bass solo novelty, "When Big Profundo Sings Low C," will be presented by Wilfred Glenn.

Selections from "You're in Love," Friml, will open the Melody Moments at 9:30 o'clock. Oliver Smith, tenor, will sing "Down Among the Sugar Cane" and "In the Gloaming."

Overture to "The Bohemian Girl" (Balfe), "Russian Echoes" (Leopold), "Rustic Revels" (Fletcher), "In a Chinese Temple" and "In a Monastery Garden" (Ketelbey), and "Song of India" (Rimsky-Korsakoff)..

A section of the United States Army Band will be presented by WRC at 4 o'clock this afternoon, under the direction of Master Sergt. Kohn. The section will continue to fill radio engagements while the regular band, under the direction of Capt. William J. Stannard, is touring the United States.

Frederic William Wile will present another in the series of discussions of the "Political Situation in Washington Tonight" from WMAL at 8:15 o'clock.

Dr. Charles Abbott, chief of the Smithsonian Institution, and E. C. Crittendon, chief of the electrical division of the Bureau of Standards, will discuss "Edison and Light's Golden Jubilee" from WMAL at 10:30 o'clock.

Weede Meyer and his orchestra will be featured at 11 o'clock, from Wardman Park Hotel.

Terry White, whistler; Elsie Varle Lang, soprano, and Jimmie and Ray, popular songs, will be among the features presented by WOL at 6 o'clock this evening.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

APROPOS the Damrosch school music appreciation concerts, the second of which will be broadcast tomorrow morning, Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, in response to a question addressed to him on the subject, replied:

"I beg to state that since receiving sets have not been installed in the public schools through which radio programs may be heard, no special preparation is being made for the public school pupils to listen in on the Walter Damrosch concerts."

In view of this response, and recalling that Dr. Ballou and the Washington School Board attracted national attention last June by declining to accept a radio set offered as a gift by a parent-teacher association, a telegram was sent to the National Broadcasting Co. in New York asking what the school authorities in other cities were doing to avail themselves of the Damrosch concerts.

The following reply was received:

"Every school in Baltimore is radio equipped and the Damrosch series is now part of school work in schools throughout Maryland. In Atlanta, Houston, Kansas City, Omaha, Providence and Des Moines every school will listen in on series.

"Three hundred and fifty New York school rooms have been equipped to date to receive the Damrosch music appreciation concerts. Likewise the graded schools in Newark, N. J. Letters from all parts of the country indicate that city and State boards of education are cooperating in every way to take the concerts to children and that twice as many schools will be equipped to receive the Friday morning concerts as last year.

"Fifty thousand instructors manuals containing the programs for the entire school course, prepared by Mr. Damrosch, have been distributed to teachers throughout the United States, and an additional 50,000 are being printed."

THE first of the fall series of the evening concerts revealed the fact that Mr. Damrosch's orchestra is in much better form this year than last. However, it appeared that the length of his talks had been considerably cut.

• • • •

MORAN AND MACK, "The Two Black Crows," back on the air after a year's absence, didn't seem quite up to snuff. Their offering has apparently become threadbare.

• • • •

SOUSA, who at times last year sounded a little tired, made a good start this season, despite his recent illness. He will be 75 years old next month.

• • • •

THE static break was against the old home town audience on good reception of Al Jolson singing four songs, for which he was supposed to have been paid $7,500 (real or stage money?) from Hollywood. At that, Al sounded pretty good.

Bebe Daniels was O. K. and Ann Pennington fair, but the surprise to the radio audience is that these movie ladies are able to sing as well as they do. At the conclusion of her number Penny remarked, "If we had television, I'd dance for you, too." Which made us wish we had.

QUITE frequently one hears the voice of Marthin Provenson, formerly of the WRC staff, announcing a program from WEAF or WJZ, in New York, while his brother, Herluf Provenson, follows him on the air to make the necessary announcements for WRC here. They are the only brothers employed by the National Broadcasting Company as announcers.

• • • •

THE funniest act of the week, in our opinion, was Olsen and Johnson during the R-K-O hour. The country fair spieler selling the potato peeler ("Will the Crowd Please Stand Back!") and the story of "Red Riding Hood" as it would be told by Graham McNamee provided a hilarious type of entertainment almost unknown to the invisible audience yearning for a good laugh now and then.

One of their jokes was the question, "What is the difference between Lindbergh and Jimburger?" The answer was "They have both done a lot to change conditions in the air."

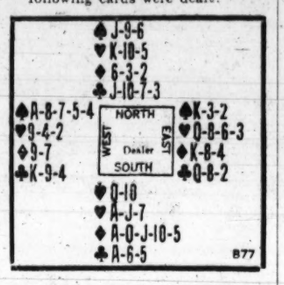
WORK'S BRIDGE

PARTNERS WHO HAVE SADDENED MY LIFE.

IN a Contract game last summer I occupied the North seat when the following cards were dealt:



My partner, South, with a count of 19, bid two No Trumps, and I, with a count of 6, jumped him to three.

At Auction Bridge, South would have obtained the contract at one No Trump, but the play in the two games would be the same.

West led the Five of Spades. East won with the King, my partner playing his Ten; then East returned a Spade, on which my partner's Queen fell, and West ducked. South being in the lead, then led a Heart, winning in my hand with the King, and next tried the Diamond finesse. It won, but it was impossible for the Declarer to put his dummy in for a second finesse and he had to continue the Diamonds from his own hand. East won with the King and led a third round of his partner's Spades. Consequently the adversaries made four Spades and one Diamond, saving game.

Why did I fail to applaud my partner's play?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Noting the lack of entries in my hand, my partner should have created one more by playing the Queen of Spades on trick 1. This would not have affected the number of Spades that we would have taken. Then on trick 2, with the Spades continued and the Ten played from the South hand, if West had ducked (and unless he did so he would not have been able to establish his Spades while one was left in his partner's hand), my Jack could have overtaken South's Ten, giving me hand an extra entry. A Diamond then could have been led and finessed. When that finesse won I could have been put in with the King of Hearts for a second Diamond finesse, which would have resulted in capturing East's King and have given to the Declarer the following tricks: One Spade, two Hearts, five Diamonds and one Club, which would have made game.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF October 17 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 6 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:35 p. m., and from 9:10 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:40 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m.

This date will bring new openings, new ideas and unforeseen developments. An old romance will be renewed, probably through the mails and happiness is ahead of you. Dreams will start to come true.

Children born on this October 17 will have very strong will powers, which will carry them forcefully through all their difficulties. They will be painstaking and methodical, "slow but sure." A commercial life would suit them.

You are neither incompetent nor a slacker, but harsh as the term may seem, you are a born drudge. This applies to both men and women born on this date—whether you are found in the home, office, shop or factory. You are fairly efficient, extremely loyal and morbidly conscientious, but withal you lack a driving ambition. You dig yourself into your job and only grave discomfort over a long period will make you look for something better. You are content to run yourself into a siding.

You have a natural passivity which shields you from attacks of discontent. You hang on to things which should be dropped for merely personal reasons. You fight against tearing up roots and starting anew, although promised richer soil and better growing conditions. A narrow outlook sterilizes your progress. You make yourself indispensable in small ways, but you are dependent-minded and shrink from fresh responsibilities.

You are frank and rather outspoken, but are not in the least malicious. Your love is whole-hearted and is untainted by jealous outbreaks. There is little envy or suspicion in your make-up. On the whole you have a very sweet and even disposition. You break no records, but you stand to all the world a friend.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Black lace shadows pink georgette incrustations on a foundation of black satin. (Courtesy of the Maison Mag-Helly, Paris.)

"THE people of Aegina refused; and the members of an expedition sent against them, attempting to drag away the sacred statues with ropes, were seized with madness and destroyed, one after another, so that only one man returned alive to Athens. This man, recounting the disasters, was surrounded by the women whose husbands had been killed, and each one pierced him with the bodkin that fastened her garment; so that he died under their hands.

"The conduct of these women filled the Athenians with horror, and, as a punishment, they obliged all the women of Athens to give up the Dorian dress which they wore, and instead to clothe themselves with the Ionian tunic, which had no need of any pin to fasten it."

What the people of Aegina refused is beside the point—the point is that the conduct of these women was irrationally stupid and yet gave birth to one of the most intrinsically beautiful garments of all times, the lines of which are agen to this day in our modern garments.

I thought this might interest you.

In our rambles about Europe from time to time we just couldn't help finding any number of quaint and amusing masquerade costumes—for your European can't live without his fete days, and fete days demand masquerade costumes! So this week we just got our sketch-books, gleaned a few of the best ideas, and then designed for you enough to fill an illustrated leaflet right up to the brim—droll, perlicious costumes, which will be good not only for Halloween, but for any other parties during the winter. And you may have them all by sending your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post today.

Oh so lovely, oh so flattering, oh so intriguingly feminine! "Very sheer veils covering eyes are very smart." Mamzelle thus cables us from Paris!

Who else would dare? For 'tis the black satin foundation that has the pink incrustations, and the whole is overlaid with heavy black lace! Now that we have seen Mag-Healy date to make it, we very much want to see some one dare to wear it.

Oh say, this is getting to be more fun, even, than we thought it would! And what a revelation of opinions it is! What's your idea of a fad, a craze, an affectation that has had a very strong hold on the feminine imagination for several seasons now? Just guess what it is. To help you, I can hint that it is a craze for something that has been considered undesirable and even ugly for no one knows how many centuries—and yet is for the moment considered the height of chic. What is it?

Christmas Box Suggestion.

There is nothing like a Christmas gift that can be amusing, interesting and enduringly helpful. Laugh if you wish, but one of the most intelligently thought out Christmas gifts I have ever heard of was one made by a very wealthy girl to her very wealthy dad in the form of a new chauffeur! Dad was having one unsuccessful chauffeur after the other, and she jumped in and interviewed and tried out and trained chauffeurs until she got the right one and then presented him on Christmas morning!

Amusing, but I can think right this minute of one or two very busy and usually tired business men who would positively bless me where I to interview, select and train for them a chauffeur or butler or something of the sort.

Au Revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

TWO VIEWS.

MARY recently wrote us regarding her right as a mother. Mary has a little lamb. The little lamb is a small daughter, aged 6, who "does not care for her father." The father, on the other hand, disapproves of the bored and sophisticated airs of the little lamb and has ordered that she be turned out to pasture, and become natural. Mary is in revolt. She holds that the child is hers, and as a mother she has the right to rear her child as she wishes. Two readers offer views on Mary and her problem.

Dear Miss McDonald—I am the father of a family of three. My wife is my senior by six years. We were married less than a year when the first child came, and from that moment I meant less than nothing to my wife. She just lived for the child. I was delighted to be a father but the way my wife took motherhood was beyond my understanding. She was so jealous of the child's affections, that she really unconsciously made the child shun me.

"When the other children came they pushed me further and further out of the picture. I could never break through the barrier my wife built about her children. Our family is now full grown and I hope you will not condemn me as unfit to be heard in your column when I state that for more than 15 years there has been another woman in my life. If, indeed, my wife could be considered as being in my life at all.

"I have not sought divorce as neither the woman I love nor I can bear the thought of all the vulgar hubbub incident to divorce. We get what comfort we can in friendship and devotion.

"My wife, in all these years, has never cared enough about me even to suspect. Children were all she wanted of marriage. I counted not at all. I offer my experience and the story of a wasted love for what it is worth, and what it may be worth especially to Mary, whose 'perfect little daughter' does not care for her father. Fathers sometimes have feelings, and sometimes seek outside their home the love and affection that should be theirs.

"When women learn that men resent being regarded as purchasing agents, meal tickets and necessary evils, they will have solved the problem of why an otherwise orderly citizen suddenly amazes the community by seeking a change of wife. Let Mary take warning."

Dear Miss McDonald:

Writing to newspapers is not one of my hobbies, but "Mary's" letter made me so "wrathy" I just had to write this. First she says her child is perfect in every respect. Now, neither I nor any one else ever saw a child who was perfect. It seems to me that the child must be one of those "nicey-nicey little girls," and it is Mary's fault. Her father sees this and is trying to "pep" her up a bit. Mary's child must be a great disappointment to her father, especially as he is not blessed with a son.

I have been married a year longer than Mary and have twins, a girl and boy of 9. The girl is a typical tomboy and I am proud of it. However, she has nice manners and behaves very well. She plays with all the boys on the block and may be seen pummeling any one of them. And I am proud of it! Her brother is no "sissy" either.

In the evenings we sit by the fireside and each member of the family tells stories of the type he or she likes best. Jean's are usually full of snakes, lions, bears, &c. And I am proud of it! I'm not a boasting mother, either.

To my mind the thing Mary's husband should do is to take the kiddie into the country and instill a little roughness into her spirit. Mary wouldn't be any worse for this treatment either.

Mary will probably call me a fool for this, but I've said my say. "Pep" up yourself and the child, Mary!

"ANOTHER MARY."

When Winds Blow Too Fast

TWO years ago, while I was traveling over the prairies west of the Mississippi, I noticed a whirlwind from the train window. It was marked out by a black cloud mass, making a person think of a funnel with the small end just about touching the ground.

Funnel-shaped cloud of a tornado.

I wondered what would happen if that whirlpool should strike the train. More than one case is on record where a tornado has lifted a train from the tracks. Luckily, my train was not touched, and when I read the newspapers the next day I did not find any item about damage done by a whirlwind or tornado. No doubt that tornado was like many others which pass over the prairie without striking houses or people—so it did not get its name in the papers!

If a train were going at full speed away from a tornado, the tornado would not be likely to catch up; for the rate of advance is seldom more than 30 miles an hour. The whirling wind in a tornado, however, travels much faster than that. It sometimes speeds around at the rate of from 250 to 300 miles an hour.

The twisting cloud makes a frightful rear as it advances. The landscape is darkened, and sometimes there is thunder, along with lightning and a downpour of rain.

The path of damage is usually less than 500 yards wide, and the tornado is not likely to last more than an hour. It comes and it goes—but what havoc it deals when it touches places where human beings dwell! It may wipe out a village, or it may tear down larger buildings in the center of a city—as happened in St. Louis two or three years ago.

I have seen a tree trunk through which the wind drove the prongs of a pitchfork. That was just one of the many tricks which tornadoes play. Chickens may have their feathers blown off—as if they were being plucked for roasting.

If you saw a tornado coming, you might be tempted to shut the doors and windows; but it would be better to leave them open. The air pressure inside a house, strange as it may seem, is one of the chief causes of damage. That is because a tornado tends to make the outside air very thin, and the air inside a tightly closed house may press outward so strongly as to push out the walls. During such an event, the cellar is usually a good place to disappear to.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

DIZZINESS? LOOK FOR CAUSE.

DIZZINESS is nothing more than a symptom. It is not painful nor does it disturb any one of the commonly recognized sensations. Of itself it in no way endangers life nor interferes with the function of any important organ. Nor does it become important because there is some medicine which we can take to prevent it.

While all this is true, few symptoms are so disconcerting. It ranks with certain sensations around the heart in its ability to incite fear. There are a number of disorders to which it may point. Some are important; others not.

Located deep in the bones of the head, in the region of the ear, is a group of bony tubes, lined by membranes, and filled with fluid. These are known as the semicircular canals. They have to do with the maintenance of posture. They are connected with the hearing apparatus and, in some way assist in the work of that sense. Dizziness is the only language these canals can speak. If everything is right with them the body proceeds in proper position, well poised, balanced and sure footed. Sureness in these particulars is an expression of well being in the semicircular canals. Disturbance there expresses itself by dizziness. A proficient aviator must have semicircular canals that speak in terms of sureness.

The one outstanding disease of these canals is Meniere's disease. In it there is great and persisting dizziness.

In addition to this disease there are many other disorders which express themselves by dizziness. They talk in that language. When the symptom persists efforts should be made to discover whether the cause lies in the semicircular canals or whether it is merely hooked in on that telephone circuit.

Since other parts of the hearing apparatus are certainly on the same circuit dizziness is apt to mean some ear trouble, such as hardened wax, insects in the canal, chronic inflammation of the middle ear, head noises and whatnot. Since the apparatus for vision is a near neighbor dizziness may mean trouble of some sort with the eyes.

The centers for hearing and for equilibrium are located in the brain. The cause of dizziness may be located there. Fatigue, mental or physical, may be the only cause of distressing dizziness. So may constipation or acute disturbance of the digestion of other kinds. It may result in nausea or have the same cause as that symptom. It may be due to arteriosclerosis. It may portend apoplexy.

In any event, a persisting dizziness calls for investigation to find the cause.

PELLAGRA AND OLD PEOPLE.

Mrs. C. F. H. writes:

1. Do old people have pellagra?
2. Is it contagious?
3. What is the remedy for it?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. No.
3. Pellagra can be cured in most cases. The treatment consists in dieting, good hygiene and sanitation, and meeting symptoms as they call for attention.

The diet should be rich in yeast, yeast soups and sandwiches; good lean meat, good vegetables and good milk. These rank in importance in the order given. No whisky or other alcoholic beverages should be indulged in.

SHOULD TRAIN HIS BODY.

Miss J. S. writes: A man 35 years old can not stand to go in swimming on account of the cold water. The second his feet get into cold water his teeth chatter and he gets blue and chilly. Even his bath must not be cool. Is there any way he can get accustomed to getting into cold water, or is it natural for some people to be that way?

When he was a child his mother got him to believe that cold water made him shiver, and I think the idea stuck with him. She never allowed him to go in swimming. I say that his discomfort is mental rather than physical. Or would a weak heart be the trouble? His heart is all right now, but his father died with a weak heart and dropsy.

REPLY.

He should be able to train himself out of this sensitiveness. If he can not, he had better not swim in cold water. There is no great danger to his heart, but he may find that exposure to cold water causes albumin to appear in his urine.

ONLY IN REMOTE WAY.

B. L. F. writes: A says constipation interferes with the growth and B says it does not. Which is right?

REPLY.

B is right. It will interfere with comfort and health, and possibly in that way with growth, but very remotely.

DELUGE OF SELLING BREAKS STOCK LISTS

FALL IN TRADE IS CAUSE

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The secondary reaction, in preparation for which Wall street has been shortening its sales, broke over the stock market with a deluge of selling in the last hour of trading today and sent prices into one of the most precipitous declines of the year.

Bears took advantage of the rather demoralizing industrial news, including sharp declines in steel mill operations and total loadings of revenue freight to launch an attack which sent traders long of stock into hurried retreat and uncovered stop loss orders like strings of fire crackers.

Decline Near Record.

The decline was nearly as severe as that of October 3, which, measured by most price averages and indices, was the sharpest in recent stock market history. The utilities were hardest hit, and carried considerably below the levels reached in the further decline of October 4, but other shares generally failed to reach the low levels of that date by a few points.

The market was dull, as it had been previously this week, until the late selling wave, but that carried total sales to only 4,088,000 shares, compared to 4,747,330 on October 3, and 5,623,900 on October 4. The Standard Statistics Co.-Associated Press price index of 20 utilities tumbled 19.7 points, to 303.4, compared to 309 on October 4, and the record high level of 353.1 reached September 23. The index of 50 industrials broke 7.1 points, to 232.1, as compared to 225.1 October 4, and that of 20 rails, 2.1 points, to 154.9, as against 149.8.

But Some Good News.

The day's news was not altogether unsatisfactory, a few favorable earnings statements and dividend announcements appearing. Johns-Manville reported a substantial increase in earnings during the first three quarters of the year, despite the slump in building activity, and Chesapeake Corporation and Commercial Solvents published satisfactory earnings reports.

Chrysler Corporation reported net equal to only $1.49 per share in the third quarter, as compared to $2.29 in that quarter of last year, but Walter Chrysler stated that this was due to special conditions and pointed to the corporation's balance sheet showing an even stronger financial position than at the end of the previous quarter.

Electric Storage Battery directors proposed a 100 per cent stock dividend and a distribution of surplus. Vanadium directors declare an extra of $1.

Regarding the steel situation, Iron Age stated that retrenchment by motor car manufacturers, pending introduction of new models, had reduced steel shipments to this industry to the lowest level in eighteen months, and added that this sharp curtailment of demand had been too drastic to be offset by heavy railway equipment orders. "The present problem of the steel industry," it continued, "is to adjust itself to a curtailed, although by no means low, scale of activity." The decline in freight car loadings below the level of last year was for the first time since March.

Wheat Drops Four Points.

Rails and oils were better supported than other sections of the list. Chesapeake & Ohio sold up 6 points, then lost most of its gain, 4 and Sun Oil reached a new high. New York Central and New Haven, however, tumbled 5 points each and Lackawanna 7.

In the commodity markets wheat also broke sharply, losing about 4 cents a bushel, in sympathy with weakness in the Liverpool, Argentine and Winnipeg markets. Corn lost about 1½ cents a bushel and cotton declined 15 to 45 cents a bale. Coffee was again under heavy pressure, but rallied somewhat in the late trading.

Foreign exchanges were steady to firm, with sterling cables returning to the maximum level of the year at $4.86⅞.

Beaten From Start by Clever French Featherweight.

ARTHUR "Frenchy" De Beve, former lightweight champion of France, rung up his tenth victory since coming to visit Uncle Samuel when he defeated Bobby Garcia, one-time featherweight contender, by a technical knockout in the seventh round of the feature bout last night at Silver Spring Armory.

Garcia, far from the fighter who beat Honeyboy Finnegan in his prime, sustained a broken nose from one of De Beve's steaming right smashes in the sixth round and was unable to continue in the seventh owing to difficulty in breathing. Bobby was fortunate that the end came as it did, for he appeared due for an actual knockout had the bout gone further.

With the exception of the fourth, when the tough soldier rocked the Frenchman with a vcilous left hook, De Beve clearly asserted great superiority. The winner hit Garcia with everything but the front door and escaped with slight damage to himself.

Garcia Target for Constant Blows.

De Beve outweighed his foe by six pounds, but did not need that advantage. The soldier, boring in all the time, was met by a constant fusillade of rights and lefts which De Beve fired from both long and short distance. Apparently, Garcia knew only one style and trusted in sharp hooks from close range to score his points, but the Frenchman's clever defense caught most of these blows with leather and elbows.

From the point in the first round when the Frenchman sent the soldier spinning to the floor for a count of two, there wasn't an iota of doubt in the minds of the 1,000 odd fans present as to the victor. Garcia's best effort was made in the fourth when he ripped a cut over De Beve's right eye, and thereafter until the finish he absorbed enough beating for two men.

Strickler Wins Slugfest From McFeeley.

Walter McFeeley, favorite of the West End, won the favor of the crowd in the eight-round semifinal with a game exhibition against Billy Strickler, of the Army Reserves. Walt lost the decision by unanimous vote of the judges, but stood toe to toe with Strickler in a final slugging bee after having been widely outpointed in the first seven sessions.

Two technical knockouts preceded the semiwindup with Buddy Eslin, Silver Spring Service Co., defeating Young Rowe, of Fort Myer, and Charlie Marcellino, erstwhile amateur light heavyweight of the Knights of Columbus, stopping Cockrill Finchun, also of the service company. Both were scored in the second round.

Humpty DeCola, Silver Spring Service Co., and Sammy Green, of Fort Myer, slugged to a draw in the opening four-rounder, while Phil Macinish, District National Guard, finished even with Paul Bruen, service company, in another preliminary of four rounds.

TEAM AND COURT READY.

The Saks Trojans Basket Ball Team has a gym available every Wednesday evening from 9 to 10 o'clock, and would like to arrange games with teams in the 140-pound class. Call Manager Sonneborn at District 3050.

New York, Oct. 16.—"What kind of football did your team use to beat New York University, 26 to 0, last Saturday?" I asked Maj. Frank Cavanaugh, coach of Fordham's team.

"They used my own stuff," he said, "the same stuff I used at Dartmouth and Boston College. You do not hear much about my stuff, but you hear a lot about another fellow's stuff, which he took from me and put out as his own."

"Who is that?" I asked.

"You mean Rock?"

"Yeah," he said, I mean Rockne. That Notre Dame stuff is my old stuff."

Eastern Line-Ups Shuffled For Vital Battles Saturday

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—If reports from the football quarters of Eastern Colleges are to be believed, the wave of upsets which started last Saturday is just getting under way. Injuries, weakneses and other difficulties are reported from all sides, while the optimists are few and far between.

Princeton, Harvard, Columbia, N. Y. U., Brown and Bucknell, among others, reported actual or probable changes in their line-ups. The Tigers' coach, Bill Roper, has not decided on a line-up to send against Cornell, but his experiments in today's scrimmage made it seem probable that the team which lost to Brown last week will not remain intact. Harvard's difficulties came from the injury of Talbot, regular right guard, the second major hurt of the week. Bill Tichnor, former holder of the post, was moved back from tackle and Foster Davis promoted to his place.

Charley Crowley, of Columbia, made another test among his candidates for the posts of quarter back and left end. Joyce and Voorhees held the positions in place of Liflander and Costigan as the Lions went through their hardest scrimmage of the year in preparation for meeting Dartmouth.

Dave Myers, all-around Negro star of the N. Y. U., went from guard to quarter back in Chick Meehan's second shift of the week in his efforts to build up his team for the Penn State game. His rival coach, Hugo Bezdek, also did some shifting, sending Tommy Evans to half back in place of Capt. Jack Martin.

The gloom from Holy Cross came from the failure of the regulars to make any headway against a scrub team which used Fordham's defense formations in a dummy scrimmage. The efforts of West Virginia, trying to build up a team after a poor start, were halted by rain.

Army Aerials Working For Harvard Game.

Army, Pittsburgh and Colgate provided the outstanding examples of optimism. The Cadets got their aerial game in fine working shape in their final hard scrimmage before meeting Harvard and scored easily on an augmented scrub team. Pitt had only a light workout before leaving on the first stage of the trip to Lincoln, Nebr., where the Panthers encounter Nebraska Saturday. Colgate's coach, Andy Kerr, kept his first team intact through a scrimmage which wound up the Maroons' hard preparations for meeting Indiana.

NEW SOCCER LEAGUE IS PLANNED

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

PLANS for forming a service soccer league in Washington are rapidly forming under the guidance of Lieut. R. T. Roberts, athletic officer of Fort Myer, and David Adamson, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Walter Reed. Adamson is a veteran soccer organizer in this country, although his native land is in Scotland. In 1914 he started what is now the Pennsylvania Soccer Association.

It is hoped by Adamson and Roberts to form a five-team league which will include Fort Myer, Army Medican Center, Fort Hunt, Fort Washington and Fort Humphreys. It is expected that games will be played on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

If the plans of the two promoters carry, the local service league will sponsor a national championship tourney for service teams early next spring, and preliminary plans to this end are being made by Lieut. Roberts, who is sounding athletic officers of various posts throughout the country.

Soccer Body Favors Proposed Service League.

The Washington and Southeastern District Soccer Associations, controlling body of soccer here and in the South, has gone on record as favoring the formation of the service league and stands ready to aid Adamson and Roberts in every way in bringing a national service championship tourney to Washington.

The association meets tomorrow night in room 2, District Building, and it is expected that the service league plan will be given considerable attention.

With the service league idea formulating, the Washington Soccer League, now about ready for its belated start, and the Capital City circuit already started, the kicking game is well on its way for its fifth season in the District and although but two games have been played in the Capital City League, the first protest looms as the result of one.

Silver Spring to Protest Marlboro Victory.

It is expected that the Silver Spring Kickers will protest the 3 to 1 victory registered by the Marlboro Club last Sunday on the grounds that Marlboro used a substitute, a violation, they claim, of the International soccer rules, which govern the game here.

The case will be considered at a meeting of the Capital City League next Monday night in room 2, District Building, and should the officials of that league uphold the Silver Spring Club, the game will be replayed late in the season.

City Club Mittmen Open Season Tonight

The City Club Boxing Team will open its season tonight by entertaining the crack Baltimore Y. M. C. A. fighters in eleven bouts, to be staged in the City Club Auditorium, starting at 8 o'clock. The main feature will see Al Farrell, Gonzaga football star, meeting Dickson Goldman, class of the Baltimore team, in the heavyweight division, each being entered in the 175-pound class.

Swetman and Stellabotta, City Club men, have both advanced a class since last year and tonight will be seen fighting in the 118 and 126 pound class, respectively. A special attraction of the evening will be the appearance of a group of boys, all under 16 years of age, who will demonstrate what boxing does to the body. Formerly underweight, the boys were kept at a training table for the year, with daily exercises in the gym. They will exhibit the benefits of their training tonight.

Following are the eleven bouts.

(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Lew Fonseca, Cleveland first baseman and new batting champion of the American League, is the "most valuable player" of the league for 1929, based upon the decision of a committee of baseball writers representing each city in the circuit.

At the request of the sports editor of the Associated Press, this committee named by the baseball writers covering the world's series, cast its ballots in the absence of an official selection by the American League, which abolished this year the award it had made annually since 1922. The National League makes its last official selection this year, to be announced later.

The veteran Fonseca won the unofficial contest from contenders in the ranks of the world's champion Athletics because he was rated high on seven of the eight lists prepared by the baseball experts.

Dykes Gets Three Votes For First.

Jimmy Dykes, whose all-around infield play was a vital factor in the success of the A's, was the favorite choice among the Mackmen and finished second in the vote. Al Simmons, Jimmy Foxx and Mickey Cochrane also figured high, causing "split ballots" that kept any one member of the champions from heading off Fonseca.

Fonseca, although receiving only one vote for first place, had three votes for second place, two for third and one for fourth to make up his total of 46 points. Dykes received three ballots for first place and one for second place, totaling 31 points. Simmons was the first choice of two experts, Foxx and Cochrane of one each. Cochrane won the 1928 official award.

Heinie Manush, St. Louis outfielder and runner-up to Cochrane last year, placed third with 26 votes, Charley Gehringer, of Detroit, fourth with 25 and Joe Judge, veteran Washington first baseman, fifth with 24.

Lazzeri Tops Yankee Choices.

Hilltop Foes Baffled by Passes

Johnny Bozek Inserted to Bolster Overhead Game.

By JACK ESPEY.

WEST VIRGINIA WESLEYAN, the opponent of Georgetown at Griffith Stadium Saturday, has shown in previous games that it is not a team to be taken lightly by its foes. The Methodist machine is composed of hardy fellows and boasts a dangerous running attack headed by "Careless Kelly" Rodriguez, an Irish Spaniard, who would rather play the rough, tough game of football than eat.

However, the Bobcats, as Coach Cebe Ross' warriors are called, should not make the visit here the occasion for winning their first game of the season. Georgetown figures to win, if for no other reason than the fine form it displayed last Saturday in beating St. Louis University. There is another reason, though, that warrants the prediction of a Hilltop victory.

West Virginia Wesleyan is weak on defense against forward passes and Georgetown has a passing attack potent enough to beat stronger teams than Wesleyan. It is therefore highly probable that Georgetown will play to the weakness of its foe and consequently gain the decision.

Passes Spelled Defeat Last Saturday.

Coach Lou Little sent the G. U. backs and ends through a passing drill lasting until dark yesterday at the Hilltop. Several new aerial plays were tried out with Johnny Bozek joining Johnny Scalzi, Joe Gardner and Johnny Hudak in the throwing. Bozek's tosses matched his teammates' in every way, which forecast the use of the former Gonzaga High flash on the throwing end of pass plays Saturday.

New York University was stopped in the line by Wesleyan but won through the medium of passes. Last Saturday St. Xavier, of Cincinnati, defeated the Bobcats in like manner. It seemed that the Rossmen couldn't adapt themselves to the modern, open style of game.

Dubofsky Slated to Start at Guard.

More changes in the Georgetown first-string line-up are probable. Maurice Dubofsky, 205-pound sophomore tackle or guard, may be seen at one of the guard positions. He relieved Gene Driscoll in the second quarter of the St. Louis game and carried on superbly in the veteran's place. Hal Meenan, a star of the Hilltop basket ball team, who is playing his first season of football, is likely to get the call for an end berth. His recent work in practice has marked him capable of equaling the efforts of several ends hitherto ranked above him.

Coach Little's squad lost another member temporarily yesterday when Dave Muir, stocky reserve guard, sustained a dislocated shoulder during line scrimmage. He was removed to Georgetown University Hospital and will be out for a week or two.

Mike Hall Runs 13th In Cesarewitch Stake

Newmarket, England, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The experiment of sending Mike Hall, rated as America's premier cup thoroughbred, to England to run in the Cesarewitch Handicap within ten days after landing failed today when the 5-year-old son of Hourless finished thirteenth in a large field of Britain's best routers.

The 2¼-mile test for the $5,000 added purse was won by West Wicklow, a 28-to-1 shot, with Friendship second and Brown Jack third.

Joe Childs, the king's jockey and rider of Reigh Count in his Coronation Cup victory, had a leg up on the American gelding. After drawing up with the leaders at the head of the stretch, Mike Hall faded rapidly out of the picture and was never a factor. He was quoted at 25 to 1 in the books.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 16.—The Alexandria High School Football Team will oppose the Culpeper High in their first district game on Haydon Field Friday afternoon, the game starting at 3:30 o'clock. On the same day George Mason High School will meet Warrenton High School in their first district encounter at Haggett's Stadium.

The Alexandria High gridders will undergo a heavy week of training for their Friday's game. Coach Reynolds again has been forced to shift his line-up, owing to injuries to his players, it now being probable that Capt. Sidney Hancock is lost to the team for the remainder of the season. He fractured two ribs in last week's game, but played through a half without telling any one of his injury.

Carlin Peyton, varsity center last year, who has been out of the game with a sprained ankle, probably will be in his regular berth, and Coach Reynolds has shifted Jim Luckett to full back. He has been doing the team's kicking all season. The balance of the line-up will be announced tomorrow. Officials for the game will be Cahill, referee; Hayman, umpire, and MacDonald, head linesman.

George Mason Hit By Injury to Linemen.

Prex Wilson, coach of George Mason, took his team to Episcopal High School for another scrimmage today against the junior varsity team. He is faced with a real problem for Friday's game, two of his linemen, Schaeffer and Timmons, being out of the game and unable to play Friday. They were hurt in last Friday's game against Woodward. Leslie Scott, captain of the team, will hold down the quarter-back position, while Hicks and Foote will play the half backs, and Mahoney, full back. Hobey O'Meara, central board official, will referee.

Yanks to Learn Manager's Name Today; Giants Sell Andy Cohen; Dicker for Critz

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The end of the world series failed to close the baseball season on Forty-second street where the Giants and the Yankees already are in the beginnings of what promises to be an active winter league season. The Yanks at the moment are in the spotlight's glare because of the impending appointment of a successor to Miller Huggins, but John McGraw's forces are gaining attention through the possibility of acquiring Hughie Critz from Cincinnati.

The end of the suspense regarding a manager to succeed Huggins is promised at nightfall tomorrow. Col. Jacob Ruppert and Edward Barrow broadcast a call to the baseball scriveners to assemble in the Yankee citadel late in the afternoon for an "important announcement." The owner of the Ruppert rifles admitted that a manager would be named at that time—but no sooner.

By a process of elimination, Arthur Fletcher, the former Giant shortstop and present coach of the Yankees, was agreed upon almost unanimously by volunteer guessers who often foretell Yankee affairs with rare accuracy, but the feeling prevailed in other quarters that Col. Ruppert was ready to pull a "Connie Mack" on the boys. The fact that Dan Howley already has been signed by Cincinnati, that Eddie Collins apparently is lukewarm toward the proposition and that Bob Connery is well fixed in St. Paul gives strength to Fletcher's chances.

As for Critz and the Giants, John McGraw admittedly would be glad to get the Cincinnati marvel for any price short of a "whole ball team," which is what Dan Howley doubtless will demand. Sidney Weil, new owner of the Reds, named Critz the other day as one of the men his club would not trade in the building up campaign which was launched yesterday with the acquisition of Harry Heilmann. Weil nevertheless gave Howley a free hand to build and doubtless would approve any trade for Critz agreeable to the new manager.

The sale of Andy Cohen to the Newark Bears today indicates that McGraw has a deal for a new second baseman under way. The Giants could afford to part with Benton and Reese to get Critz, but Howley probably would demand Hogan and Leach in addition. This, McGraw hints, would be far too much. The Giant chieftain also is silent regarding his willingness, or lack of it, to include Benton in such a trade.

Cavanaugh to Resign Fordham Grid Post

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Maj. Frank Cavanaugh is serving his last season as head football coach at Fordham University, he said today.

The kindly major, who has coached at Holy Cross, Dartmouth and Boston College, as well as the Denver Athletic Club, University of Cincinnati and Worcester Tech, simply feels that it is time he was on the march.

"I don't want to die here," he remarked. This is his third year at Fordham and so far his most successful one.

Just where he will go not even he himself knows, he said, but he is not ready to give up football. The eye trouble that handicapped him last season is cured and he feels equal to several more years of active coaching.

The Fordham Team sprang a surprise Saturday by smothering New York University, 26 to 0, in its most notable victory since Cavanaugh took charge.

ANACOSTIA PLAYS LAST.

The Anacostia Eagles Nine will play its last game of the season Sunday when it meets the Ballston Nine of Virginia at Congress Heights, at 2 o'clock. All Eagle players are requested to report.

Juvenile Back Big Figure In Victory

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, JR.

BERNIE BUSSINK started matters auspiciously for the Gonzaga Football Team yesterday afternoon when he ran a Western High School punt back 50 yards for a touchdown in the first few minutes of play at the Benning Road Stadium, and with this lead the big Purple Eleven held its opponents at bay for the rest of the afternoon, walking off with their second triumph in two starts on their new home field, 13 to 0.

The Western eleven played well in its debut, however, and three times repulsed Gonzaga when its goal line was threatened. Jimmy Draper, full back, played a smashing game for the Red and White team and was the offensive star of the afternoon's play. Draper carried the ball for large gains through and around the Gonzaga line, but Coach Mitchell's team always was able to stave off any serious scoring threat.

Although Bussink was a shining light for the victors, the laurels of the game belong in a great measure to Joe Mills, a 13-year-old lad who was playing his first scholastic game of football. This young flash, who was uncovered for the first time yesterday afternoon, has just completed his grammar school course, but the manner in which he played against Western could easily have stamped him as a seasoned high school performer.

Mills Passes, Runs and Kicks With Best.

Mills passed, ran and kicked with the best of them yesterday, and his 15-yard perfect heave to Dunan in the last four minutes of the game provided that young man with the simple means of stepping off the remaining 10 yards to the goal line in an unhampered fashion, so exact was the toss from Mills' hands into an unguarded territory.

Gonzaga's initial score came just after the Western Team had been held for downs on its own 20-yard line. When Draper kicked, Bussink received the ball in midfield, and, skirting over to the side lines, outstepped the whole Red and White Team on a mad dash to the goal line.

From then on it was nip and tuck, with neither side able to inflict much damage. Numerous fumbles early in the game handicapped both. The butter-fingered act cost the gonzags another touchdown just when the making of a third six-pointer seemed imminent.

Youngster Fumbles Ball On 2-Yard Line.

Exhibiting the stanchest stand of the day, the Western line had held the Purple on its own 2-yard line for three successive downs, but just when Mills seemed to be on his way across the goal line, he pulled his only misdemeanor of the day and allowed the ball to slip from his arms into the hands of a Western back. Although Draper immediately kicked out of danger, Dunan took Mills' pass on the next play for the aforementioned 25-yard run and touchdown. Mills then climaxed his brilliant performance by drop-kicking for the extra point.

HOPES for the resumption of the annual Army-Navy football classic were revived somewhat yesterday after Chairman Britten of the House naval committee urged President Hoover to insist that athletic relations between West Point and Annapolis be restored and a game played this year.

Britten suggested that Secretaries Good and Adams call the superintendents of the academies together with an impartial authority on football regulations to adopt a set of rules on eligibility of players—the center of the controversy for more than two years. The annual game hereafter would be played according to the rules adopted.

Chicago Is Proposed As Neutral Field.

To avoid a game this year in the home territory of either institution, Britten proposed that a neutral location be used, preferably Soldier Field in Chicago. He named December 6 as a postseason date, which both teams have open, and said every facility would be made available at Chicago for the teams and student bodies.

Britten said the President, who recently expressed the hope the teams would resume their yearly tilt, showed keen interest in the suggestion. He predicted the game would be played this year at Chicago, where the famous 21-21 tie in 1926 was fought by the service institutions before more than 100,000 persons.

Secretaries Good and Adams have discussed bringing Maj. Gen. W. R. Smith, superintendent at West Point, and Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent at Annapolis, together in the hope that an agreement could be reached. However, they have taken the stand that they would not force teams to play unless an agreement suitable to the Cadets and Midshipmen be reached.

"News to Me," Says Academy Head.

Annapolis, Oct. 16.—When told of statements by Representative Britten, of the naval affairs committee, following his conference with the President, that December 6 and Soldiers Stadium, Chicago, were hinted as the possible date and scene, coupled with the suggestion of settling the differences through the medium of arbitration, Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the Academy, said smilingly, "That's all news to me." Meanwhile athletic authorities here are "standing pat."

MAD KISS OUTRUNS LAUREL JUVENILES AT MILE

Whitney Filly Scores in Gallop

Sir Sweep Spurts at End to Capture Steeplechase.

Special to The Washington Post.

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Md., Oct. 16.—Mad Kiss, one of Harry Payne Whitney's candidates for the Selima Stakes to be run at Laurel on Saturday, had a public trial for that feature at Laurel this afternoon, when she went to the post for the Manor Purse. This was a dash of 1 mile for 2-year-olds, and it was provided as a feature. There were six starters. Senator Camden's Sydney was the public choice and Mad Kiss was one of the outsiders.

A. Robertson had the mount on the Whitney filly and when the start came, he was off with the leaders and in the run around the first turn, dashed to the front and opened up a lead of three lengths. Mad Kiss increased her advantage to six lengths by the time they reached the half-mile pole and it was quite apparent at this stage that she would be a mighty hard proposition to beat.

Mad Kiss Has Big Lead At Turn for Home.

Racing along at the same clip going well within herself, Mad Kiss still had a lead of half a dozen lengths as they swung to the home stretch. Sydney and Partisan were back of her and both were under a drive. In the last sixteenth Mad Kiss began to shorten her stride and as they passed the winning mark her margin had been reduced to three lengths. Sydney beat Partisan a length for the place. Enid, a split favorite with Sydney, finished last. She was a trailer the entire trip.

Buckeye Poet drew away into a commanding lead in the early stages of the first race, a dash of 6 furlongs for 2-year-old maiden colts and geldings. Legere permitted the Bradley colt to step along and rounding the far turn he drew away into a lead of half a dozen lengths. Frumper was back in fifth position. A slow breaker, he could not keep up with the leaders. Straightened out for the final run, Buckeye Poet was still five lengths in front. Frumper was now third. He was settled on his stride and running strong. In the final furlong, Buckeye Poet began to sprawl and Frumper, running straight and true, was gaining on him at every stride. At the end Frumper was still trailing, but the Brawner colt bearer managed to last long enough to stall off his rush to win by a neck. Sistony was third, beaten three lengths for the place.

Smoot's Clever Ride Aids Sir Sweep.

Another driving finish came with the running of the second race. The Hartford Steeplechase Handicap, over the 2-mile course, when Sir Sweep came from behind to wear down the tiring Crumpler. Sir Sweep's margin was a neck, and Smoot, whose ride in Autumn Bells the other day, came in for such strong criticism, put up a rousing finish.

It was due to Smoot's efforts that Sir Sweep won. Using good judgement in the early stages of the struggle, Smoot took Sir Sweep back off the pace. He permitted Polish and Crumpler to race each other into submission and when he made his challenge with Sir Sweep in the last quarter, Sir Sweep had something in reserve to answer his call, while the two leaders were staggering. Polish and Crumpler raced one-two until after taking the twelfth fence when Crumpler passed Polish. Going to the last jump, Smoot sent Sir Sweep up with a rush and Catching Crumpler the pair fought it out to the end. Polish was a tiring third, beaten off four lengths for the place. Patrol fell at the eighth fence.

Hat Brush Gallops Home in Third.

When the start came for the third race, Ebuford refused to join his field and stood still. The assistant starters shooed him away and Ebuford went after his field. At the half mile pole he was racing in fifth position down on the inside, where the footing was deepest. Hat Brush was out in front winging it with a lead of four lengths. Robertson was sitting still on the latter and Hat Brush appeared to be only galloping. At no stage of the trip was Hat Brush bothered and increasing his advantage the remainder of the trip.

He kept opening up until he had a lead of ten lengths at the end. Cogwheel, in a driving finish, just lasted long enough to stall off Sonny Golden to beat the latter out by the smallest of margins for the place. Blue Flag and Elizabeth S. pulled up at the top of the home stretch. Workman had been working like a Trojan on Blue Flag, and the latter simply would not, or could not, improve his position.

Bramabiau proved best in the band of platers that went to the post in the fourth race, a dash of 6 furlongs under claiming conditions. Bramabiau was riden by E. Barnes, trailed off the pace the first three furlongs, and entering the home stretch was taken to the outside. When put to a drive

Two-dollar mutuels paid BUCKEYE POET, $8.00, $4.00, $2.90; FRUMPER, $3.40, $2.30; SISTONY, $3.00.

BUCKEYE POET, moving away into a long lead after the first furlong, went out into the firmer footing, held away until reaching the home stretch and tired badly nearing the finish. FRUMPER, sluggish in finding his stride, worked his way up steadily and closed stoutly for the final issue. SISTONY began slowly, raced wide to reach contention and held on willingly to outlast JOVIAL FRIAR. Latter showed a good test.

SIR SWEEP, restrained off the leaders for the first ten fences, gained fast the last half mile while fencing boldly, finished in determined fashion and outfinished CRUMPLER after the final fence. Latter, hard urged to race POLISH into defeat, tired after shaking the latter off when going to the thirteenth fence.

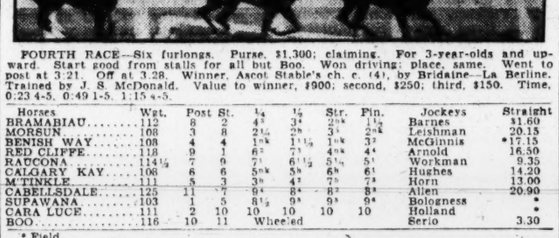
Two-dollar mutuels paid—HAT BRUSH, $41.40, $18.10, $11.90; COGWHEEL, $10.10, $6.70; SONNY GOLDEN, $33.40.

HAT BRUSH, sprinting into a long lead at once, opened up at will during the final half mile and finished with much in reserve. COGWHEEL, placed forwardly in the early stages, responded to pressure and in a long drive just lasted to stall off SONNY GOLDEN. Latter came again after dropping back midway of the back stretch. FERRY OF FATE, well up throughout, held on gamely. INDRA closed full of run.

BRAMBIAU HANDLES HORSE FIRST IN FOURTH.



FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls for all but Boo. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:21. Off at 3:28. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRAMABIAU, $5.20, $4.10, $3.00; MORSUN, $14.10, $9.70; BENISH WAY, $4.60.

BRAMABIAU, at home in the going and racing in near pursuit of the leaders, came with good courage for the final issue, wore BENISH WAY down and had enough left to withstand MORSUN. Latter secured racing room on the inside and finished stoutly. BENISH WAY, with keen early speed, came out into the better footing, but weakened at the end. RED CLIFFE broke well, but was unable to keep in contention.

MAD KISS CAPTIVATES FIELD IN FEATURE.

MAD KISS outran her field going to the first turn, drew out into a lead when settled on the back stretch, was steadied along thereafter and held SYDNEY safe, although tiring, SYDNEY, under pressure all the way, was unable to threaten the winner.

BATTLE AXE CARVES OUT VICTORY IN SIXTH.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place, easily. Went to post at 4:32. Off at 4:34. Winner, Woods Garth's b. g. BATTLE AXE went into an easy lead when MASTER stumbled at the half-mile mark, was steadied along once in front and had speed to spare at the end. MASTER lost command when he stumbled, recovered and finished with good courage. NICODEMUS came on outside and closed willingly. SWEET GENEVIEVE raced evenly.

FIRE CHIEF ANSWERS BACKERS' ALARM IN FINAL.

FIRE CHIEF, a slow beginner, worked his way to the inside of the leaders entering the home stretch and in a game finish, was up in the last few strides. BRAHMAN opened up a winning lead early, was steadied through the final stages and fought it out desperately. CONFIDENTIAL moved up stoutly at the far turn, but lost much ground, only for which she may have been closer.

TECH-EASTERN OPEN SCHOOL SERIES TOMORROW

Hardell Still Pessimistic Over Manual Trainers' Chances.

IT'S a tough life for "Hap" Hardell these days. For the past month, ever since his Tech team went into training at College Park, he has been trying to impress upon followers of that school and the world in general that he hasn't a football team this year and that absolutely nothing can be expected of the Manual Trainers in the impending interhigh series, which opens tomorrow with his own team meeting the highly-touted Eastern Eleven.

But the world refuses to believe him. And the two victories already annexed by the Techites seem to warrant that it had good reason to doubt his pessimism. Tech fans and students seem to think that Hardell is some kind of a magician and that out of nothing, he surely will step forward at the opportune moment and produce a championship. All of which makes "Hap" laugh not a little.

"There's nothing up my sleeves," sorrowfully admits the Maroon and Gray mentor, "and I only wish there were. They said we only used four formations against St. John's on account of the Eastern scouts in the stands.

Only Had Four Plays, Said Hardell.

"But that's not the reason we used only four. That's all we have! The Tech Team is so green this year that it's been able to learn but four plays and if we have any others that we didn't use, I'd like to know what they are.

"I'll say this much. My boys will fight tomorrow and the following Friday against Central and I'm only hoping. I'd like to 'take' either Eastern or Central."

All of which has the entire Tech student body wondering. It is the first time this year that Hardell has expressed a "hope" about anything and if the pessimism has at least begun to disappear Tech has a right to feel encouraged.

Over at Eastern, "Mike" Kelley, though saying little, seems quietly confident. He knows that he has a great team of veterans in his line-up this year and is hoping that they will only live up to their reputation. But that 19-0 defeat administered the Lincoln Parkers by Devitt last Friday has left its imprint and quite a lot of the former prevailing cockiness of the Light Blue and White followers has disappeared.

Coach "Ty" Rauber, of Central, is a wise old owl. When he was making up the Mount Pleasant football schedule for this year he saw to it that opposing scouts would have to travel a long way before learning anything about his team before it entered the scholastic series.

For although Central has already played two games, both have been on foreign fields, far from the eyes of any who might be seeking information about his team for other high schools of the city. The Blue and White's inaugural was played at Baltimore and last Saturday's affair was staged up in New York City. All of which means that, when Rauber's team runs out on the field against Tech one week from tomorrow, it will be seen in action by local fans for the first time.

The former Washington and Lee star, from all reports, has developed a pretty fair combination at the Mount Pleasant school which may be not taken lightly once the series gets under way. The Central squad is made up of a lot of big boys this year not unlike Central teams of old and it should have a lot to say before the matter of awarding the high-school championship is decided.

ST. MARY'S TO DRILL.

The St. Mary's Celtics will hold an important practice Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at Baggett's Stadium, in preparation for their game with the Frederick, (Md.) Professionals on Sunday, who will be met in Alexandria at 2:30 p. m. The Frederick aggregation is considered one of the strongest teams in northern Maryland and should give the Celts plenty of trouble.

However, the team came through in good shape after its 7-to-6 win over the Northern Redbirds last Sunday and is being drilled hard by Coaches Hayman and Goldman for the next clash. The Celtics have a heavy schedule ahead, including games with the Mohawks, Apaches, Richmond Blues and Irvingtons, of Baltimore. Charlie Corbett is booking games and may be reached at Alexandria 564. Several open dates remain on the Celts' schedule.

JOE KIRKWOOD,
Champion Trick Shot Player.

For playing against the wind a low ball, of course, is necessary. The difference between a high and a low ball is in the stance. The ordinary drive is played with the ball in line with the heel of the left foot, but for a low ball you should stand more in front of the ball. This makes you hit more on the downswing.

VA. TRAINING HARD FOR V. M. I.

Cavalier Coaches Reconstructing Line for Cadet Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 16. There is action aplenty on Lambeth Field this week, with the Virginia football squad hard at work preparing to receive Virginia Military Institute on Saturday afternoon. Coach Abel started off Monday afternoon with a dummy scrimmage, which he developed into the real thing yesterday. Today there was a rough workout against a freshman eleven drilled in Cadet plays.

Coach Abel's efforts are now directed toward reconstructing a line that will withstand the shocks of the Cadet drives and developing a back field that can check the overhead attack of the Cadets. In games thus far, the Cavalier defensive play has been far from satisfactory.

On Saturday Virginia will have to hold against the big Cadet full back, Dunn, who leads the Old Dominion "big four" in scoring and stands fourth in total points in all the Southern Conference. If Dunn were the only V. M. I. threat this might not be difficult. But he will be aided and abetted by Capt. Hawkins, Biggs, McCray and Holtzclaw, among others.

Coach Sacrifices "Beef" In Front Line.

Taylor probably will be at center for Virginia, with De Butts and Lankford on either side of him, and Whalen and Day in the tackles. This line lacks the weight of some other combinations, but Coach Abel is willing to swap beef for some other qualities.

Several back field combinations are being used by the Virginia varsity in preparation for the V. M. I. game and not one of the Cavalier backs is certain that he will be in the starting line-up on Saturday.

Coach Abel has one quartet with Moncure calling signals, Faulconer and Kaminer in the halves, and Lewy at full back. There is another with Gravatt directing the team, Bryant and Odenheimer as the half backs and Goldenberg playing full.

Sometimes Thomas has been fitted into one or the other of these assortments and sometimes Sippley has been given a try at generalship. Wilkins, who was hurt in early practice, is back in shape, and he has had a chance to prepare for the reception of the Cadets.

Generals, Mountaineers Primed for Week's Battle

Special to The Washington Post.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 16. West Virginians are anticipating that it is going to be a long afternoon for their Mountaineer gridders this Saturday when they attempt to stop the strong offensive of the Washington and Lee Generals at Laidley Field, Charleston. Under Gene Oberst, new tutor of the grid sport, the Old Dominion University has a veteran back field which has given considerable trouble to the three Wash-Lee opponents thus far this season.

Here in the Mountaineer camp, Head Coach Ira Rodgers has been working overtime with his backs on defensive work against the passes which Oberst's men exploit, while Assistant Coaches Mahan and Meisel have been spending their time drilling with the line in an effort to cope with the forward wall of the Generals, which will be equally as heavy as their own and more experienced.

Mountaineers Bolstering Their Attack.

The offensive phase has not been overlooked by the Mountaineer coaches, however, for it is on this phase of the game that the State eleven has been weakest thus far.

Lexington, Va., Oct. 16.—A different line from that which started against North Carolina State and Kentucky will probably face West Virginia Saturday when Washington and Lee invades Charleston for the annual inter-Virginia grid battle.

Injuries account for some of the expected shifts, while an attempt to speed up the play on the middle sector against the hard-running Mountaineer backs in their center bucks and off-tackle thrusts is the reason for other experimenting in daily drills this week.

With Martin, guard, probably unable to start due to a body injury, Coach Eugene Oberst is expected to withdraw Seligman, his other 195-pound center-flanker, from the fray, and inject on either side of the pivot post Harris and Holstein, lighter men.

Harris, Holstein Figure to Add Speed to Generals.

These last two are short, chunky guards, who have already seen about as much service as Martin and Seligman, but who have not yet started a game paired in the line. Their speed on the offense and alertness on the defense is expected to add the needed fraction of a second to the Washington and Lee charge, and should produce results.

This shift, if made, will result in the existence of a nicely tapered line for the Generals. Groop, rangy center, probably will get first call again, since Snodgrass is not quite ready for battle, and, flanked by two short guards, he will have a line getting taller and heavier as the tackle probabilities, Capt. Hawkins and Hostetter or Bailey, line up. Bledsoe, considered the best defensive end on the squad, no doubt will be on the right end of the line, and Williams, tall flank speedster, is slated for the other terminal job. Day, other leading candidate for left end, is on the injured list and may not see any service this week.

BOBCATS SET FOR G. U. GAME

West Va. Wesleyans Promise Fight Here Saturday.

Special to The Washington Post.

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Oct. 16.—The West Virginia Wesleyan gridders whet their scrimmaging appetites this afternoon with a stiff workout that saw the varsity again pack worlds of power and easily wipe up the field with a strong second eleven. Coach Ross declares his Bobcats ready for the Georgetown University game on Saturday at Washington, D. C.

A light signal drill with a bit of dummy scrimmage to work out all the plays in the "signal bag," will be held Thursday afternoon and then the Methodists will be away for Washington. However, Coach Ross will not select his traveling squad until after the workout tomorrow afternoon. The Cats will depart from Buckhannon at 3 o'clock Friday morning and arrive in Washington at 7 a. m.

Bobcats Promise G. U. Real Battle.

The Bobcats are going to give the Hilltoppers a hard game on Saturday and, if Wesleyan can really get going against one of the big clubs on the 1929 schedule, a big upset is likely to take place. Georgetown has been the victim once this season, at the hands of Western Maryland, and will be amply prepared for any other invasion of the same sort.

On the varsity line today Coach Ross used Newt Anderson and Paul Watson, at ends; Dave Reemsnyder and Bob Fordyce, at tackles; Pifer and Blondin, at guards, and Edmundson at the pivot post. This line-up will be subject to change before the Georgetown game, and Anderson, end; Reemsnyder, tackle; Pifer, guard, and Edmundson, center, are the only ones certain to retain their positions.

Capt. Hen Miller and Cliff Battles will be at the halves, with Forrest Bachtel, at quarter back, and Kelly Rodriguez, the "Spanish Armada," at the full back post.

Rodriguez Seen as Kicking Rival to Mooney.

This backfield combination seems certain to be the battering quartet that will oppose the heavy Hilltopper forward wall.

Kelly Rodriguez will vie with Jim Mooney, giant tackle, for kicking honors. Mooney is one of the greatest in the country, but last year Rodriguez gave him a close run for honors often booting the leather oval for more yardage than the Georgetown tackle.

Dodson, Berger Shifted To Maryland Back Field

Switch From Wing Berths May Be Made Permanent; Improved Work of Forwards on Offense Needed.

TWO revamped ends have been made a definite part of the backfield program at the University of Maryland, where some spotty play behind the line has caused the Old Liners to take two decisive setbacks.

Charlie Dodson, regular end for two years, who did well as a ball toter against South Carolina last Saturday, will be kept on his new job, while Bozey Berger, sophomore, who made good as a wingman, also is being changed over to a pigskin carrier. Berger, who weighs 170 pounds, is fast and clever and is a strong defensive player. He is taking to his new position in fine fashion.

Byrd Hopes to Bolster Front Line.

While Maryland is looking ahead to the game with V. M. I. in Richmond on October 26, it is not going to take the contest with Gallaudet at College Park this Saturday too lightly. However, the game should not be too hard for the Old Liners to take in their stride and allow them to concentrate on the clash with the Lexington Cadets.

Maryland's line play, particularly on the defense, has been of high order, and Coach Byrd feels that if the Old Line forwards can improve somewhat in offensive football he will have a pretty good eleven within the next ten days.

J. Norris has shown well in filling Dodson's old job, and it appears as if Carlis, who was used at right tackle last Saturday to replace the injured Ribnitzki, would retain his berth, although the latter has about recovered.

Maryland's first team lined up yesterday as follows:

J. Norris and Pease, ends; Lombard and Carlis, tackles; Krajcovic and J. McDonald, guards; Madigan, center; Evans, quarter; Miller and Dodson, half backs, and Radice, full back. Heagy is being rested up and will be in Pease's place for the V. M. I. game.

Chalmers Calls Signals On Second Team.

DUKE HOPES TO UPSET NAVY

Special to The Washington Post.

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 16.—The Blue Devils scrimmaged this afternoon, the varsity rehearsing its offense for the big test with Navy Saturday, against the iron men, or the scrubs. The Devils used a varied attack, featuring passes and Jankoski. The little full back is primed for another great performance. He is starting his first game this season and declares he feels better than he has since the 1927 campaign.

Jankoski, however, is not alone in the running attack. The sophomore half back, Flop Beaver, was used often in the running attack as well as a receiver of passes. Beaver may do some of the punting in the Navy game.

There likely will be another scrimmage session tomorrow and then a light workout Friday afternoon before the trip to Annapolis is started. The team is in good shape and its morale is high. It is hopeful of a win over the Middies.

Duke Band and Rooters To Make Trip.

Indications are that a big crowd will accompany the team to the Navy game. Excursion rates prevail and several hundred students no doubt will be on hand to root for the Blue Devils. The band, 60 strong, will make the trip but may go by buses.

Navy has reserved three sections of seats for the Duke party and the Blue Devils' cheering will be well organized for the afternoon. The line-up that likely will start will have Cole at left end; Warren at right end; Capt. Kistler at left tackle, and Carpenter at right; Davis at left guard, and Thorne at right; Rupp at center; Rosky at quarter; Jankoski at full; Buie at left half, and Beaver at right.

Carolina State, Duke Cubs Play Tomorrow

Raleigh, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—North Carolina State's freshman football eleven will open its season here Friday with the Blue Imps of Duke University as the opposition. The little Blue Devils last week scored an 8-to-7 win over the Tar Babies of North Carolina and are reported primed and ready to tackle the Wolflets of State.

Coaches Drennan and Lawrence worked more than 100 rat team candidates for some time, but the squad has been sliced to 60 now. The frosh squad is said to be the best balanced bunch State has had in several years and the outlook for the season is good. After Duke's rats, the State yearlings will face the Freshman elevens of V. M. I., Wake Forest, Davidson and Carolina.

ON VIRGINIA GRIDIRONS

(Associated Press.)

FOR the first time since 1926, Johnny Sloan, Cavalier captain, will watch a game from the sidelines Saturday—and that game is with the V. M. I. Cadets. Sloan has, in fact, started every Virginia game in three seasons except the one with Georgia in 1927 and he played the better part of that. Furthermore, he has played through almost all the games he started. Although his foot is badly injured, the Cavalier chief hopes to be back in action by the time his team meets Virginia Tech November 9.

Four Virginia Tech players temporarily are barred from strenuous training due to injuries suffered in the Penn game last Saturday. Tommy Tomko, Dex Hubbard, Jack Gray and Hal Wimmer are receiving care from Trainer Bob Warren, but are expected to be back in condition in time for the William and Mary game at Richmond this Saturday.

Only once in a series of 24 games has V. M. I. defeated Virginia two years in succession—1922 and 1923. The Cadets, therefore, are eager for a repeater on last year's win. The series score stands Cavaliers, 18; Cadets, 5.

Archie Hahn, Virginia's football trainer, who is also head coach of track, is the only man who ever won three Olympic sprint titles in one meet. At the 1904 games in St. Louis he broke the tape on the 60, 100 and 200-metre dashes. He was also victor in the 100 and 200-metre races in the 1906 games held in Athens, Greece. Coach Hahn's time in the 60 and 200-metre dashes, made 25 years ago, have never been lowered.

King College will face a tricky foe in Lenoir-Rhyne at Asheville Saturday. The Carolina Lutherns use a floating backfield man to add deception to their running attack. And they have been known to send both ends to play dead on the sidelines in an aerial assault. They also broke the scoreless tie with Newberry by this means two weeks ago.

Some Virginia dopester has it all figured out that the Cavaliers will have to be some eight touchdowns better than Yale to beat V. M. I. Saturday. He counts it that Georgia defeated Yale 15 to or two touchdowns plus. The Georgians has previously lost to Oglethorpe 13 to 7, making it three touchdowns. Citadel dumped Oglethorpe 18 to 0, adding three touchdowns to make the margin six. V. M. I. piled on another by turning back Citadel 13 to 7, leaving it at plus seven. The statistical wearer of the Orange and Blue expressed the hope that figures might lie, at least next Saturday.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 16.—Admittedly fearing that Duke may spring something of a surprise and romp off with the bacon, Navy coaches drove their charges through a hard practice session today, every phase of play being stressed, even down to such elementary work as tackling, for the Tars did some loose work in this respect against Notre Dame.

Special attention also was given to developing a stronger and more coordinated running attack, as well as bolstering the right side of the line, Capt. Koepke, hitherto invincible, appears to be in a slump and his place has been given to Chapple, 200-pounder and heavyweight boxer, temporarily at least. Clifton and Bauer, backs, and others, battered by the Irish, are coming along steadily, and should round to form by Saturday. Bauer, in fact, got into today's workout.

Navy Employs Overhead Game More Than in Past.

Local fans are anticipating a spectacular battle, one of the best and hardest fought perhaps that will be witnessed on Farragut Field during the remainder of the season. Navy is employing the overhead game to a much greater degree than ever before, as was evidenced in the Notre Dame fracas, and it also has a bag of tricks, all conceived by the Ingram coaching system.

Duke is also known as an exponent of the aerial offensive, and with a back field that probably will be stronger and faster than any of the Tar combinations, augurs well for a fine exhibition of open play, and tends to clothe the outcome of the battle in doubt, in spite of the Blue Devils' poor showing against Pittsburgh.

In addition to Bauer, the back field today consisted of Kohlhas, quarter; Toth, in place of Art Spring at half, and Tschirgi, understudy to Clifton, at full.

The team engaged first in a hard skeleton scrimmage against the shock troops, including Lieut. Tom Hamilton, former star quarter back, and Midshipman "Whitey" Lloyd, ineligible to play this year, this pair launching forward passes and otherwise emulating Duke's style of play. Later the team was taken through a stiff scrimmage against Tom Wilson's plebes.

Duke Student Body and Band Coming for Battle.

Further indication that the Blue Devils are setting themselves for Navy fight came today when it was announced that practically the entire student body at the North Carolina institution and the student band will be on hand.

Wake Forest, N. C. S. Gridmen Meet Today

Raleigh, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Thursday, "Big Day" of State fair and homecoming week, will be full of attractions in Raleigh.

The day's top feature will be the Wake Forest-State College football game Thursday afternoon and then at night there will be a "Virginia-Carolina" boxing show.

The fair and home-coming authorities have named Thursday "Carolina Day." The salary and wage commission has granted a full holiday to all State employes for Thursday. State College students will have a half or full holiday. Banks, many offices and some business places will close for the whole day or a part of it.

Wake Forest and State will enter their football game about on equal ground.

The boxing matches will be featured by a welterweight bout between George Rohanna, Norfolk, Va., and Cliff Wellons, Tarheel welter artist. In the semifinal Ken Burris, of Wilmington and Fayetteville, will meet Bill Bishop, of Norfolk, and in another bout on the card Bub Spittle, of Charlotte, and Battling Baldwin, of Norfolk, will meet.

Special to The Washington Post.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 16.—Regardless of who wins this coming Saturday's North Carolina-Georgia tilt, which the sports tribe are saying will show the 1929 Southern Conference champs in action, the victory will stay in the ranks of a great family of Notre Dame-trained coaches. For Chuck Collins and Bill Cerney, two of the Tarheel mentors, are both Notre Damers, and so are Harry Mehre and Frank Thomas, the Georgia tutors.

The clash of the two Notre Dame-coached teams, playing the same general tactics, and showing relatively the same potential strength, should be interesting. There is just one difference in the Tarheel and Bulldog attacks. Harry Mehre down in Peachland teaches the Notre Dame system, shift and all, exactly as the master Rockne. Head Coach Collins up in Tarheelia has left the shift off and adapted the system slightly. As to relative strength, one glance at last week-end's results proves the point. After an 89-to-0 victory over Vermont, Yale was hailed the pride of the East. The pride of Peachland upset old Eli, 15 to 0. And the Tarheels upset Georgia Tech's national champions of last year, 18 to 7.

10,000 See Jockey Attack Starter at Frederick Fair

Anger's Entries Ruled Out of Today's Races; Pacing Events to Twinkling Dreams and Miss Brad in Straight Sets.

FREDERICK, Md., Oct. 16.—Approximately 10,000 persons witnessed the races, three harness and two running events, on the card at the second day of the Frederick fair this afternoon. The track was fast and, with the exception of the second harness race, the winners came under the wire in straight heats.

Charles Cushwa, Hagerstown, starter of the running events, had considerable trouble getting off nine runners in the last event. After the race he was attacked by the rider of Broadmoore, owned by J. Anger, Belmont Park, New York, who was ruled out of tomorrow's race.

The first event, 2:18 pace, was won in straight heats by Twinkling Dreams, a black horse, owned by J. C. Penser, Johnstown, Pa. The field of eight got off to a good start and while the winner was pushed by Chestnut Earlin each heat he came under the wire with a safe lead.

The second race, 2:24 trot, was won by Peter Cochran, chestnut gelding, owned by Dr. R. V. Smith, Frederick. Driven by H. The latter took second money, and Lena Francis, black mare, owned by E. L. Mahoney, Lanham, Md., was third.

The third and last harness event, 2:12 pace, was won in straight heats by Miss Brad, brown mare, owned by I. W. Schriber, Tiffin, Ohio.

HIGH-GRADE BONDS BOLSTER MARKETS

CALL RATES ALSO HELP

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—Demand for bonds of high grade continued today and prices of these issues gained strength, although trading was on a reduced scale in this section of the list. Convertibles sagged sharply as the shares slumped. United States Government securities held the advances of yesterday, but showed little activity.

Dealers report an exceptionally good inquiry for bonds from individual investors, who are demanding prime investment obligations. The floating supply of such issues has been so curtailed by months of sagging prices, however, that it is impossible to fill the demand, for holders of bonds bought at higher levels are retaining their investments, especially since the market has taken on some strength. Relatively low rates for call money have resulted in increased buying by investment trusts.

Union Pacific Leads.

The leadership of the rails was taken by Union Pacific first 4s, which soared 1½ points. Lesser gains were made by Atchison general 4s, Northern Pacific general 3s, Burlington general 4s, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s, Missouri Pacific general 4s, New Haven 4⅛s, Pennsylvania gold 5s, New York Central 5s and refunding 4½s and St. Louis Southwestern first 4s.

The maximum decline in the sharefeature group was made by American Telephone 4½s, off 8 points from yesterday's close. American International Telephone 4½s were off 5½, American International 5½s fell 2, Alleghany Corporation 5s, 1949, dropped 1⅛, Atchison 4½s sagged 1½, and Reading Coal & Iron 6s sank 5½. Closing prices were the lowest of the day.

New Haven convertible 6s held to their advance, equaling the high of 137 on a large turnover and finishing at 136 for a net gain of 1½, giving the bonds a rise of more than 7 points this week. Texas Corporation 5s moved within fractional limits and showed no net change.

Industrials Steady.

Industrials were mostly steady. Container Corporation 5s rose 1¼ points, Consolidation Coal 5s and Pressed Steel Car 5s gained 2 each, while Standard Milling first 5s equaled their year's high on a spurt of 4½ points. Fisk Rubber 8s and Goodyear Tire & Rubber 5s also found support.

National Dairy Products 5½s, which have been under steady accumulation for some time, were up another ½ point to 97¼.

The utilities were quiet. American Water Works 5s and 6s, Federal Light & Traction 5s and Northern States Power 5s rose from ¾ to nearly 2 points, while New Orleans Public Service 5s, a recent selling target, soared 5.

In the foreign group gains outnumbered losses. Cuba Republic 4½s went to a new high above 99, while German Republic 7s advanced a full point to 107. Their high for the year is 108. German Central Agricultural Bank obligations were again active, but irregular.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Oct. 16 (A.P.).—An opening advance, promoted by unfavorable features in the weekly report of the Weather Bureau and relatively steady Liverpool cables, was followed by development of considerable of Southern selling and liquidation in the cotton market today. Prices made new lows of the season, December contracts selling off from 18.27 to 18.11 and closing at 18.12, compared with 18.19 at the close of the previous session. The general market closed easy at net declines of 3 to 8 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 8 points, with October contracts selling up to 18.16 and March to 18.64 during the early trading on trade buying and covering.

There also appeared to be some local and commission house buying, influenced by the steadiness of Liverpool. While there was some bullish comment on the weekly report of the Weather Bureau, which spoke of a check to ginning in parts of the Western belt and some damage to the staple in west Texas, also of boll rot and damage to staple in the eastern part of the belt. The demand was supplied by Southern hedging or liquidation on the opening advance, however, and the market later sagged off.

Trade interests were credited with buying considerable cotton during the day, but it was mostly on limits or scale down orders, apparently, while there was some selling attributed to the influenced by weakness in grain or stocks. Lowest prices were reached in the late trading when the new October contract sold at 18.01 and March at 18.50, or 4 to 9 points net lower.

There was a good deal of additional switching from the new months during the day, particularly from December. At the close December was 66 points below May, compared with a difference of 68 points at the close of the previous day.

Liverpool cables said there had been covering and continental buying and less hedge selling in that market, but that sales of cotton cloths were disappointing with buyers scarce.

Exports today, 27,292, making 1,432,809 so far this season. Port receipts, 78,915. United States port stocks, 1,865,758.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

BONE-DRY VIRGINIA, DR. POLLARD'S AIM

MOORE INSISTS HE'S OUT

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Representative R. Walton Moore, speaking at the Democratic mass meeting held at the Washington Lee High School last night and chosen to introduce, as he termed it, the next governor of Virginia, Dr. John Garland Pollard, hurled a challenge at the candidates of the coalition party to point to anything constructive they offfer voters of Virginia.

"The coalition candidates are going over this State and crying out 'you must put out the Democratic party on account of Smith and Rascob!'

"It is an insult to the people of Virginia to think they are going to be frightened by such talk," said Moore.

"It is being said by the candidate for governor on the other side that when I made the statement that I would not be a candidate for office again, I was getting cold feet. I want to say here and now that nothing would induce me more quickly to become a candidate for office again than the opportunity to oppose the outfit of Dr. William Mosely Brown."

Denies He's in "Ring."

"It is being said by Col. Henry Anderson, supporting the coalition ticket, that I am the product of the ring. I have been in public office for more than 40 years and four years ago I did not fail to say I was not in favor of the nomination of Harry F. Byrd for governor because I did not think he was forward enough.

"I want to say now that no one is more proud of the great record that has been made under the leadership of Gov. Byrd than I am. Today Virginia ranks among the foremost States of the Union and is still going ahead. No one is more proud than I am that I am a Virginia Democrat and I predict that next month the voters of Virginia are going to give to the Democratic party the old-time majority."

Amid applause Dr. Pollard arose and, expressing his appreciation of the reception, said: "My opponents are going over the State, declaring I should be defeated on account of my stand on prohibition. Let's see. For more than 30 years I have fought for prohibition and I am today and always have been, both personally and politically, dry. Honestly I am almost afraid to tell you how dry I am.

Backs Byrd's Policies.

"I am thoroughly in accord with the progressive policies which have been brought about under leadership of our great governor, Harry Byrd, and it shall be my purpose, if elected, to continue to carry them on," said Dr. Pollard.

"I am thoroughly in accord with the continued development of our educational system, and if elected governor there shall be nothing to which I shall give more earnest attention than the selection of the new State Board of Education.

"Col. John R. Saunders, Democratic candidate for reelection to the office of attorney general, declared there is no such thing in Virginia as independent candidates. There are two great parties and Col. Henry Anderson or C. Bascom Slemp would not be supporting Dr. William Mosely Brown unless he was the Republican candidate.

"There is but one thing to consider in this campaign and that is, 'Will you vote for a party tried and true and one which has carried Virginia forward or will you vote to put a party in power which knows nothing of affairs of State government?'

James H. Price, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, the next speaker said, said the Democratic party had been in control of the State government for more than a half century and not a single mention of anything that would even lead to fraud had ever been mentioned.

"The only issue in this campaign is whether the progressive policies of the Democratic party shall continue or shall we turn over the affairs of the State to a group of untrained people," said Mr. Price.

Other speakers were Hugh Reid, Democratic candidate for the General Assembly.

The editorial staff of the 1930 annual year book, "The Blue and Gray," of the Washington Lee High School, was completed at a meeting held in the auditorium yesterday with the selection of Dorothy Leighty, as editor-in-chief. The other officers are: Eleanore King, first assistant editor; George Tabor, second assistant editor; Walter Spauls, business manager; Edward Chewning, business manager; Roland Manning, circulating manager; Lorraine Branson, circulating manager; Clement Woodard, art editor; Herbert Bird, art editor, and Ammy Petty, secretary.

The Arlington County Monarc Club will hold its weekly meeting today in the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon at 12 o'clock with President Walter U. Varney presiding.

There will be a meeting of the board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce this afternoon in the board rooms in the Rees Building at Clarendon.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Falls Church Volunteer Fire Department will tonight give a benefit dinner for the department in Odd Fellows Hall. The proceeds will be used to purchase heavy coats for the firemen to wear during the winter months. Following the dinner there will be dancing from 9 to midnight.

The Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association meeting in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce last night unanimously accepted the resignation of the McLean Fire Department as members of the organization. It was learned that the resignation of the department was due to dissatisfaction with the manner in which the association conducts its business.

The Arlington County Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing on the application of the National Oil Co., of Richmond, Va., for a permit to erect an oil storage plant on the N. Auth property, on the Columbia pike, at the county courthouse tomorrow night.

The Aurora Hills Civic League at its meeting last night went on record as opposing the establishment of oil companies or any other industries either on Columbia pike or anywhere else in the county that would tend to depreciate the value of the property. A special committee composed of J. H. Bittenbader, chairman; Mrs. Alice Semones, E. S. Kidwell and Roy Miller will appear before the commission and file the protest of the association.

J. F. Shaw, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was held for the action of the grand jury yesterday by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas. He was later released on $500 bond.

DISCIPLES OF CHRIST HEAR BADER SPEAK

Plans for Conventions in the Capital in 1930 Told at Strasburg.

CHURCH'S AIMS RELATED

Special to The Washington Post.

Strasburg, Va., Oct. 16.—"From Jerusalem to Washington" was the subject of Dr. Jesse M. Bader, Indianapolis national secretary of evangelism of the Disciples of Christ and chairman of the program committee for the nation-wide celebration of Pentecost, which will culminate with two huge conventions to be held simultaneously in Washington, D. C., in 1930, when he made his address this morning at the fifty-fourth State convention of the Disciples of Christ in Virginia, which is being held in Strasburg this week.

The Disciples of Christ are entering upon the last year of a four-year period of preparation for the celebration of Pentecost, declared Dr. Bader. "We are preparing to celebrate the anniversary," he said, "by making a four-fold emphasis in our churches, which, it is hoped, will result in the deepening of the spiritual life of our 1,629,000 members. Ours is the fifth largest Protestant body in the world and the church has gained its present strength in the relatively brief period of 100 years.

"The second point we would emphasize is the training of our membership for service. There are in our church 200,000 Sunday school teachers and 150,000 church officers. Fifty-seven church conferences held this year were attended by more than 5,000 select young people who received valuable training from their experience. Emphasis is also being placed on evangelism. During this year special evangelistic effort is being made in all of our 8,000 churches. A goal of 1,750,000 members has been set as an objective to be realized by June 8, 1930.

"The final point upon which emphasis is being placed is the unification of the Disciples of Christ with the Northern Baptist Church. Already a number of meetings have been held and each group has made reports to the proper authorities. On August 8, 1930, a meeting of representatives of the two denominations will be held at Austinville, Ohio, where 100 years ago the Disciples of Christ took action which resulted in their separation from the mother church."

The two simultaneous conventions in Washington will be held October 14-23, 1930. Virginia will send a large delegation to these meetings, which will be attended by 25,000 delegates representing 25 countries. At that time the $1,750,000 National City Christian Church which is being built at Thomas Circle, Washington, will be dedicated. The project is nearing consummation under the guidance of R. A. Long, millionaire lumberman of Kansas City, who contributed $250,000 toward the cost of the building.

Bond Election Postponed.

Elkins, W. Va., Oct. 16.—A special election on a proposal to issue $135,000 in bonds for a lighting and power plant has been postponed by city council from November 5 to November 26. The postponement was ordered when it was discovered the original date did not permit sufficient time for advertising the proposal as required by law.

Buckhannon, W. Va., Oct. 16.—William E. Canterbury, former editor of the Oak Hill News, has succeeded Charles J. Eib as editor of the Buckhannon Record and is now in charge of the paper. Eib has gone to Terra Alta, where he has taken charge of the Preston Republican, which he purchased recently.

Virginia Studies Billboard Evils

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 16.—Virginia's campaign against ugliness through unrestricted use of advertising signs on her highways will get added impetus this autumn when the special Virginia beautification committee will report to the board of directors of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce. This report will be presented to the annual membership meeting of the chamber, to be held here next January.

Alexander W. Weddell, of Richmond, is chairman of the State chamber's special committee, and for more than a year a study of ways and means to solve the growing problem of indiscriminate use of outdoor advertising has been conducted by its members. The advice of other States, such as Vermont, that have regulatory laws relative to outdoor advertising has been sought, and the methods used elsewhere are being given careful consideration by the committee.

COALITIONIST ASKS RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

STIRRING APPEAL MADE

Hopewell, Va., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—"If the Democrats are sincere in their desire to suppress religion as an issue, let them unite their efforts with those of us who hold ourselves above religious prejudice, and not go on and on agitating the question for political advantage," Jennings C. Wise said in a speech prepared for delivery here tonight on behalf of the coalition candidates.

"It is they," he continued, "who are betraying Jefferson, seeking to spread the smoke screen of religious debate over the vital issues they will not meet. If they do not believe the people of Virginia capable of governing themselves, let them frankly surrender the name of their party and cease cloaking their real convictions with the toga of Thomas Jefferson. As a Republican, I will not abandon his philosophy in favor of that of Tammany."

Electoral System Hit.

Referring to the electoral system, Col. Wise said: "Pitiful spectacle! The Democratic leaders defending an electoral system which was so vile they themselves had to pass a law, making cheating within their own party a crime, as well as cheating their opponents. They are but reaping the whirlwinds of the dragon's teeth they have sown. If you teach Democrats to cheat Republicans, how can you expect them not to cheat each other?

"As Dr. Pollard said in 1917, 'Don't argue with a man who defends such a system, but search his record and you will generally find he has profited from the fraud he espouses.'

"But the time has passed when Virginians generally will tolerate this stain on our honor. This continuing imputation against our moral integrity, and those of us who cherish the good name of Virginia above party demand it be erased.

Stirring Appeal Made.

"Oh, no! My friends. It is not as a Republican I am appealing to you, but as a Virginian. The crusade I am preaching is to enable us to face the world and say: 'Virginia is still the home of religious freedom; our people still believe in their power to govern themselves. We will not betray Jefferson by associating ourseves with Tammany; we will not countenance fraud in any form as a means of maintaining our civilization. We have repudiated those who with consciences untouched, refused to reform a system which the debates in the constitutional convention show was conceived in fraud and designed to repress the popular will.'

"Have no doubt, my friends. Some of the 'Black Satchel Brigade' will be wearing brown stripes soon. An old Democrat with an honored name, which can not be divulged now, is going to furnish the money with which to trace every absent voter's ballot. Meantime, let all those who send in ballots for Brown secure evidence of their vote in advance."

BROWN EXCORIATES SHORT BALLOT LAW

Purcellville Also Hears Coalitionist Score Absentee Voting.

BERKLEY MAKES SPEECH

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Oct. 16.—Dr. William Mosely Brown, independent candidate for the governorship of Virginia, was the principal speaker at a mass meeting held in the Purcellville auditorium here tonight.

Dr. W. D. Sydnor, of Hamilton, presided, and Dr. Brown was introduced by Frank Lyon, state chairman of the anti-Smith Democrats. Music was furnished by the Winchester Orchestra.

Dr. Brown dealt principally with the short ballot amendments, the election laws, the school situation and the connection of the Virginia machine with Tammany Hall. He denounced the short ballot which, he said, deprives the people of Virginia of their right to elect a State treasurer, commissioner of agriculture and superintendent of public instruction, making those offices appointive by the governor. He said that he foresees the time when an even shorter ballot will be suggested and pushed through to victory if the machine remains in power.

Brown attacked the absent voters' law, which gives Virginia voters the privilege of voting prior to the election if they believe they will be out of their home precincts on the date of the election.

Brown asserted that Tammany Hall is an issue in Virginia and that Pollard's primary victory proves it. He said that the Democratic machine deliberately sold out to Tammany Hall and that Tammany Hall does not fit in with Southern traditions and Southern democracy.

He criticized the Democratic regime and the Democratic machine in the State. He summarized the action which his party, if placed in power in the State government, will take to improve the present situation, as follows: That machine politics in the State government be "adjourned" immediately; that the State election laws be radically revised, that the fee system be overhauled, and that politics be taken out of the school system.

Capt. Charles C. Berkley, attorney general, candidate of the Republican and anti-Smith Democratic parties, also made an address in advocacy of Dr. William M. Brown. Berkley's speech was an excoriation of all existing conditions, making specific charges against the Virginia election laws, the public utilities and the commission of game and inland fisheries.

PRODUCE INSPECTION FAVORED IN VIRGINIA

DEMAND IS INCREASING

Richmond, Va., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—"Virginia stands as one of the foremost States in the Union in official standardization and voluntary inspection of agricultural products," says the annual report for the division of markets, State department of agriculture, prepared by director J. H. Meek. The report has received the approval of the board of agriculture and immigration.

"Compared with other States, Virginia ranks sixth in the total quantities of fruits and vegetables officially inspected," states the resume. "Her position has moved from eleventh to sixth in the past four years. Virginia is one of two States east of the Mississippi River to have official inspection of eggs. Virginia is first in the establishment of official orchard or ring inspection for apples, inspection of grading of tobacco and inspection of peanuts.

"These activities have attracted attention not only of officials of other States, but the United States Government and other countries, who have or are making plans to establish similar services on these products. Among the most successful services performed has been the sale of wool and live poultry on the basis of inspection."

Volume Is Doubled.

"The demand for this service, which is in no way forced upon producers or shippers of agricultural products, has grown so popular because of the benefits derived therefrom that the total volume of all products inspected or graded has been almost doubled each year. With a total valuation since starting of a market value of at least $20,000,000, it is estimated that the value of products officially inspected or graded during the coming fiscal year will approximate $10,000,000."

For the year ending June 30, 1929, 11,062 Federal-State certificates have been issued on carlots of apples, white potatoes and similar produce under the voluntary inspection service, according to the report.

"These certificates," says the report, "are prima facie evidence in all United States and Virginia courts, of the grade, quality and condition of the products at the time the inspection is made, and they are used as a basis for sale and adjustment of claims and general guide by those buying an dselling in their transactions."

State Funds Used.

"State funds were used in promoting and supervising this service as it was being developed, but since fruit and vegetable growers and shippers have had the service developed for them first and there is sufficient demand for the service because it is worth more than the costs to almost fully finance the service on fruits and vegetables, State funds available for promoting and supervising inspection work are now largely being used for developing and supervising the service on other products that have not heretofore had the proper attention. The service has reached large proportions on these products produced in sufficient quantities and marketed during a definite period that they can be assembled for inspection at reasonable cost, such as white potatoes, apples and peaches."

Approximately 2,500 bags of peanuts were inspected last year, the first time service had been given on farmers' stock peanuts.

State Certificates Issued.

"State certificates similar to the Federal-State certificates, but issued under State authority only, have been issued on several products," it is stated in the report, "but largely on apples and potatoes, and usually for the purpose of meeting quarantine requirements of other States of the United States and foreign countries against fruits and vegetables from Virginia.

"During the last fiscal year a total of 351 State certificates have been issued. These certificates have made it possible for producers and shippers to sell their products in other States and foreign countries where they could not have shipped them without some similar official examination and certificate."

Barrels of apples inspected for shippers in the last fiscal year totaled 373,313, according to the report, comparing with 217,931 barrels of apples during the previous year.

Chestnut Tree Fated, Forestry Chiefs Say

Special to The Washington Post.

Elkins, W. Va., Oct. 16.—Experiments conducted with the object of perpetuating the chestnut tree, which were at first believed to be successful, have proved failures, according to C. L. Perkins, supervisor of the Monongalia National Forest, and other Government authorities who have studied the problem of the chestnut blight.

The experiments now show that the young chestnut trees display no more resistance to the blight than the older trees and that chestnut sprigs under the larger trees are blighted as soon as they start to grow. The Federal Forestry Service is now trying out plantings and transplantings of the Japanese chestnut to learn whether it is sufficiently hardy to withstand the blight.

Danville City Sergeant Is 78 Years Old Today

Danville, Va., Oct. 16.—Patrick H. Boisseau, city sergeant and one of the oldest officeholders in Virginia, will celebrate his seventy-eighth birthday tomorrow. He expects to be in court most of the day.

He was appointed deputy sergeant in November, 1870, and soon succeeded his brother to the sergeancy, and has held it ever since. S. S. Hurt, clerk of Pittsylvania Circuit Court at Chatham, has held that post for 60 successive years, having been appointed in 1869.

Robbery Prevented By Telephone Girl

Operator Spreads Alarm as Three Men Try to Enter Bank.

Danville, Va., Oct. 16.—Mrs. Mannie Patillo, telephone operator at Yanceyville, N. C., is credited with foiling an effort to rob the Bank of Yanceyville and a store in the same building.

Mrs. Patillo has a suite of rooms adjoining the exchange and remains there at night in order to give night service to a rural constituency, if needed.

Awakened by a sound, she heard efforts being made to force the door downstairs. Three men stood outside beside a parked automobile. Mrs. Patillo began plugging in calls to subscribers, giving an alarm in the hope that the men might be caught. The jangle of the telephone bell, however, alarmed the would-be thieves, who hastened off in their car just as several men from nearby houses were starting on their rescue mission

AGRICULTURE GROUP IN VIRGINIA FORMED

SECRETARY IS NAMED

Richmond, Va., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The Virginia agriculture advisory board today opened active campaign headquarters in Richmond and announced the appointment of G. F. Holsinger, of McGaheysville, as executive secretary. The board represents every large farm organization in Virginia and approximately 50,000 farm members of these groups.

Holsinger will make his headquarters here for the next four months and will conduct the campaign of the agricultural interests for farm betterment. He is president of the Virginia State Farm Bureau, and a member of Gov. Byrd's agricultural commission.

Harvey S. Clapp, of Accotink, president of the agricultural board, in making the announcement of Holsinger's appointment, stated that it was made at a conference of the board in Richmond during the State fair. At this time, Col. B. Morgan Shepherd, of Ashland, was added to the board.

Permanent Farm Relief.

"The Virginia agricultural conference board is not only working for present-day farm relief," Clapp said today in explaining the objectives of the joint agricultural campaign now being waged by agricultural interests of Virginia through his board, "but through education and the extension of work of our colleges and schools to place future generations of Virginians beyond the need of farm relief."

Much of the work planned by the united agricultural interests of Virginia will center around betterment of the rural schools of the State and increasing the facilities of Virginia Polytechnic Institute to conduct extension and experimental and research work.

"Emphasis will be laid by agriculture this year on the expenditure of more money on rural education," Clapp said. "The justification of this policy is that the State will get back the money it expends in this way, because an educated people do more with their opportunities.

Virginia's Development.

"Virginia's development can be fostered by educating its people as well as in any other way. Give Virginia rural sections an opportunity and Virginia will be well paid."

Clapp also called attention to the report of the commission to survey the educational system of Virginia which said that unless the State assists the poorer counties financially in order that their school populations may have opportunities approaching the opportunities in the more prosperous counties, the "poorer sections will become poorer, and a greater burden will be created on the richer sections."

German Night Class Opens at Charleston

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 16.—Some of the World War scars remained a long time here. German is now being taught in the high schools here for the first time since the war, but it is restricted to the night school classes.

The language was removed from the curriculum when this country entered the war. The board of education authorized its restoration in 1927, but there has been no demand for it by students. The class was organized in the night school because of demads by older people, who desired to learn the language so they might further their studies in science and literature.

WOMEN OF FAIRFAX INSTRUCT IN CULLING

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
Clarendon 919-J-1.

The Woman's Auxiliary has been holding poultry culling demonstrations throughout the county during the last three weeks. Arrangements have been made for demonstrations at Woodlawn and several other localities below Fairfax Station.

The champion sweepstakes point winner of the Boys 4-H Club was Marshal Doak, of Clifton Station. Marshal had a fine garden, despite the dry summer, and has many bees, winning first prize among the Bee Club members.

New 4-H Clubs are being organized at Vienna, Dranesville and Annandale, and Fairfax clubs are being reorganized. From indications, the Vienna Club will make an effort to have a larger membership than Floris, which met last Friday and enrolled 21 members.

The Floris Club won nearly $100 in prizes at the county fair, and won the first sweepstakes offered by the County Chamber of Commerce. The Floris Calf Club exhibit at the county fair won much favorable attention. The boys stayed at the fair grounds and took care of their own animals. All club members who have completed four years of club work will be enrolled in the Future Farmers of Fairfax County Club. A number of the Annandale members will complete their fourth year in 1930.

Miss Sara F. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent, will attend a social given by the Home Demonstration Club this afternoon. she will organize a club at the home of Mrs. Louis C. Ferguson at Floris.

The Sharon Chapter of the Eastern Star will hold a card party at the home of Mrs. Carl C. Grimes in McLean tonight. Mrs. Lillian Kefauver and Mrs. Elsie Reed will be in charge of refreshments. Mrs. Nellie Lucas has charge of the prizes. There will be tables for both 500 and bridge.

There will be a meeting tonight in the Vienna School for the discussion of plans for week-day religious education in the public schools of the county. The meeting will be addressed by the Rev. Ralph Watt, pastor of the Methodist Church of Vienna, and Prof. Fletcher Kemp, Arlington County superintendent of schools. This movement is non-denominational and is sponsored by the Fairfax County Religious Education Council. It is planned to secure the services of a teacher for religious teaching.

There will be an all-day meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the Columbia Baptist Church at Falls Church today.

Mrs. Hattie Elgin, Mrs. Buford Bridwell and Mrs. W. A. Dillon comprise the committee that will serve luncheon.

The Falls Church council, at a recent meeting, voted to adopt a levy of $1.25 on each $100 valuation as a town tax rate for the next year. This will be a decrease of 15 cents under last year. While the town rate was decreased, the county and district tax levy has been increased, as the county school levy was increased 45 cents over last year. A 35-cent tax to take care of the interest and sinking fund on the school bonds was also assessed. This will make the residents in the Falls Church portion of Fairfax County pay a total of $4 on the $100 as taxes to the town and county.

W. T. Westcott, chairman of the finance committee, presented the town budget. The estimated expenditures are $3,500 for public schools; interest on school bonds, $3,475; $1,000 for redemption of school bonds; $1,150 for street lighting; $1,700 for town clerk and traffic officer; $500 for contingent expenses; $300 for the public library; $250 for stationery, printing and postage, and $75 for trash removal. Ten thousand dollars is allowed the ward road board. The council also authorized payment of the premium of the bond for the new town clerk and treasurer.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Falls Church Episcopal Church will hold its meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Butterworth. The Junior Auxiliary was recently organized. Ellen Anderson was elected president; Valerie Wheeler, secretary, and Ahne F. Harrington, treasurer. Meetings will be held on the first and third Sunday evenings each month.
